SHOT TO DEATH IN FAR SOUTH SIDE MYSTERY

Auto Salesman Slain Demonstrating Car.

Edward Wolf, 45 years old, an automobile salesman, was shot to death last evening in the vicinity of 95th street and Normal avenue. Although no one in the sparsely settled neighborhood heard shots, the Gresham police early this morning believed they were on the slayer's trail.

Wolf lived with his wife and three children at 10120 South State street. His employer, William McFadden, proprietor of an auto sales agency at 10858 South Michigan avenue, recalled last night how Wolf had briskly entered the salesroom last Monday night with a report on a customer.

Tells Employer of Deal.

"I've got a prospect for that maroon roadster," the salesman told McFadden. "I expect to close the deal Friday night."

Wolf took supper with his family between 5 and 6 o'clock last evening and returned to the salesrooms at 7 p. m. He was in the repair shop when the prospective customer strolled in. Another salesman, Martin Thome, 10204 Lafayette avenue, called Wolf.

Wolf greeted the customer. "You've come about that roadster?" he said, according to Thome. "Climb in and I'll take you for a ride." They left with the stranger at the wheel.

Body Found in Street.

About 45 minutes later Fred Steinwick, a radio salesman of 8827 Dante avenue, was driving west in 95th street with his wife when he saw a man stumbling across a field towards the barbecue stand at 516 West 95th street, the only lighted establishment in the vicinity.

Thirty feet from the stand the man dropped on his face. Steinwick stopped his car, turned the man over, and, perceiving him wounded, called the proprietor of the lunch stand, Mrs. Marie Schmidt, to notify the police. Steinwick drove on before the first police squads arrived but was found and questioned later.

Find Auto in Prairie.

Searching the neighborhood for witnesses, a Gresham police squad found Russell Borrowdale, 8856 Normal avenue, idly inspecting a maroon roadster, wedged between two trees in a prairie fronting on Normal avenue, between 94th and 95th streets. It was the car Wolf had taken out an hour before.

The salesman's body was taken to a nearby mortuary. A .32 caliber bullet was removed from a wound just below his heart. Currency to the sum of $29 was found in his hip pocket, precluding the probability of a robbery motive for the murder, in the opinion of the police.

"I don't know what to make of it," Wolf's widow, Clara, sobbed to Capt. Michael Tobin at Gresham station. "He was a good husband."

4 BOYS HELD FOR SCHOOL THEFTS; ONE CONFESSES

Four youths, one of them a high school student, were being held by the West North avenue police last night in connection with the investigation of four recent robberies in high school buildings. The police said the loot in the robberies totaled nearly $5,000, a large part of which has been recovered from pawnshops.

The boys held are Monroe Bernstein, 17 years old, 2351 North Central Park avenue; Isadore Genow, 16 years old, 1256 North Maple avenue; Alfred Jasinski, 18 years old, 1448 North Fairfield avenue, and Darrell Goldsmith, 17 years old, 1413 North California avenue, a student at the Senn High school. The police said Bernstein had confessed robbing the Senn, Tuley, Schurz, and Evanston High schools and implicated the other three.

Two rings, $1,200 worth of platinum, and a watch stolen from the Senn High school were found in a pawnshop. In the Evanston robbery, $400 was taken from an office safe, while a microscope and other school supplies were stolen at the Tuley and Schurz schools.

Dies of Heart Disease While in Dentist's Chair

Edwin Lee, 29 years old, 224 West 64th street, a chauffeur, died suddenly yesterday of heart disease while under the influence of gas in a dentist's chair in the office of Dr. Ernest Dunn in the Marshall Field Annex, 25 East Washington street. Lee had gone to the dentist's office to have all of his upper teeth extracted.

$15,000 SEIZED BY BANDITS AT GROCERY OFFICE

Four men, one armed with a submachine gun, last night seized Morris Kunin, vice president of Samuel Kunin & Sons, wholesale grocers, and three employés at the door of the grocery office at 347 North Sheldon street, and robbed the office safe of $15,000.

Kunin, with Frank Klaylor, 3339 North Keeler avenue, Theodore M. Osada, 4212 Melrose street, and Nathan Cohodes, 4002 Newport avenue, were leaving the building when the four gunmen appared. Marching them to the office on the second floor, two of the gunmen forced the three employés to lie on the floor while the other two compelled Kunin to open the safe, threatening to shoot him because, in his haste, he twice missed the combination. After robbing the safe they made Kunin lie on the floor with the other three men and drove away.

Three masked men armed with sawedoff shotguns robbed the Arrow Playing Card company, 800 Sibley street, of $150, but missed a $1,200 pay roll because of the quick action of Mrs. May Foss Simpson, 311 North Albany avenue, a forewoman. After robbing the cash register in the office, two of the gunmen went in search of the pay roll, while the third guarded Max Hamburger, the cashier. Mrs. Simpson saw the men approaching and threw the pay envelopes of 50 girls, who were at work in the room, under a table. The bandits left after taking $20 from William Unruh, 1117 North Homan avenue.

WHIM SLAYER'S PLEA REFUSED; TO DIE FRIDAY

August Vogel, "whim slayer," was denied clemency yesterday by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, and unless an insanity petition is filed or some other legal means of escape exercised he will be electrocuted early next Friday morning. The governor acted on the recommendations of the parole board.

Attorney Tyrrell Krum, who has been representing Vogel in the appeal before the governor, but who did not represent him at the trial, was notified yesterday he was unsuccessful. The attorney refused to say whether he would take any other steps to save Vogel, who was sentenced on a plea of guilty by Judge Otto Kerner in the Criminal court. Vogel killed Lyle Perrenoud, a salesman, because their automobiles had brushed together.

Girl of 22 Breaks Two Air Records in Germany

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STUTTGART, Germany, April 11.—Margrete Fysbahn, age 22, today mounted to an altitude of 18,072 feet in her two seated Klemm airplane carrying a load of 1,616 pounds and broke two world's records. Her husband occupied the other seat. She broke the record previously held by the Polish aviator, Zwirke, for that class of plane and that load by nearly 3,000 feet. She also broke the altitude record for women in that class of plane.

State Drops Last of Slot Machine Cases

State's Attorney Swanson's prosecution of what he called the "$1,000,000 slot machine syndicate conspiracy," ended yesterday with the dismissal by a nol pros order of a bribery charge against Frank J. Beran, former police custodian. Twenty-six men were indicted in the case. There has been one conviction, that of Beran, who was later granted a new trial. This was dismissed yesterday.

The dismissal of the Beran case took place in Judge Harry Fisher's court. Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers, who had worked for more than one year in preparing the slot machine cases, told Judge Fisher that the state wanted to dismiss the charge against Beran because it had no witnesses.

Beran Granted New Trial.

Beran was convicted by a jury in his first trial on the bribery charge. Later he was granted the new trial by Judge Otto Kerner on the grounds that the state had failed to present sufficient evidence to merit the conviction and that it could not be sustained in a court of review.

Beran's case was the only one of the so-called slot machine cases to be submitted to a jury. The action of the prosecution yesterday wiped out the former jury verdict.

The slot machine investigation was the first major undertaking of Prosecutor Swanson when he assumed office in December, 1928. For many months he worked under cover, announcing that he was using the government method of getting his evidence ironclad without the aid of publicity. The witnesses were questioned and quartered at hotels at the expense of the state's attorney's office and every one employed on the case was sworn to secrecy.

Six Police Captains Indicted.

Prosecutor Swanson announced on May 1, 1929, that he was ready to announce the result of his investigation. He did so with a series of conspiracy indictments, naming six police captains, Dr. William H. Reid, Thompson political leader, several minor politicians and some well known hoodlums.

"We have not indicted any one except where we can show direct money payments," was the announcement made by Prosecutor Ayers at that time. "We will go on with the inquiry and expect more indictments."

The prosecutor detailed the evidence he said he had obtained, which, he declared, showed payments of thousands of dollars of graft. The syndicate, he said, made more than $1,000,000 in less than one year.

The main case against the politicians and the police officials went to trial last fall. Several weeks were taken up in the selection of the jury. Finally the prosecution presented minor witnesses for several days and then announced that the star witness, David S. Rockola, alleged go-between for the syndicate, would tell the story.

"I refuse to answer on the grounds that I might incriminate myself," said Rockola when he took the witness stand. This statement ended the main portion of the case and the state entered a nol pros order for want of testimony to support the indictments.

Rockola is under a contempt of court sentence for refusing to testify, and was the only man jailed. His six months' sentence, however, is now under appeal to the Supreme court.

South Africa Parliament Passes Female Vote Bill

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, April 11.—(AP)—A bill giving South African women the right to vote was passed in the assembly today on its third reading by a vote of 73 to 34. It will be sent to the senate. The bill extends the vote to women of 21 years and over for elections to parliament and to the provincial council.

GIRL QUEEN MARIE PRESENTS TO SOCIETY FACES FORGER CHARGE

New York, April 11.—(AP)—Arraignment of Winifred Negulesco, American wife of Jean Negulesco, the former Rumanian court artist, who was introduced into Washington society by Queen Marie, on a charge of forgery made against her by her husband in Washington was continued until April 25 today by U. S. Commissioner O'Neill. Her bail of $2,000 was continued.

A copy of the complaint, in which Negulesco charged his wife forged an order permitting her to remove valuable furniture from a warehouse, was introduced, but Commissioner O'Neill ruled that since Mrs. Negulesco had not been indicted a prima facie case must be made out against her.

A bench warrant also was introduced in the proceedings which seek her removal to Washington. She denied the forgery charge and said the furniture she withdrew belonged to her.

Two Chicago flyers last night prepared to take off from Pal-waukee airport early this morning in a search for Ralph Fisher Skelton, Chicago artist and sportsman flyer, who they believe may have been lost in Lake Michigan on a flight from Detroit to Chicago.

At 3 o'clock this morning Skelton was 32 hours overdue here, and his friends feared that he had been forced down on his flight to Chicago Thursday. Clifford Condit, attached to the Pal-waukee field, and Morrow Krum, private flyer and friend of the lost pilot, planned to start the search for him today.

Flies to Meet Appointments.

Skelton went to Detroit several days ago to attend the Detroit aircraft show and took off from a Detroit field at 2 p. m. Thursday. Chicago friends reported that he had been asked to remain in Detroit, but he insisted on making the trip because of appointments here Thursday night and Friday.

Miss Betty Cook, daughter of Raymond C. Cook of 1420 Davis street, Evanston, said last night that she had an appointment with Mr. Skelton to attend a party Thursday night in Chicago.

Maj. R. W. Schroeder, manager of the Curtiss-Wright flying service here, said that Skelton was expected at Curtiss field, near Glenview, to meet officials of the Lockheed Airplane company, with whom he was to discuss his plans to fly the Atlantic next July in a new Lockheed Sirius.

Lake Covered by Haze.

Skelton was last heard from at Ann Arbor, where he stopped to take on gasoline, and departed about 5 o'clock. He had on several occasions spoken of flying straight across the lake, and his friends presumed that he steered a direct course from Ann Arbor to Chicago. A low lying haze lay over the lake and a sharp west wind was blowing when he took off.

Skelton was 30 years old. He had his studio and made his home in the Italian court on North Michigan avenue. He held a private pilot's license, which he obtained last October, and since that time he had spent approximately 200 hours in the air, according to his friends. He was flying his own plane, a tapered wing Waco, powered with a Wright Whirlwind motor. At Pal-waukee field, where his plane was kept, it was said that the ship was in good condition.

ITALY TO OBSERVE "BREAD DAYS" TO SAVE HER WHEAT

ROME, April 11.—(AP)—Tomorrow and Sunday will be observed as "bread days" throughout Italy.

The idea, Premier Mussolini's own, is to set aside a brief period every year for intensive propaganda in favor of bread conservation, so as not to cause undue importation of foreign wheat and other cereals.

Lectures and educational movies will be offered in all the big cities and provincial centers, and small samples of bread and biscuit will be put on sale at a nominal sum. The proceeds will go to the organization "for the orient," whose aim is to promote Italian expansion and penetration in the near east.

SEA PARITY AND A BILLION COST SAVED, HE SAYS

Naval Figures

President Hoover's statement that the United States will save a billion dollars as a result of the three-power agreement is based on these figures: Had we accepted the Geneva proposals of 1927 it would have cost over a billion and a half dollars in the next six years to attain naval parity with Great Britain. Under the just completed pact, he says, the cost to the United States of replacements and new construction in the next six years will be 550 to 650 million dollars. Thus he arrives at the saving of a billion.

The Tribune's London dispatch this morning says that to attain parity in aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers, and submarines this country will have to spend 892 millions in the next five years. This is based on naval department estimates. But 400 millions will be saved in the elimination of new battleship construction, since a five year holiday in battleships is provided.

The London treaty, according to official figures, will save Great Britain 300 million dollars and Japan 200 million dollars, because neither of these nations have to do much new building.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 11.—[Special.]—President Hoover today hailed the three power naval agreement negotiated at London as a huge success, asserting that it represented a saving to the world of two and a half billion dollars in future naval construction.

The President fixed the total savings to the United States at one billion dollars, compared to the sum this nation would have expended had it patterned its navy during the next six years on the dimensions proposed at Geneva in 1927.

Simultaneously with his announcement that a three power agreement had been reached with Great Britain and Japan, Mr. Hoover stated that the pact will call for an expenditure of between 550 and 650 millions on new American naval construction during the six year life of the treaty.

$25,000,000 a Year Increase.

The program would include about 400,000 tons of ships, representing cruisers now building and cruisers, submarines, destroyers, and aircraft carriers yet to be authorized. It is estimated annual expenditures for new naval construction would be increased probably $25,000,000, a total increase of 150 millions in the six year period.

The President asserted that the agreement had been arrived at without entangling the United States in European political agreements and represented an economic saving, which would "give a great stimulus to world prosperity."

"The whole agreement," he said, "is a great step in world peace and an assurance of American parity in naval strength."

Mr. Hoover's Statement.

There was fervor in the tone of the President's voice and a flush on his cheeks as he told newspaper men the results of the conference abroad. The text of his statement follows:

"I am greatly pleased with the final success of the naval arms conference in London, and I have today telegraphed the delegation expressing my approval of the result achieved and my admiration for their patience and determination in an arduous and difficult negotiation. And I wish to congratulate the delegations of the other governments for their constructive and courageous action.

"The most vital feature of its great accomplishments for peace is the final abolition of competition in naval arms between the great naval powers and the burial of the fears and suspicions which have been the constant product of rival warship construction.

Revives Era of Suspicion.

"It will be recalled that prior to the three power treaty at Geneva in 1927, at which France and Italy felt obliged to decline attendance, there was naval competition in all craft except battleships, with constant international friction. Consequently, upon the failure of that conference the rival expansion received even new impulses and resulted in increased international suspicion and ill will through the world and a steady drift to greatly increased navies.

"When I initiated this negotiation it was after a critical examination of the experience before and after the Geneva conference and a determination that the causes of that failure could be met with adequate preparation and preliminary negotiation. At that time we realized, and have realized at all times since, that the particular setting of the continental nations, because of the inseparable importance of land armies in their bearing upon naval strength, together with the political agreements that reduction of such arms implied, made a five power agreement extremely improbable, as the United States could not involve itself in such agreements.

Praises France and Italy.

"The French and Italian governments have shown the utmost good will in this conference in endeavoring, in the interest of world peace, to support the present solution just as far as they could do so, and they have joined the present agreement in important provisions.

"It is difficult to estimate the precise reduction in war craft tonnage which has been brought about by this agreement because of the factors of normal replacement and additional tonnage authorized but not yet constructed. Nine battleships are to be scrapped of a total of about 230,000 tons, the replacement of 16 or 17 others to be deferred for six years.

Other Categories Vary.

"The various navies in the agreement are to reduce some 300,000 to 400,000 tons of other categories in the next few years as they become obsolete, but some categories of some of them must be increased in order to come up to the standards set. The net balance will be a very considerable decrease in the world's actual tonnage as it stands today.

"The economic importance of the accomplishment can best be measured in terms of the situation developed at the Geneva conference. That conference broke down upon the feeling of the British representatives that it was necessary for them to create or maintain a navy of a total of nearly 1,500,000 tons. Their pre-war navy was much larger than this. The American delegates were not able to agree to this basis, as it implied such a huge amount of naval construction in the United States that it was hopeless to expect public support and it meant a perpetually inferior navy.

Suggestions at Gevena.

"The British suggestions at Geneva were approximately:

"1. Maintain the battleships as provided in the Washington treaty, of which the British battle fleet then stood at 606,000 tons and the American battle fleet at 525,000 tons.

"2. Aircraft carriers as in the Washington treaty, at a maximum of 135,000 tons.

"3. A cruiser tonnage of about 450,000 tons in 70 cruisers.

"4. Although actual figures were little discussed the conversations appear to have indicated a destroyer tonnage of about 225,000 to 250,000 tons, and a submarine tonnage of about 75,000 tons, or a total fleet of nearly 1,500,000 tons on a British basis, or 1,420,000 American basis, owing to our inferiority in battleship tonnage through the Washington arms treaty.

"If this fleet had been adopted as the basis of parity, it would have cost the United States somewhere, upon different calculations, from $1,400,000,000 to $1,750,000,000 for replacements and new construction to attain it, with greatly increased maintenance costs.

Terms of Present Pact.

"The present agreement calls for parity of American and British fleets of approximately:

"1. A battleship basis to each of us of about 460,000 tons, but no replacements for the next 6 years on either side.

"2. Aircraft carriers, as in the Washington arms treaty, at a maximum of 135,000 tons.

"3. A cruiser basis of 339,000 tons if the United States exercises the option of the same types as Great Britain, but if the United States builds a larger ratio of the large cruisers, our tonnage would be 323,000. It represents a reduction of about 20 ships on the basis of the British cruiser fleet.

"4. Destroyer tonnage of 150,000 tons and a submarine tonnage of 52,700 tons each.

"That is a total fleet basis of, roughly, about 1,136,000 tons (slightly less if we build the larger cruisers) as compared with about 1,500,000 ton British basis of the Geneva conference. This shows a reduction of about 364,000 tons below that basis to the United States and Great Britain and a proportional reduction to Japan.

Britain Scraps 4 Cruisers.

"In bringing this about the British scrap four 8 inch gun cruisers and 5 battleships, while we scrap three battleships, thus bringing about parity in battleships, which was not attained in the Washington agreement. The Japanese navy under the proposed agreement will amount to something near 800,000 tons. These results are to be arrived at by scrapping, by obsolesence and by construction in some categories prior to 1936, when a renewed conference is to take place.

"The cost to the United States of replacements and new construction during the next 6 years until the further conference will be (under various estimates) from $550,000,000 to $650,000,000 as compared to a sum, as I have said, of between $1,400,000,000 to $1,640,000,000 to attain parity on the Geneva basis. To this latter would need by added the additional cost of maintenance and operating, which would make the saving upon the present basis as compared to the Geneva up to one billion dollars in the next six years.

Other Signatories Benefit.

"The savings are not alone to the United States, but to Great Britain and Japan as well. The total saving to the world is perhaps $2,500,000,000 below the Geneva basis, to which the world was steadily drifting. This sum devoted to reproductive enterprise will be a great stimulus to world prosperity.

"There are no political undertakings of any kind in the present treaty except an agreement for the regulation of the conduct of submarines against merchant ships in time of war. The whole agreement is a great step in world peace and an assurance of American parity in naval strength."

Basis of Opposition.

Opposition to ratification of the treaty will be based on the submarine, cruiser, and battleship sections of the pact. "Big navy" men assert that the treaty does not give the United States actual parity, because it leaves Great Britain with the best battleship fleet, thanks to her possession of the superbattleships Rodney and Nelson, and a large tonnage in cruisers.

The action of the American delegation in surrendering to the British demand that this country's 8 inch gun cruiser be limited to eighteen and to the Japanese insistence on parity in the submarine class loom as the major stumbling blocks to senate ratification. Some opposition to delaying replacement of all battleships for six years may also develop.

Building to Be Rushed.

One of the first results of the treaty is expected to be a general speeding up of naval construction and particularly resumption of work on five cruisers, suspended last summer by President Hoover. The army and navy appropriation bills, delayed pending treaty action, will go forward. The general board will begin formulation of the new naval building program. This will include such new 6-inch gun cruisers as will be built under the treaty as replacements for the five 8-inch gun cruisers which will be stricken from the naval program; 50,000 tons of destroyers; 24,000 tons of submarines, and possibly a certain number of aircraft carriers. Work will go forward on the sixteen 8-inch gun cruisers now building, three submarines, and one 13,500 ton aircraft carrier. The cost of completing work now authorized is set at 332 millions.

Under the treaty the United States would have eighteen 8-inch gun cruisers and from seventeen to twenty 6-inch gun cruisers.

LONDON NAVY PACT WILL BE SIGNED NEXT THURSDAY BY ENVOYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 11.—The final phase of the naval conference is now on, and by next Thursday it is expected to be completed. On that date the final plenary session has been fixed for the signing of the proposed three and five power treaty, which has now become known in conference circles as the "three-fifths treaty."

The heads of the delegations met this morning at St. James's palace and appointed a committee of jurists, to be assisted by experts, to draft the treaty. The committee began work within five minutes after the adjournment of the "big five."

The conference chiefs also decided to hold a plenary session on Monday to receive and adopt reports from the first committee on various technical matters to be incorporated in the treaty.

If the treaty is not ready for signature by Thursday the delegates will work through the Easter holidays, as Mr. Stimson is anxious to sail on the Leviathan on April 22. It was announced today that the Leviathan would be held up a full day or 36 hours if necessary to allow the American delegates to sign the pact.

BRITISH SAVE 300 MILLIONS

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 11.—In the next five years, the British taxpayer will benefit to the extent of between $291,600,000 and $340,200,000 from the three power naval treaty to be signed next week.

This was announced tonight by A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, in a speech at Sheffield, in which he calculated the reduction in tonnage and maintenance which Great Britain would be enabled to make.

Gives Word of Warning.

One word of warning was uttered by Mr. Alexander—that the reductions, to some extent, would be dependent on what was done by powers outside the treaty. This is covered by a safeguarding clause, which was introduced on the insistence of the British admiralty.

"We have now arrived at a complete agreement with Japan and the United States on all classes of ships, and what is most important to remember, upon very much lower figures than the proposals at the Geneva conference in 1927," Mr. Alexander said. "Take cruisers, destroyers, and submarines together. The total figure for the British Empire and the United Statese proposed in 1927 was 590,000 tons each, plus a 25 per cent overage, which gave a total of 737,500 tons.

Points Out Reduction.

"The agreement at which we have now arrived with the United States for these categories of auxiliary ships provides for a total of 541,700 tons by 1936, which shows a reduction under the Geneva proposals of 195,800 tons.

"The United States figure is now 523,200 tons, as compared to the 737,500 tons proposed at Geneva, showing a reduction of 211,300 tons.

Total Saving Is 521,300 Tons.

"In auxiliary tonnage, therefore, the reductions of the three powers combined, as compared with the proposals on which the conference broke down in 1927, are no less than 521,300 tons.

"Another great movement has been the rectification of the world tendency to build the largest size cruiser permitted under the Washington treaty. Last year the American authorized program in eight inch gun 10,000 ton ships was not less than 23 and the British not less than 20.

"Today we have definitely agreed that the maximum number of ships in this class shall be 18, 15 and 12, respectively, for America, Great Britain and Japan.

"The expenditure which would have been incurred in the laying down of the new replacement of battleships under the Washington treaty would have involved at least $243,000,000 up to 1936. In addition we shall make a saving of more than $19,440,000 in maintenance charges in respect to the five battleships to be prematurely scrapped.

"In the case of submarines the fixing of a maximum tonnage in the agreement with the United States at 52,700 tons will mean that we shall save in construction up to 1936 about $16,524,000. It is a safe estimate, therefore, that up to 1936 the saving involved by the three power treaty will be at least between $291,600,000 and $340,200,000."

SCIENTIST SEES FLIGHT TO MOON IN NEXT CENTURY

New York, April 11.—(AP)—Prediction that man will fly to the moon within the next 100 years was made by John Q. Stewart, associate professor of astronomical physics at Princeton university, in an address tonight at the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences.

The first obstacle to be overcome is that of developing a speed of 25,000 miles an hour, the professor said, which means production of fuels more powerful than coal, gasoline, dynamite, or any other source of energy now available.

The one theoretically feasible method of making the journey to the moon, Stewart believes, is a vehicle propelled on the principle of the rocket. He visions a ship built in the form of a large sphere, 110 feet in diameter, weighing 70,000 metric tons, and carrying a crew of 60 and a dozen scientists.

CATCH 2 YACHTS CARRYING COSTLY EASTER LIQUOR

Bayshore, L. I., April 11.—[Special.]—Nearly 2,000 sacks of assorted liquors valued at more than $100,000, were seized by coast guardsmen just inside Fire Island inlet early this morning when two expensive yachts loaded with "Easter cheer" attempted to skip through the inlet past two coast guard boats. Both rum boats, the Commodore and the Harmony, were badly damaged by gunfire.

The Commodore, the first sighted, refused to heed the first warning to stop or the first few shots fired after it. When the craft became badly crippled, it stopped and the boarding party found 1,000 sacks of liquor.

While the patrol boat was chasing the Commodore, the Harmony attempted to slip through the inlet. Another chase ensued in which a large number of shots were fired. About 800 sacks of assorted liquors were found.

British Save 300 Million, Japanese 200 Million.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 11.—Whether the London naval conference has written a treaty for reduction or increase of navies is already a matter of debate. On one hand Secretary of State Stimson claims that the American navy will be reduced by more than 30,000 tons and the American taxpayers will be saved $400,000,000 by the postponement of further battleship building for five years.

On the other hand, it is contended by critics of the proposed treaty that it actually involves an increase of the American navy to the extent of 56,000 tons, and that the cost of building up to the limits fixed in all classes of ships, if such permitted building is undertaken, approximate $900,000,000.

(According to Washington dispatches the discrepancy between the American naval estimates mentioned by Mr. Henning and the figures used by President Hoover is due to this fact: The naval experts in London, in figuring that the building program would be 900 million, are figuring that all vessels would be replaced as they reached the age limit of their class. Mr. Hoover is figuring only on replacing the oldest ships in submarine and destroyer classes on the theory that at least 91,000 tons of American destroyers now here so well preserved in dry dock that they will be available for another eight or ten years. The cost of replacing the 135,000 tons of destroyers and 30,000 tons of submarines which will pass the age limit during the next six years would amount to approximately 500 million dollars. Mr. Hoover at present does not anticipate replacing 100,000 tons of destroyers of 300,000 tons of submarines, which would cost approximately 300 million dollars to replace.)

Britain Saves $300,000,000.

The British navy will not be materially affected by the limitation of tonnage which were previously untaken. The existing British tonnage in each class of ship is substantially the maximum fixed by the treaty for Great Britain and America. Great Britain will need to do practically no building and will save $300,000,000 through postponement of battleship replacements scheduled by the Washington treaty to begin next year.

Japan will reduce its submarine fleet by 25,000 tons, but otherwise will retain its present tonnage intact and will be raised to a ratio of 70 per cent of the American and British auxiliary tonnage, compared to the 60 per cent it accepted at the Washington conference. Japan will need to build a few ships to replace obsolescent craft, and will save upward of $200,000,000 on battleship replacement in the next five years.

U. S. Faces Big Building Program.

America is the only one of the leading naval powers that will do any extensive building if it desires to bring its navy up to the maximum tonnage levels fixed by the treaty.

Mr. Stimson's calculation that the United States will save $400,000,000 in the next five years is based on the extension of the battleship building holiday by the treaty. Under the Washington treaty, America would be required to lay down ten battleships, at a cost of $40,000,000 each, in the next five years or lose the right to possession of every ship it might fail to build in accord with the schedule.

However, while America escapes the necessity of spending $400,000,000 on battleships, it faces the necessity of expending $112,000,000 to bring its aircraft carrier tonnage up to the proposed treaty limit of 135,000 tons, $180,000,000 on eight inch gun cruisers, $131,400,000 on small cruisers, $364,000,000 on destroyers, and $105,000,000 on submarines, an aggregate of $892,400,000. These are the navy department's estimates.

This huge outlay is required due to the fact that the United States failed to build cruisers while Great Britain and Japan were building gradually, and to the fact that 130,000 of the 150,000 tons of destroyers and 30,000 of the 53,000 tons of submarines America is allowed by the proposed treaty will become obsolete within five years and will need to be replaced.

The cruisers America shall be required to build will exceed 175,000 tons.

Stimson Includes Obsolete Ships.

In calculating that the American navy will be reduced by 200,000 tons, Mr. Stimson includes in the present navy not only ships built and building but ships provided for but not yet laid down, and obsolete ships that the navy department has ordered scrapped. On that basis the American navy consists of 18 battleships, aggregating 532,400 tons; 4 aircraft carriers, with a total of 90,086 tons; 23 eight inch gun cruisers, totaling 230,000 tons; 12 six inch gun cruisers, totaling 90,615 tons; 309 destroyers, totaling 307,115 tons; 124 submarines, totaling 90,810 tons, or an aggregate of 1,341,026 tons.

Under the proposed treaty America's navy would include 15 battleships, totaling 462,850 tons; 8 aircraft carriers, totaling 135,000 tons; 18 eight inch gun cruisers, totaling 180,000 tons; 17 six inch gun cruisers, totaling 143,500 tons; 125 or more destroyers, totaling 150,000 tons; 60 or more submarines, totaling 52,700 tons, or an aggregate of 1,124,050 tons.

Washington Cut Greater.

Under the proposed treaty America's navy will total 216,976 tons less than its present navy, according to Mr. Stimson's calculation.

Critics point out that this showing is made chiefly by the reduction of the battleship fleet to the extent of 69,550 tons; of 100,000 tons of cruisers still on paper, and half of which are not to be built at all; of 20,115 tons of ancient cruisers; of 16,851 tons of overage destroyers, and of 12,810 tons of obsolete submarines.

If ships not yet laid down and obsolete ships are eliminated from the reckoning, the reduction produced by the proposed treaty is only 13,440 tons. If no treaty is signed here America's battleship fleet will be reduced from 18 to 15 ships between 1934 and 1936 under the Washington treaty. So, if the battleship tonnage reduction is charged to the Washington treaty instead of the London treaty, the agreement reached here actually increases our navy 56,110 tons.

2 COUPLES, GREAT GRANDPARENTS, DENIED DIVORCES

Two sets of great-grandparents yesterday appeared in the divorce courts seeking to dissolve marriages which had weathered the golden anniversary. In one case Circuit Judge Feinberg refused to grant a divorce and entered a decree of separate maintenance. In the other Circuit Judge Lynch threw the bill out of court because of an error.

Mrs. Mary Ohlson, 75 years old, 641 North St. Louis avenue, appeared before Judge Feinberg. She charged that her husband left her Nov. 10, 1924. The husband, Joseph Ohlson, also 75 years old, 639 North St. Louis avenue, contested the action.

The Ohlsons were married in Oslo, Norway, Dec. 26, 1876. They have four children.

After hearing the evidence the judge invited the pair into his chambers where he tried to effect a reconciliation. They refused to be reunited.

Before Judge Lynch, Mrs. Sarah Kochman, 75 years old, 1259 South Central Park avenue, asked for temporary alimony in her divorce suit against Herman Kochman, 76 years old. She charged cruelty. The Kochmans were married in Russia in 1875. They have seven children, thirty grandchildren, and 3 great-grandchildren.

Election Judges Freed; No Evidence of Fraud

Two election judges of the 42d ward, who were arrested by the state's attorney's detectives on Thursday night, were liberated yesterday. The prosecutors said they could not produce any election fraud evidence against the men, Benjamin Hatton, colored, 1116 Larrabee street, and Russell Cusimano, 1152 Townsend street.

Mercury Dropped 38 Degrees in an Hour by Wind Freak

Shifting winds, which played pranks with official thermometers around midday yesterday, were finally adjusted to the northeast quarter from off the lake in the afternoon and they then brought an end to a 36 hour heat wave. From a maximum of 90.2 degrees at 3 o'clock the temperature dropped to 47 degrees at 9 o'clock.

While cooler weather was general last evening over the central and southwestern states, farmers still faced the danger of crop losses from drought, particularly in South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri. Fires swept parched prairies in Indiana and Iowa.

From a minimum of 67 degrees at sunrise, the temperature in Chicago rose steadily all morning, attaining a noon mark of 89 degrees at the University of Chicago weather station, where a hot southwest wind still prevailed.

A breath of coolness was discernible in the loop and north shore towns, however, as eddies of a rising northeast wind came in from the lake. The noon temperature at the federal building was 69 degrees, 20 points below that at the university station eight miles south. At 2 p. m. the temperature at the university was 90 degrees.

The break at the university came a minute after 3 o'clock. A quick shift of the wind sent the mercury skidding from 90.2 degrees to 72 degrees within four minutes. Within the next hour the reading had declined to 52 degrees. The forecast called for cloudy and continued cool weather today.

Forest fires occurred yesterday near Decatur, Ind., and in Johnson county, Ia. A hundred acres of timberland was denuded by the Indiana blaze, which finally was checked by employés of Decatur furniture factories. Numerous grass and brush fires were reported elsewhere in Indiana.

The villages of Shueyville and Solon, Ia., were threatened for a time by a fire which swept 200 acres of timber in Johnson county. A hundred farmers conquered the flames after thousands of dollars' damage had been inflicted.

A thunderstorm broke over eastern Iowa late in the afternoon, banishing the heat wave which reached its peak yesterday noon in a temperature of 94 degrees at Cedar Rapids.

Light rains were general yesterday over South Dakota, but in Kansas, southwestern Missouri, Oklahoma and sections of Texas, abnormally high temperatures and hot winds continued to parch farm and pasture lands, according to the Associated Press. The Kansas City weather bureau predicted cooler weather for today.

RUTHVEN TELLS U. OF M. PLAN TO TEACH ALUMNI

New President Addresses Graduates in Chicago.

Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, the new president of the University of Michigan, last night outlined the university's new program of education for its alumni—a plan by which graduates will be kept abreast of the new developments in science and knowledge. He spoke before 200 members of the Chicago Alumni association of the university. The dinner was held in the gold room of the Congress hotel.

While the program so far is largely an experiment and unfinished as to the details, President Ruthven stated that the university is considering the use of the radio, motion pictures, and educational publications in bringing the latest developments in the arts and sciences to the alumni.

Experiment on Program.

"My theory in educational methods is one of pure science," he said. "I have no panacea or cureall for every ill of higher education, but believe that problems should be studied without bias. We shall try out a number of suggestions before any announcement is made of the details of our program."

The first step in the plan, he said, will be the creation of a department for alumni relations whose duty it will be to discover the needs of the alumni. He announced that a special curriculum for an alumni school has been created and that the first sessions of the school will be held after commencement this year.

The university also is considering the creation of a bureau to obtain employment for alumni, President Ruthven said.

"Graduates Better Trained."

"The graduates of this year are better trained than the graduates of a year before because they have the advantage of knowing the latest developments in education," he said. "Our plan is to keep the alumni from backsliding and stagnating mentally.

"In the matter of social codes we have attempted to leave as much as possible to self-restraint of the students themselves. Our only ruling that has caused much discussion is the ban on autos. Drinking exists at Michigan, but no more than among the rest of the populace."

Benjamin F. Buck, first assistant superintendent of Chicago public schools, acted as toastmaster at the meeting. George F. Hurley, chairman of the Chicago alumni, presided.

BRITAIN REPORTED BUILDING NEW 'ROBOT' TERROR—AIR TORPEDO

LONDON, April 12.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—The Daily Mail this morning says that "the most appalling weapon of war ever devised by man, defying all defense and raining merciless death from the skies," is now being forged in secret in England.

This new war terror, says the Mail, is a giant airplane torpedo operating with out a crew, its engine and course controlled by clockwork and its hull a receptacle for bombs.

The clockwork control is set beforehand to operate at a certain moment and a specific place. On arriving at the appointed moment, the engine stops and the whole machine with its deadly load crashes to the earth.

BEER MAKER CONVICTED BY FEW DECIMALS

Marquette, Mich., April 11.—(AP)—A few decimals on the wrong side of the prohibition law brought about the conviction of Sheriff John S. Johnson of Gogebic county today in federal court on charges of manufacturing and possessing beverage containing more than .5 per cent alcohol.

Sheriff Johnson, owner of a bottling plant at Bessemer, was indicted as responsible for the manufacture there of beer by John Seeke, who took charge of the plant when Johnson took office in 1927.

Government chemists testified that brew seized in the plant showed 1.36 to 2.29 per cent alcohol. Johnson declared that if such were the case Seeke had not followed his instructions on how to make near beer. He said he had specified a quarter teaspoon of sugar as the correct portion per bottle. A defense chemist testified that that formula would produce near beer with the legal alcoholic content of .46 per cent.

Seeke testified, however, that Johnson's directions were to use "one-fourth to one-half a teaspoonful of sugar." John Matchett, government chemist, made beer in court under Seeke's direction and reported today that it tested .86 per cent alcohol.

Pair Accused of Keeping Man Drunk Bring Suit

Mrs. Carolina Vig, 728 Briar place, who sued Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Katz of North Riverside for $25,000, charging them with alienating the affections of her husband, Lingvald, by keeping him intoxicated for eight years, yesterday was made defendant in two slander suits of $50,000 each. The actions were filed in the Superior court by Mr. and Mrs. Katz. The declarations, drawn by Attorney George L. Pilkington, say the statements made by Mrs. Vig are false.

NEW YORK HOUSE VOTES 80 TO 62 FOR DRY REPEAL

Senate Adjourns Without Acting on Measure.

Albany, N. Y., April 12.—[Special.]—The New York state legislature adjourned soon after 1 o'clock this morning with a final and futile attempt in the senate to pass the Cuvillier bill, previously adopted by the assembly, in which the legislature memorialized congress to repeal the prohibition amendment.

Passed in the afternoon in the assembly, hitherto rated dry, by a vote of 80 to 62, with 21 Republicans voting wet, the measure was sent to the senate. There it was referred to the judiciary committee, which, much to the surprise of its opponents, since the committee has a Republican mpjority, acted immediately and reported the measure favorably.

Rules Are Suspended.

The Democrats then moved that the bill be advanced to third reading under a suspension of the rules. For this unanimous consent was necessary. Senator Brown, Republican, of Schenectady, who was a wet last year, but turned dry to sponsor the state dry law enforcement bill in the senate this year, objected. This blocked consideration of the Cuvillier bill. But supporters of the measure did not give up the fight.

Just before the final gavel fell in the senate Duncan T. O'Brien, one of the Democratic members from New York City, tried his hand at a parliamentary move to bring the Cuvillier bill out of general orders.

To the surprise of all in the crowded senate chamber the senate leader, after all the business of the senate and the closing amenities had been concluded, moved that the senate go into committee of the whole. Senator O'Brien immediately moved the Cuvillier bill, which then was advanced to third reading.

Need Unanimous Consent.

The air in the senate chamber became tense. Senator O'Brien, however, had overlooked the fact that unanimous consent would be required to have the senate return to the order of business where bills can be passed.

The senate leader, Senator Knight, permitted the advancement of the measure and then reminded the senate that its business had been ended and that nothing was in order except to adjourn. The motion was carried without dissent from the crestfallen Senator O'Brien. This killed the Cuvillier bill for good.

HOME OF VOLSTEAD VOTES 3 TO 1 AGAINST DRY ENFORCEMENT

New York, April 11.—[Special.]—In St. Paul, Minn., Andrew J. Volstead, author of the famous act which is supposed to enforce the 18th constitutional amendment, is legal adviser to the federal prohibition forces. Today the Literary Digest reported that its wet and dry poll in that city to date shows that the combined moist and wet vote in St. Paul is more than three times the vote for enforcement. DIXIE METHODIST CHURCH, CANNON FACE LOBBY QUIZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 11.—[Special.]—Representative George Holden Tinkham [Rep., Mass.] today announced that when the lobby committee reconvenes next week he will demand that its inquiry into the activities of dry lobbies and lobbyists be extended to include Bishop James Cannon Jr. and the Methodist Church, South, Board of Temperance and Social Service, which he heads.

Assurances already have been given, Tinkham asserted, that unless Cannon or spokesmen on behalf of the organization appear with records and correspondence to answer the charges to be made by the Massachusetts congressman, subpoenas will be issued compelling them to produce the board's books and files.

Tinkham, testifying before the senators Wednesday and Thursday, attacked the Northern Methodist Church Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals and the Federal Council of Churches as "ecclesiastical lobbies," striving to dominate the entire government, and had laid the groundwork for a similar indictment of the Anti-Saloon league when the committee adjourned until next Tuesday.

Resuming the stand when the committee completes its examination of H. H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, Tinkham will complete his case against the league and then offer a mass of evidence to support his contention that Cannon and his organization have sought to dictate congressional and executive action.

Cannon, a director of the Anti-Saloon league, whose marginal stock speculations through a New York bucket shop created a nation-wide sensation when they were exposed a year ago and whose wartime speculations in flour were denounced by President Hoover, then food administrator, as "food hoarding," is en route to the United States from Africa.

Months ago Dr. Rembert G. Smith, a Methodist pastor at Washington, Ga., charged that Cannon diverted some of the church dry board's funds to finance the anti-Smith campaign in southern states. Cannon denied the charge, explaining that he had borrowed some of the board's funds.

ROB BANK, KILL, RUN GANTLET OF FIRE AND ESCAPE

Piqua, O., April 11.—(AP) Posses tonight pushed their search for bandits who held up the City National Bank and Trust company this morning, took $6,000 in currency, and escaped after slaying one man and wounding three others. The bank has offered $1,000 for the capture of the thieves, and Miami county commissioners have supplemented this with a $5,000 reward.

They were pursued by a hastily organized posse, headed by Chief of Police Gekle and Sheriff Mathews. They drove north from Piqua on the Dixie highway, running the gantlet of gunfire from citizens along their route. The posse followed them to Sidney, O., but lost the trail at Fort Loramie when an overheated motor set fire to the sheriff's automobile and destroyed it.

Reports vary as to the number of robbers. Seven men are said to have driven up to the bank shortly after 10 o'clock, four of whom went inside, scooping up cash from the cages after disarming guards posted in the lobby and forcing employes to lie on the floor.

Henry Mathew, 40, brother of the sheriff, was wounded fatally by a bullet through his heart when the robbers' weapons swept the street, riddling windows and electric signs.

Bodies Strewn for Half Mile Along Tracks.

The accident was the worst in the history of western bus transportation. The train sideswiped the stage as the driver tried frantically to swing it clear of the oncoming locomotive. The terrific impact so mangled the bodies of the victims that late today identification of three had not been made. Ten persons were injured seriously.

Two survivors said the driver slowed up but failed to stop at the crossing. The bus was bound from Los Angeles for Denver.

Demolished by the collision, the bus was ignited by flames starting from the gasoline tank and the bodies of the victims were shorn of clothing by the fire.

Two bodies and parts of the bus were carried 200 yards by the speeding train, which was unable to reach a stop until a half mile past the scene of the tragedy.

Neither the Pickwick Greyhound office at Los Angeles, from which the bus departed at 11:59 p. m. Wednesday, nor the bus driver carried identification for the passengers. The names of the victims were obtained from personal effects.

The engineer of the train, C. C. Davis, said when he realized the crash must occur he clamped on the brakes and had slowed down to 38 miles an hour when his locomotive struck the stage. The train was partially derailed.

"Apparently the bus driver attempted to turn parallel with the track when he saw he could not beat the train to the crossing," said Davis.

Bodies were strewn along the right of way. Only two large tires remained as mute evidence to the damage wrought by the collision and flames.

Crazed by the shock and injuries, one survivor wandered about the wreckage calling for his wife and child and, unable to find them, threw himself on the ground with the plea that he wanted to die, too.

The crossing where the crash occurred is open and on level ground. The highway is paved.

MRS. GEORGE B. OGLE.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Elsie Ogle today filed suit against George B. Ogle, former Chicago publisher, asking for a divorce on the grounds of cruelty and claiming a share in Ogle's property, which she said was worth $750,000.

The Ogles were married in Chicago ten years ago and separated last August. Ogle, former manager of George A. Ogle & Co., Chicago publishers, was divorced in 1917 from his first wife, Mrs. Ruth Jones Ogle, daughter of George H. Jones, vice president of the Inland Steel company. He charged his first wife with cruelty, alleging that she struck him on several occasions.

STOCK EXCHANGE IN TOKIO REOPENS; PANIC AVERTED

Selling Stampede Blamed on Political Foes.

TOKIO, April 12 [Saturday].—(AP)—The Tokio stock exchange reopened today after a one day suspension. Trading was orderly and prices steady.

A stampede of selling yesterday, which led to wild scenes in the exchange and subsequent suspension, was characterized by cabinet members as a result of manipulation by opponents of the administration.

Exchange officials announced a one hour suspension yesterday when a bear trend first became evident. A near panic followed the reopening and all trading for the day was called off. Heads of leading banks conferred on the situation, but no announcement was made by them.

5,000 Mill Hands Strike.

Japan's long period of depression in trade and industry was reflected yesterday in the strike of 5,000 cotton mill hands in Osaka, Kyoto, and Hyogo.

The strike was precipitated by the announcement of the Kanegafuchi Spinning company that it had cut wages of its 50,000 employés 23 per cent. The Kanegafuchi company has been noted for its paternalistic treatment of employés, which for a time prevented the unions from getting a foothold in its plants.

Other spinning companies followed the lead of the giant Kanegafuchi company by reducing wages. Labor leaders are aligning political and other forces to resist wage decreases, despite the general depression.

Reasons for Crisis.

Among the causes assigned for the economic distress in Japan are the lessened American demand for raw silk, Japan's most important export; India's increased tariff on cotton fabrics, the second largest export from Japan; the slump in price of silver bullion, which has affected China's market for Japanese goods, and the declining specie reserves, due to the removal on Jan. 11 of Japan's embargo on gold exports.

Serious social troubles, it is predicted by some observers, will grow from the economic depression and strikes. Attempts are being made by proletarian political parties to make capital of the situation, and the Japanese federation of labor and other organizations are leading the fight against the Kanegafuchi company, Japan's largest maker of cotton fabrics.

There were a few arrests in Tokio following the distribution of inflammatory handbills in the neighborhood of the Kanegafuchi mill.

ITALIAN TROOPS FIRE ON RIOTERS; TAKE 280 TO JAIL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, France, April 11.—A grave situation confronts the Fascist regime in southern Italy, according to well confirmed reports from Rome today. Rioting has broken out in Taranto, a busy city in the heel of the peninsula, where troops were forced to fire into the crowds to maintain order. Up to today there have been 280 arrests.

The trouble is said to be due to unrest over economic conditions. Things took a violent turn on Saturday when a mob fired on several public buildings and bloody clashes occurred between mobs and troops of police.

Fascist Leader Investigates.

Sig. Scorthea, one of the directors of the Fascist party, went to the scene of the trouble on Saturday. But due to the gravity of the situation he was not able to return to Rome today to participate in the deliberations of the party's court of discipline, which is presided over by Secretary Augusto Turati.

News of the trouble in southern Italy is being kept strictly secret in Rome. This has been the first outburst of violence since last fall when rioting of a similar nature occurred in the Abruzzi mountains when troops were called to quell a mob which had been stirred up over labor troubles.

Reports Trouble in Lybia.

The governor of Tripolitania and Cyrenaica, who has returned to Rome from Lybia by airplane, conferred with Premier Mussolini over the situation in Cyrenaica, where consistent reports state that a bad situation has developed for the Italians. Numerous uprisings have occurred among the tribesmen in the Cyrenaican hinterland.

DOCTORS SEARCH FOR HEALTHIEST COLORED BABY

A search for the healthiest Negro baby in Chicago was begun yesterday as physicians began the examination of 100 children between the ages of 6 months and 2 years at the Wabash Avenue Y. M. C. A. The contest is a part of the Negro health campaign started on March 30 and which will end tomorrow. The Cook County Physicians' association and the Lincoln Dental society are sponsoring the campaign.

Examinations which are based on the American Medical association chart will continue today under the chairmanship of Dr. Herbert A. Turner. The winner will be announced on April 20 and will receive a silver loving cup, as will the babies in four other age classes. Free health examinations for adults were conducted the fore part of the week.

LAWYER CHARGES FOX $1,000,000 AFTER FOE WINS

That's Untermyer's Fee for 3 Months' Work.

New York, April 11.—[Special.]—Samuel Untermyer's fee as William Fox's lawyer in the Fox Film case was $1,000,000, it was learned today. He entered the case early in January, and it came to a virtual end on Monday last when Mr. Fox sold his control of the Fox Film corporation and the Fox Theaters corporation to Harley L. Clarke of Chicago, for somewhat more than 18 million dollars.

Thus Mr. Untermyer's $1,000,000 is for three months of work.

It is more than the $775,000 he received for putting through the Boston and Utah copper merger, and he was proud enough of that to place it in his biography in Who's Who in America.

The Fox case ended with both sides claiming victory, but with Halsey, Stuart & Co., whom Mr. Fox bitterly opposed, at the head of the syndicate to refinance the companies. It has been reported that part of the peace agreement was that the companies should take care of the lawyers.

Mr. Untermyer was out of the city today. When his son, Alvin Untermyer associated with him in the Fox matter, was asked about the fee he said, "We never discuss our fees, so one guess is as good as another. The work is still unfinished and no bill has yet been rendered."

DAILY ROUGHAGE IS AN ESSENTIAL IN ANY DIET

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Effective Relief for Constipation. Also Adds Iron to the Blood

Do you suffer from constipation? Are you one of those who have tried one "vest pocket cure" after another and still have no sense of permanent relief? If so, this is big news to you! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is natural, effective relief for both temporary and recurring constipation. It is the original—and today is included in the diets of millions of people who formerly suffered from constipation.

When roughage is missing from food, constipation is the consequence. The soft foods we eat today seldom include enough roughage. The simple necessity, then, is to see to it that sufficient roughage is included in our food.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the bulk that your system requires.

In addition, it is rich in iron. Scientific research proves that nearly all this iron is absorbed by the system, building red blood and bringing the glorious color of health to the complexion.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed. Your money will be returned if you are not satisfied. Be sure to include it in reducing diets as a preventive for both constipation and anemia.

There are so many ways you can eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and enjoy it. In any form, it is appetizing. It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals and soups and notice the added flavor. CAR FRANCHISE STRIKES HITCH AMONG LAWYERS

Fail to Agree on Draft of Missing Sections.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

There was a hitch among the lawyers yesterday over the wording of portions of the proposal transportation franchise.

The bankers, transit chiefs, and aldermen agreed Thursday on "every point" in the proposed ordinance. The preparation of missing sections was turned over to the attorneys. Yesterday afternoon the lawyers for the transit companies, Harry Weber, Weymouth Kirkland, James Sheean, and others, conferred with Attorney Walter L. Fisher in his private office for two hours and a half, and adjourned without agreement on the phrasing of sections.

"We discussed only half of our task and did not agree on that," said Mr. Fisher. It was learned that the attorneys could not agree on the wording of the agreements which the principals had reached on disputed sections of the ordinance. Hope was expressed by aldermen that Messrs. Busby, Budd, and Richardson, the transportation principals, would be able to straighten out the legal differences. If they fail, it was said that the job will probably be given to the citizens' transit committee.

Simpson's Work Revealed.

Attorney Fisher was appointed to take part in the franchise negotiations by Federal Judge Wilkerson, in whose court the north and west side lines are in a receivership. The citizens' committee was also appointed by Judge Wilkerson to assist in a transit settlement.

It became known yesterday that James Simpson, chairman of the citizens' committee, prevented a break three times in the franchise negotiations between the bankers, the aldermanic committee, and transportation heads. At one stage, it was said, the controversy became so bitter that the bankers and Attorney Fisher delivered ultimatums to each other, and Aldermen Joseph B. McDonough and James B. Bowler hopped into the fight to tell both sides what they would insist upon. At another session, it is reported, one banker walked out of the meeting.

In these situations it is learned that Mr. Simpson, who participated in most of the discussions at the request of the aldermanic subcommittee, managed to get the disputants on speaking terms again.

Aldermen Are Commended.

Before yesterday's hitch arose Mr. Simpson stated that Aldermen Bowler and McDonough and other members of the aldermanic committee "ought to be highly commended for their untiring endeavors to promote a solution of the car problem to the present status."

"In the opinion of the citizens' committee," continues the statement, "the attitude of the aldermen, bankers and principals of the car companies has been patient and constructive and has been conducive of fairness to all sides.

"This ordinance should be given the widest publicity when its text is completed, and an opportunity should be given every one interested in its terms and agreements to discuss its conditions for the benefit of all concerned. There should be ample time given to develop suggestions, if any, that merit amendment of the ordinance as presented by the subcommittee.

"It is the opinion of our committee that the agreement arrived at presents a fair expression of a workable agreement which will bring to Chicago the long awaited settlement of the traction problem."

Aldermen Expect Action.

Aldermen around the city hall assumed that action will be taken at once to reach an agreement on the wording of the ordinance, although no lawyers' conference is scheduled for today. The bankers, aldermanic subcommittee, and transportation chiefs are scheduled to meet Monday morning. They may decide to submit the ordinance as drafted to the council local transportation committee on Tuesday and then thrash out in the open the phrasing on disputed sections.

One feature of the ordinance which pleased Ald. Nelson and McDonough yesterday was a provision for pensions to transportation employés.

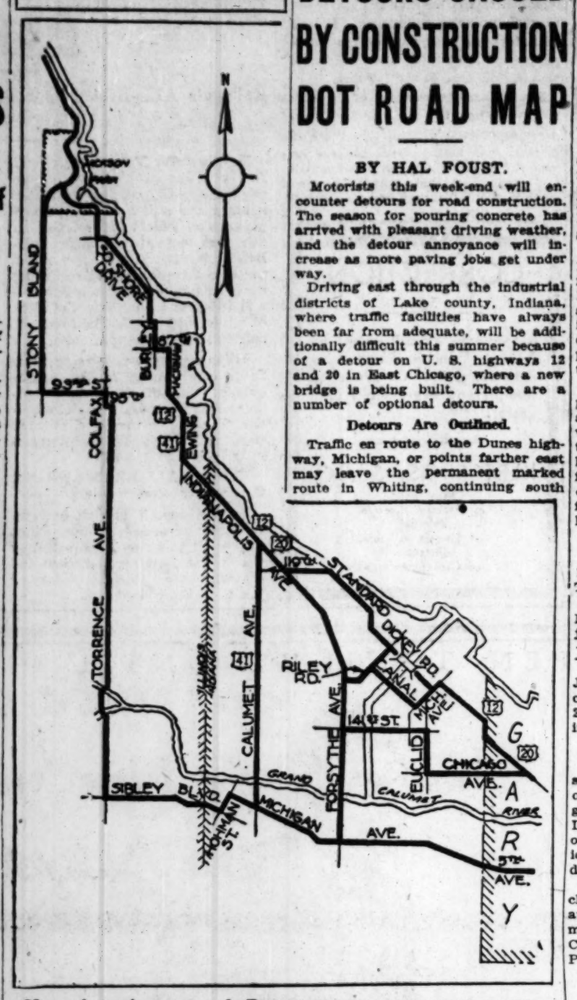
INDIANA DETOUR



Map of territory around East Chicago, Ind., showing optional detours recommended by Chicago Motor club during construction of bridge in East Chicago. The building operations will cause highways 20 and 12, the main route between Chicago and the dunes and the Michigan resorts, to be closed at the bridge all summer.

DETOURS CAUSED BY CONSTRUCTION DOT ROAD MAP

BY HAL FOUST.

Motorists this week-end will encounter detours for road construction. The season for pouring concrete has arrived with pleasant driving weather, and the detour annoyance will increase as more paving jobs get under way.

Driving east through the industrial districts of Lake county, Indiana, where traffic facilities have always been far from adequate, will be additionally difficult this summer because of a detour on U. S. highways 12 and 20 in East Chicago, where a new bridge is being built. There are a number of optional detours.

Detours Are Outlined.

Traffic en route to the Dunes highway, Michigan, or points farther east may leave the permanent marked route in Whiting, continuing south on Forsyth avenue in East Chicago five miles to Michigan avenue, Hammond, thence east to Fifth avenue, Gary, and on to the Dunes highway. This detour is recommended by the central traffic bureau.

The Chicago Motor club recommends using Calumet avenue to Michigan avenue, Hammond, and thence east, except during rush hours. A route avoiding congestion but with a few stretches of very rough pavement, is over Stony Island avenue south of Jackson park, and thence over 93d street to Colfax avenue, to 95th street, to Torrence avenue, to Sibley boulevard, to Hohman street, Hammond, to Michigan avenue, and east to the Dunes highway.

Motorists going south and east will encounter spring construction even before leaving the city. The outer drive is closed for paving the rough half mile of macadam between 43d and 47th street. South bound traffic is routed east over the 39th street grade separation to Lake Park avenue, to 51st street and thence east to Jackson park. The inner drive is closed between the stadium and the 23d street grade separation for paving at the grade separation this week.

Dearborn Street Torn Up.

On the near north side, Dearborn street is in poor condition, with part of the pavement torn up for underground pipes, and should be avoided. Lincoln park is congested with the outer drive giving only part time service because of delays in repairing the damage from storms last fall.

Farther north, Ridge avenue is closed between Columbia and Thome avenue for a new sewer. Recommended detours are over Ashland, Clark and Pratt boulevard, or over Peterson and Western avenues.

Other Detours Listed.

96th avenue—Closed between 183d street and Lincoln highway. Traffic is directed west on 143d street to Wolf road, south on Wolf road to Lincoln highway, then east on Lincoln highway to 96th avenue.

Harlem avenue—Closed between Grand avenue and North avenue. Traffic is directed east on Grand avenue to Sayre street, south on Sayre street to North avenue, then west on North avenue to Harlem avenue.

123d street—Closed between Kean avenue and Harlem avenue. Traffic is directed south on Kean avenue to 131st street, east on 131st street to Harlem avenue, and then north on Harlem avenue to 123d street. This section of road is closed due to the construction of grade separation at 123d street and the Southwest highway.

96th avenue—Closed between 143d street and 131st street. Traffic is directed east on 143d street to Harlem avenue, north on Harlem avenue to 131st street, then west on 131st street to 96th avenue.

The traffic bureau, operated out of the Cook county highway department with the coöperation of all municipal, county and state road officials in the metropolitan area, will issue weekly highway bulletins for week-end motoring this summer.

Beak, Real Estate Man, Pays $3,500 to Ex-Wife

Kurt R. Beak, real estate dealer, yesterday settled a case in which he was cited for contempt of court for failure to pay $10,000 in back alimony to his former wife, Mrs. Jennie Beak Block of Kenosha, Wis., by paying her $3,500. Mrs. Beak won a divorce in 1926 and was awarded the custody of a son, Eugene Richard, 12 years old.

Churchgoers Capture Motorist After He Injures Altar Boy

A hit and run motorist was captured yesterday by worshipers bound for Lenten service at St. Bonaventure's Roman Catholic church, Diversey boulevard and Paulina street, after he had run down and probably fatally injured an altar boy. The motorist, Vincent Cerami, 1607 Irving Park boulevard, was saved from violence of an angry crowd of church goers by his two year old son.

Cerami struck Clarence Jonkowski, 15 years old, 1624 Wolfram street, in front of the church. The boy was hurrying to carry the cross in the services. Cerami drove on, disregarding shouts of a group in front of the church. The Rev. Thomas Long picked up the altar boy and took him to the Alexian Brothers hospital.

Arthur Ohrt, 17 years old, left the priest's side to commandeer a passing automobile and gave chase. Cerami was captured a short distance from the church. The worshipers ran to his car and were about to drag him from the machine when his son, Vincent Jr., wrapped his arms about his father and began to cry. Cerami was held.

Three Deaths in Day.

Three deaths yesterday raised the 1930 Cook county motor toll to 238. The victims:

Herman Edelman, 22 years old, 4522 North St. Louis avenue. Fatally injured when the automobile which he was driving collided with a truck driven by Henry J. Poltz, 3804 Wrightwood avenue, near his home.

Mrs. Mary de Lorenzo, 53 years old, 905 South Aberdeen street. Died in the county hospital of injuries received when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband and son crashed into a railroad viaduct at 26th street and Western avenue.

Mrs. Edith Marsh, 30 years old, of Harvey. Died in the Ingalls Memorial hospital, Harvey, of injuries received Monday, when she was struck by an automobile near her home.

End Dispute in Park.

Arrest slips for traffic law violations in the Lincoln park system will not be fixed in the future. The assurance was given to Municipal Judge Borrelli yesterday by the park commissioners, concluding a controversy with the judge over the disposition of traffic cases.

The park officials had charged the judge with dismissing a large number of cases brought into his court by Lincoln park police. In an investigation the judge learned that the police often disposed of cases before they were brought into court and marked them as dismissed by the court.

The commissioners yesterday informed the judge that the general superintendent, the manager, and the police department have been ordered not to cancel any tickets at the request of any person.

PETER SCHUTTLER HEADS U. S. JURY FOR APRIL TERM

Peter Schuttler III., grandson of the wagon builder whose name is known on farms throughout the nation and whose "prairie schooners" carried many Forty-Niners on their westward journey, is foreman of the April federal grand jury, sworn in by Federal Judge Lindley.

Peter Schuttler founded his wagon industry in a shop at Randolph and Franklin streets in 1838. The business was continued by his descendants until 1922. Peter Schuttler III., retired, lives at 2608 Lake View avenue.

CRUSHED TO DEATH BY CRANE.

Axel Senman, 30 years old, 3212 Sheffield avenue, an employe of the York Construction company, was crushed to death yesterday beneath a heavy crane which fell on him while he was at work in an excavation being made for the Public Service company in Waukegan.

PARTY LEADERS PLAN TO DELAY STATE RALLIES

Would Hold Up Keynoting Until September.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Republican and Democratic leaders hold plans yesterday to postpone the state conventions at Springfield from Good Friday until September. They expressed a desire to push the big state rallies closer to the actual opening of the fall campaign and thus utilize them as starters for the real battling.

At Democratic headquarters, the chiefs took the view it would be political wastage of campaign ammunition to whoop it up in a day of keynoting and platforming in April when the fighting is not expected to get well under way until August. At Republican headquarters, the leaders held it would be a dissipation of effort to stage a political show next week and that a better job of platform making can perhaps be done if things, especially the wet and dry question, are left to simmer during the summer. So both sides talked of delay in the interest of conservation of effect.

Discuss Plans for Delay.

The law prescribes next Friday for the conventions, but it was argued that a few men might hold the meeting, to conform to the statute, and then recess until a later month. Details are still being deliberated.

The county conventions are to be held on Monday. The Republicans expect to retain the present organization. Charles V. Barrett sent a letter yesterday saying he will be in Washington on Monday and that he does not wish to be reëlected treasurer of the county committee, as he expects a busy period in the board of review at the time of the active campaigning.

Democrats to Fight Dry Law.

The Democratic county convention plans to sink its teeth into issues of the coming campaign. The county platform now being prepared is expected to denounce Volsteadism. The tax muddle is to be taken up and unemployment is to be discussed.

Today, James Hamilton Lewis, nominee for United States senator against Ruth Hanna McCormick, is to deliver an address at the Jefferson day luncheon of the Iriquois club. The demand for tickets has led to the engagement of one of the big dining halls at the Hotel Sherman. Charles J. Vopicka, former envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Rumania, Serbia, and Bulgaria, is to preside.

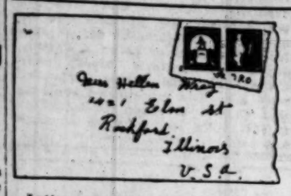
Official canvass of the vote in the Joliet district yesterday showed that Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill of Downers Grove, Illinois' pioneer woman legislator, was defeated for Republican nomination as state senator by Senator Richard J. Barr, more than 2 to 1. The vote was announced as Barr, 31,154; O'Neill, 15,627.

In the 29th district on the north side managers of Wallace F. Kirk were claiming a margin of less than 100 over Senator John T. Joyce, while the Joyce men were claiming a victory. In the 31st district managers of Herbert W. Auw claimed a recount would show him victor over Senator Herman J. Haenisch. Contests and recounts in both districts are expected.

INTERESTING LETTERS

If you have received a letter from an interesting or little known place, send the envelope to The Tribune, stating name of place where it was mailed and some information about the writer of the letter. The sender of every envelope which is reproduced will be paid one dollar.

FROM GEORGE'S COVE, LABRADOR.



Letter received by Miss Helen Wray, 1421 Elm street, Rockford, Ill.

From a fishing village of eleven families on George's Cove, coast of Labrador, a woman of Eskimo descent, who has never seen a cow, horse, or even a Ford car, sent this letter to Miss Wray. From the nurses attached to the Grenfell, Labrador, mission this woman, past fifty, has learned to read and write. She is married to John Penny, an Englishman. Miss Wray, who has spent some time in Labrador, says of her Eskimo friend: "In native intelligence, wit, industry, and true kindliness it would be hard to find her equal. I know. I lived in her home."

The letter was mailed on the government steamer Kyle, which makes fortnightly trips to George's Cove during the summer. Later dog teams furnish the only means of communication between the village and Battle Harbor to the south.

Through the work carried on by Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell and the association he heads the benefits of civilization are being provided for these far-away natives of the northern coast of America. Their native ability and art is being directed toward the production of hooked mats, toys, ivory novelties, moccasins, sealskin boots, homespuns, and other handicraft products. These products are marketed in many countries and help to sustain the work of the Grenfell association.

LAWYER GIVEN JAIL TERM FOR DEFYING JUDGE

Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan yesterday sentenced Attorney Russell Greenacre to serve five days in the county jail for contempt of court. The sentence was imposed on the attorney when he defied the judge while seeking to jail a sixty year old woman for a debt of $300.

Attorney Greenacre appeared before the judge representing a receiver appointed for the property of Mrs. Anna E. Williams, 3116 West 64th street. Mrs. Williams was brought into court on a mittimus secured by Greenacre because she had not turned over $300 in rentals to the receiver. She told the judge that she did not know that a receiver had been appointed.

When the judge learned that Mrs. Williams had not had an opportunity to appear in court he held that the mittimus was not properly issued. He instructed Deputy Sheriff Harold O'Keefe, who brought Mrs. Williams into court, to release her.

"I will not draw up the order," Greenacre declared.

"O, yes, you will," the judge declared.

"I will go to jail before I will obey such an order of this court," Greenacre shouted.

"The court is always more than willing to oblige attorneys," the judge said quietly. "Five days in the county jail."

SWITCHMAN KILLED BY TRAIN.

R. H. Wilkerson, a switchman employed by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, was crushed to death yesterday between two freight cars in the railway yards at Bensenville.

CURB GANGSTERS BUYING GUNS IS OBJECT OF BILL

Washington, D. C., April 11.—(AP)—Bills designed to make it more difficult for gangsters to get guns were taken under consideration today by a house interstate commerce subcommittee.

Representatives of firearms manufacturers had testified the bills "aim at the crook, and hit the honest citizen."

The proposals would divest firearms shipments of their character as subjects of interstate commerce and make them subject to state and local police powers.

Representative McLeod, Republican, Michigan, author of two of the bills, complained that a Detroit gangster, denied purchase of a gun in his home towns because of a past police record, could write to Chicago and order one sent to him by express. Firearms laws in 46 of the 48 states could not counteract this 'loophole in the lax federals laws," he said.

Milton A. Record, representing the National Rifle association of America, said that all the more stringent regulations suggested by the bills would affect only the law abiding citizen and could easily be evaded by the criminal. Firearms manufacturers refrained from marking their shipments to protect society, he said, since marked shipments were so often stolen by crooks.

FALL FATAL TO IRON WORKER.

Emil Logan, 61 years old, 3601 North Sacramento avenue, an iron worker who was injured on Thursday in a fall from a scaffold at Whiting and Wells streets, died yesterday in the county hospital.

ORR NAMED BY DEMOCRATS IN JUDICIARY RACE

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Quincy, Ill., April 11.—[Special.]—County Judge Warren H. Orr was nominated a second time for justice of the Illinois Supreme court by the Democratic convention of the fourth district held here today.

He was his party's candidate against the late Cyrus E. Dietz in 1928, and although he was beaten decisively he ran 8,339 ahead of Al Smith because of the dryness of the district, which Hoover carried by 113,793 to 68,416 for Smith.

This race of his two years ago was cited as one of the big arguments for his nomination today, that being one of the major points in the discussion of what seemed to be the real argument before the convention, the question whether Judge Orr or J. Paul Califf of Aledo would have the better chance to win against Justice Paul Samuell, who was nominated by the Republicans at Monmouth yesterday to succeed himself.

As happened in the Republican convention, the break today came from the Adams county delegation. But it came sooner than it did at Monmouth, where it was recorded on the third roll call. Here is came on the first county called on the first vote and it determined the outcome.

During the nominating and seconding speeches the geographical advantages of the two candidates were discussed. Judge Orr, from Hancock county, was declared the stronger of the two because only four of the fourteen counties lie north of Hancock.

Hints that a candidate from the southern section would not fare well in the upper counties were heard in speeches by State Representative Thomas P. Sinnett of Rock Island, former Judge Loren P. Murphy of Monmouth, Warren county, and by Virgil Duvall of Aledo, the last of whom nominated Califf.

At Monmouth yesterday Republicans whispered their hope that Judge Orr would be the nominee here because of this geographical angle of the election on June 2.

With Judge Orr, a resident of Carthage, and Justice Samuell, from Jacksonville, both from the southern counties, Rock Island county and its neighbors are expected to be the center of campaign operations.

Des Plaines M. E. Camp Grounds Swept by Fire

The Methodist campgrounds at Des Plaines were swept by fire yesterday morning that destroyed five of the camp houses and several fine trees. The fire started in a prairie and it took the combined fire departments of Des Plaines and Park Ridge more than an hour to get it under control. The damage was estimated at $10,000.

SAD NEWS FOR MOTORIST; GAS PRICE GOES UP

Mr. Motorist, here's sad news. Beginning today, it will cost more to fill up the tank and ramble the highways. The Standard Oil Company of Indiana yesterday announced a boost of a cent a gallon in tank wagon and service station prices for gasoline.

"The increase is made necessary," President Edward G. Seubert said, "by yesterday's advance in crude oil prices and by the generally greater firmness in the gasoline market resulting from changed competitive conditions."

So the retail price of regular grade gasoline will be 19 cents a gallon today and 22 cents for ethyl grade, including the three cent state tax.

ROB WAUKEGAN CLOTHING STORE.

Burglars early yesterday broke into the Marston clothing store at 146 South Genesee street, Waukegan, and carried away clothing valued by the owner, H. W. Lassila, at $5,500. The burglars entered the store by ripping iron bars from a rear window.

TWO POLICEMEN REWARDED FOR MAKING ARRESTS

Two Chicago policeman were the recipients of rewards of $50 each yesterday as a result of their quick wit in capturing three youths now under charges of robbing ten shops of the Dutch Mill Candy company. B. L. Stein, manager of the candy concern, presented the rewards at the Hotel Sherman shop of the company.

Patrolmen Harold H. Lane and George Biddermann, both of Sheffield avenue station, were the policemen. The two, while watching at a candy shop at 2735 North Clark street in hopes of catching the holdup gang, seized a youth who aroused their suspicion while a customer in the shop. Two automatic pistols were found in his pockets, and soon after two other youths were seized as his confederates. Salesgirls identified the three prisoners and they are awaiting trial for robbery under bonds totaling $110,000.

DEBATE SECOND SITE PROPOSED FOR POSTOFFICE

No Decision Likely for Week, U. S. Says.

Whether Chicago's new postoffice will be built on the Marshall Field site at Harrison and Clinton streets, selected about three years ago, or on air rights property close to the Union station will not be decided for a week or more, Postmaster General Brown said yesterday in Washington. Word that the second site was being considered was contained in dispatches Thursday which were confirmed later by the postal department.

While Mr. Brown, his subordinates, and Chicago officials were issuing statements interpreted as favoring the change, one loop business organization made a statement criticizing it. Speaking for the Greater Central District association, which embraces the district south from Adams to 18th street and west from the lake to the river, Elmer Rich, chairman of the executive committee, predicted that selection of the new site will not only cause further delay in construction but will necessitate additional legislation as well as adding to the cost of the project.

Sees Superhighway Affected.

The association is supporting the Congress street superhighway program, which will be affected by the new selection, Mr. Rich said.

Although Postmaster General Brown declined to indicate the exact location of the proposed new site, preferring to identify it only as resting on air rights property over the railroads entering the Union station, it was said in Washington that the place is close to, if not connecting with, the Van Buren street postal station, known also as the parcel post building.

The first site is across Harrison street, south from this location, on the square block bounded by Harrison, Canal, Polk and Clinton streets. It would thus be necessary to purchase air rights over the tracks to the west of the postal station if the proposed new site were selected.

Postmaster General's Views.

Officially, Mr. Brown said: "The task of transporting mail from and to the main Chicago postoffice would be a tremendous one if the building were erected at the site purchased more than a year ago. Even if a tunnel were used trouble would be encountered in keeping the conveyor system used in moving mail in operation at all times."

Olga Edwards Swoons When Son Is Brought Into Court

New York, April 11.—[Special.]—Olga Eide Edwards, on trial on extortion charges brought by Nathan L. Amster, millionaire financier, who she asserts is the father of her child, screamed, became hysterical and fainted this afternoon when her little boy was brought into General Sessions Judge Otto F. Rosalsky's courtroom A recess had to be taken.

Later the former actress resumed the stand and, between sobs, told how the financier had made love, "passionate love," to her.

Came from California.

She said that in 1917, at 20, she came here from California with a little theatrical experience, and spent the three months from July to October in vain rounds of the booking offices. Then, she said, a girl friend had told her she knew of a man who might help, and, therefore, on Oct. 5 she had gone to the house of a Mrs. Kennedy in West 71st street.

It was there that she had met Amster, she said. Her story was that they drank champagne and that he made love to her. He came back again in the evening, she said. It was only at her insistence, she declared, that he finally escorted her to her rooms.

They met a number of times the next week, she said. She believed that Mr. Amster was in some way connected with the theater. Then, she said, he announced that he had to go to Boston on business and was away for a week. Her story was cut short by the adjournment until next Tuesday.

Actress Is Witness.

Among the witnesses was Miss Lyla Stackpole, star of "The Blue Ghost," Broadway show. Miss Stackpole said she met Miss Edwards, known then as Alga Eide, in a theatrical boarding house.

In 1922 Miss Eide joined the witness and her mother on a trip to Europe, she testified. The witness said that in 1924 she received a letter in which the defendant told her that she had married "Lee Edwards, a tall, handsome engineer."

Miss Stackpole added that she met Miss Edwards again in 1926, when she said that she was not married, but that the little boy with her was her son. Miss Stackpole added that Miss Edwards later said that Mr. Amster was the father of the boy.

Amster Named as Father.

Miss Edwards, who has named Amster as the father of her child, is said to have received gifts and money amounting to $170,000 from the financier and utility executive. Mr. Amster, from whom she is charged with attempting to extort $500, is 60 years old and lives at 956 5th avenue. He is chairman of the stockholders' committee of the Manhattan Railway company, owner of the I. R. T. Elevated lines.

CAPONE JURORS ARE PERMITTED TO GO TO HOMES

Federal Judge Wilkerson yesterday permitted the jurors in the trial of Ralph J. Capone on charges of defrauding the government out of income taxes to go to their homes for the week-end. They had been locked up each night since the trial began on Wednesday.

"The trial is requiring much more time than I expected it would," Judge Wilkerson said. "You may go to your homes, but must refrain from discussing the trial. If any one should seek to discuss the case with you he will be dealt with summarily."

Evidence that Capone confessed to maintaining five accounts in the Pinkert State bank, Cicero, from 1922 to 1927, when the defense alleges he was insolvent, was introduced by Assistant United States Attorney Cassius Poust yesterday. Defense Counsel D. M. Kelleher's objection had prevented the admission of bank records purporting to establish the point.

Clarence Converse of the special intelligence unit of the internal revenue department testified that after Capone's arrest last November he admitted the signatures on deposit slips for the accounts of Ralph J. Capone, James Carson, James Carroll, James Costello Jr., and James Carter all were his. The government contends that Capone deposited from $300,000 to $500,000 a year in these accounts and paid no income taxes.

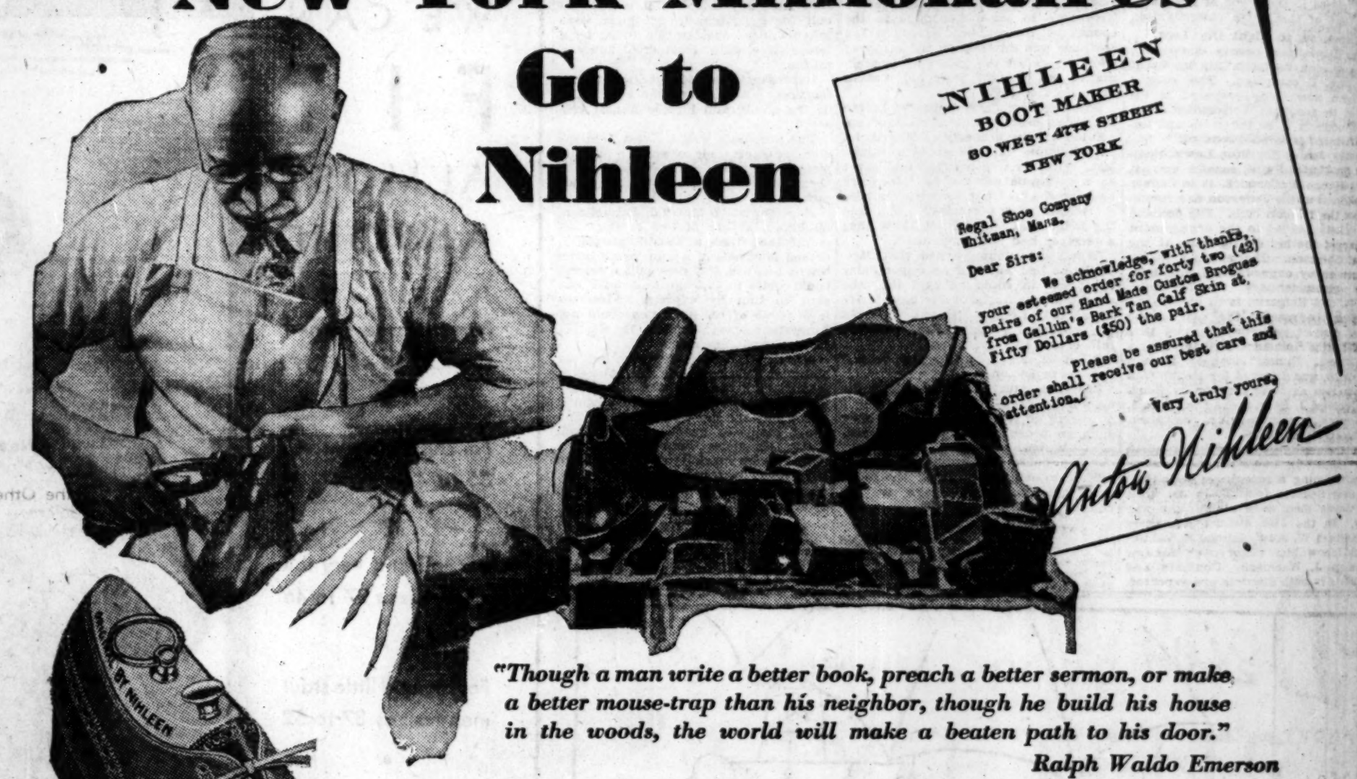
New York Millionaires Go to Nihleen



NIHLEEN
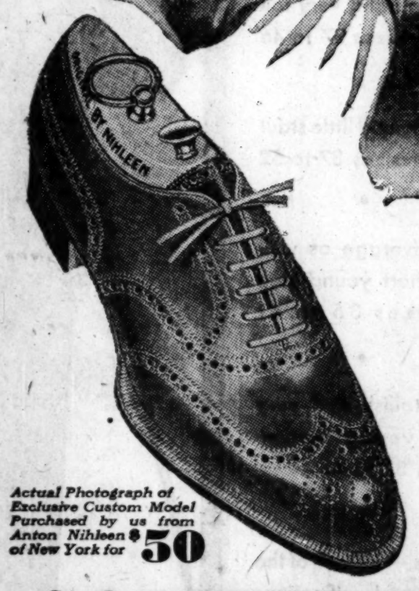
NEW YORK
Regal Shoe Company
Whitman, Mass.
Dear Sirs:
We acknowledge, with thanks, your esteemed order for forty two (42) pairs of our Hand Made Custom Brogues from Gallun's Bark Tan Calf Skin at, Fifty Dollars ($50) the pair.
Please be assured that this order shall receive our best care and attention.
Very truly yours,
Anton Nihleen

"Though a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."

Ralph Waldo Emerson



Actual Photograph of Exclusive Custom Model Purchased by us from Anton Nihleen of New York for $50

NOW as far as I know, Anton Nihleen never wrote a book, preached a sermon, or made a mouse-trap, but a good many New York Millionaires have beaten a path to the door of his little shop at 30 West 47th Street, because they think he is the greatest shoe maker in the world.

We went to Nihleen because it is our policy to Reproduce the best Styles made by the best bootmakers in the World.

We bought and Reproduced the finest shoes produced by the famous bootmakers of London who hold Royal Warrants of Appointment to His Majesty the King and His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, but our factory superintendent said that he had never seen a finer pair of shoes than this new Wingtip Brogue by Nihleen.

We paid $50 for the Original, and if you can afford the luxury of owning a $50 pair of hand made shoes, I think they are worth the price. But there are a million of us who can't afford to pay the millionaire's price, who would like to know where they can get an exact Style Reproduction of Nihleen's millionaire's model for $6.60.

Now if you are a millionaire who is wearing one of Nihleen's shoes, or one of the millions who would like to have a Reproduction of this expensive hand made model, you can see Nihleen's ($50) Original and the ($6.60) Regal Reproduction side by side in every Regal Store today.

The distinctive features of Nihleen's new model are a narrow receding custom toe, with broad comfortable tread, swagger swing extension sole, and a new high heel.

One or two high-priced American manufacturers have recently been experimenting with these features, but we didn't want to copy an experiment. We wanted to Reproduce a Real Style Authority. That's why we followed the path of the New York Millionaires.

We took Nihleen's original Last that he whittled out by hand and our last makers used it as a model and turned out thousands with electric lathes.

The Upper Leather in the Original is Gallun's Bark Tanned Calfskin and in the Regal Reproduction we are using this same identical tannage.

The Pattern of the Original was cut and perforated by hand. We made a die for this Design and with one click of a machine reproduced the pattern exactly.

Last, Leather, Pattern, Design and every Style Detail is exactly the same—from the size of the perforations on the Wingtip to the steel slug wedge in the new high heel.

But there is a difference. Nihleen has one shop and his shoes are sewn by hand. Our shoes are made in our own factory and sold in 88 Regal Stores from New York to San Francisco.

Our Volume makes this Value possible. We make about 1,000 pairs to Nihleen's 1 pair—and every pair looks like Nihleen's Original.

FOUND DEAD

FRANK J. FRAZIER.

MUSICIAN SLAIN; HUNT SUICIDE OR MURDER CLEWS

Officials of Kenosha county, Wisconsin, were in doubt last night as to whether the death of Frank Frazier, a musician, son of George Frazier, a wealthy resident of Grayslake, Ill., was a murder or suicide. The body was found in Frazier's automobile on Wilmot road, near Trevor, Wis., just across the state border. He had been shot in the right temple.

First indications pointed to suicide, because the pistol with which he was killed was on the seat beside him. But District Attorney Morris Barnett said the right hand of the dead man was on the gear shift lever of the automobile, the thumb closed on the handle.

Frazier had lost the index finger of his right hand last winter while cutting ice. Sheriff Steve Robinson said the pistol was a heavy, old style weapon, and he believed Frazier would have had difficulty in pulling the trigger with one of his remaining three fingers.

A possible reason for suicide was advanced by Coroner A. B. Schmitz, who learned that Frazier's left hand had been infected and that for several months he had been unable to take his part in the Paul Pfenstell orchestra, in which he played the banjo. The coroner said the disability had made Frazier melancholy.

Clifford Frazier, a brother, told the coroner that Frank had left home at 1 o'clock Thursday and said he would be home at 6 o'clock, but did not return. The brother said Frank had $75 with him when he left home, but only $21 was found in the clothing of the dead man.

JEFFERSON AS A MODERN.

Tomorrow is the 187th anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson. At Monticello special services will be held. We could wish the celebration were general throughout the nation. We take the occasion to suggest a reading of Gilbert Chinard's recently published "Thomas Jefferson, the Apostle of Americanism," in which the great Virginian makes a veritable reappearance at a time when the American people appear to need him almost as much as they did when he was in the flesh. Prof. Chinard brings a French view to his many studies of Jefferson and is particularly valuable in interpreting and expounding his social and political philosophy.

The modernity of Jefferson is striking. He seems to be laboring with American problems of today, to be directing his doctrines at the predicament of the American citizens of this year. There can be little doubt that he would be profoundly disturbed by the departures from his philosophy of social organization, government, and natural rights.

Chinard thinks that Jefferson borrowed less from French philosophy than he returned to it. For one thing, he defined the social contract. The French champions of the rights of man hadn't applied their idea. What was the nature of a government based on a social contract? Jefferson made it an agreement in which the individual conferred power and authority on government only in such affairs as he could not as well conduct for himself. There were limits to government by the consent of the governed, although a community would find that there were certain powers which, if delegated to a government, would improve the condition of the individual.

The common security could be promoted better thus than if each individual relied upon himself, but the test was always the needs of the individual. To begin with, his natural rights were the most important. They should never be diminished to his hurt. It was condensed in Jefferson's favorite axiom: "Plurimæ leges, pessima republica." That ought to be stamped on American coins and carved on public buildings.

Chinard says that Jefferson developed one conception of government which no French philosophers of the time would have had the audacity to consider. They were too pessimistic. It was that the individual had a natural right to happiness, at least to the pursuit of it. That went into the Declaration of Independence as a bold idea in a world of pessimism. The French encyclopedists could only hope that under better government people could expect to be less miserable.

Jefferson was consciously an Anglo-Saxon. As much for America he rejected the Norman conquest and all its consequences. He destroyed caste, titles, and distinctions. In his design for the great seal he put the Saxon chiefs, Hengest and Horsa. In his view the people of the American colonies had Saxon blood and traditions. In coming to the new world they had broken with Norman feudalism. They never had been Normans. They were of the old stock. Thus the declaration was the answer to the battle of Hastings. The English in a new world were free again. They had set themselves up in the United States just as their Saxon ancestors had set themselves up in England. They had the same rights to their independence here as the Saxons had there. That was, to him, the justification of the revolution. It was an ancient right, the right of expatriation, forming a new society with a new government.

He thought that if Norman England could not suppress the new nation asserting the natural rights of man it would show its hostility by efforts to belittle it, subordinate it, and impress it with inferiority, and some of his antagonism to Great Britain came from his observation that his prediction had been true.

It is unquestionable that the American people have lost contact with the origin of their government. They have lost respect for the rights of the individual, although they have continued faithful to the doctrine of the average man. They have kept on going away from the Norman conquest in the direction Jefferson intended they should, but they would horrify him with the delegations of power they have made to their government. He would think that they had submitted to another despotism and had lost regard for the realities of the revolution. They had given up their own rights as individuals and had consented to the development of a social organization in which government assumed that all rights were inherent in it and in which the individual retained only such as it might be thought expedient to permit him to keep.

The overturn of the Jefferson philosophy with which the nation started is almost complete. The Virginian, probably because he was a Virginian in a state of agricultural pursuits, believed that the nation would be soundest if it were agricultural rather than industrial. He thought that industrialism tended to weaken natural rights and individual liberty and agriculture to strengthen them. He might be perplexed to discover that the reverse had been true. Nevertheless, it is impossible to read much of his philosophy as revealed in "The Apostle of Americanism" without feeling that a wise statesman is speaking to the American people of today and that they need him.

THE NEW CAR FRANCHISE.

An outline of the proposed new traction franchise was presented to readers of THE TRIBUNE by Oscar Hewitt on Friday. The existing surface and elevated lines, it appears, are to be consolidated in a new company which is to have an indeterminate permit to use the streets; elevated and surface line extensions are to be built by the new company, and the city will devote the traction fund, which now amounts to more than $60,000,000, to the construction of subways through the more congested districts. The city is to receive 3 per cent of the gross receipts and regulation is to be by a home rule commission if the courts will sustain this provision; otherwise the state commission will have jurisdiction, as at present.

There is little, if anything, in these provisions which is unexpected, but judgment on the new franchise may well be reserved until the text has been given study. Meanwhile we note an apparent omission and an important one. Though funds are created to provide for the depreciation of equipment and for replacements, no provision is made for obsolescence. The creation of an obsolescence fund would constitute another charge upon the car riders, but it is a charge which they can well afford to pay, since it would assure the improvement of the service as improvements in the art of transportation are invented.

The depreciation reserve which is set up in the franchise merely enables the company to keep its existing equipment in good condition and replace it when worn out. Something additional is needed to enable the company to scrap equipment which is still useful but which has been rendered obsolete by invention. We are in a period when great changes in local transportation may be expected. Our present equipment is noisy and unsightly. Our surface cars, for the most part, are little in advance of those purchased in 1907, many of which must still be in use after more than 20 years of service. Meanwhile car builders have learned to make surface cars which generate less noise, run faster, and stop and start with less jerking. Had an obsolescence fund been set up in 1907, Chicago car riders might today be enjoying improved service. As it is, the old equipment must be used until it will run no longer. The advances which have been made since 1907 are not the last which will be made. The car riders ought to have the advantage of every improvement in the art as soon as its worth is demonstrated.

Many people will hesitate at granting a perpetual franchise in the fear that Chicago will be saddled indefinitely with such monstrosities as the loop. The answer to such objectors is a positive assurance that as means are discovered of eliminating the noise, ugliness, and the inconveniences of travel about the city, those means will be adopted in Chicago. An obsolescence fund would fill the need.

FOR MORE OF CUTTEN'S JUSTICE.

As a thief catcher Arthur Cutten shows an ability hardly less than his better known power to capture markets. With nine men to catch—all participants in a robbery in his home—Mr. Cutten now has eight, long after the police had given up, and the ninth, it is said, has not much more to go. With money and relentless will Mr. Cutten kept on their trail eight years until he ran them down. THE TRIBUNE not long ago brought a rapist to justice after the authorities of Winnetka and the county had given up. Other cases of the sort have shown that where there is a will in catching criminals there usually is a way. Mr. Cutten's justice need not be an isolated case.

Why the insurance companies and banks show so little energy toward the clearing up of crimes that bring them losses is not clear. Perhaps they have no leadership. Perhaps they fear reprisals. Crime in Chicago and in general in America reaches far. It has strong friends and powerful connections. To fight crime will take ruthless honesty and impartiality. Only a brave man and a shrewd one, with great power behind him, can lead an effective war on crime.

It is a costly cowardice. Our failure and indifference in the crime problem costs Chicago annually hundreds of millions of dollars, according to good estimates, and for the nation as a whole the crime bill is more by far than our outstanding war debts. The attack on crime, it seems, must be led in great part by private means and men.

The people of Chicago should draft Mr. Cutten's brains and pertinacity for a crime fight in this city. As a part of the committee led by Isham Randolph he would add energy and organizing power to a problem that cannot have too much inner strength. As the head of a committee or a subcommittee turned directly toward the capture and the punishment of criminals he would be invaluable. A cleanup could be made. THE TRIBUNE will be glad to back him.

Editorial of the Day

[Detroit News.]

Considerable fuss is being made by steamship companies about the $10 fee which the United States charges for a two year passport, the argument being that this fee discourages foreign travel. It is also pointed out that the $10 visa charge which the United States exacts has caused various countries to retaliate with a similar charge when American citizens wish to enter them. The companies argue that before the war a passport could be obtained for $1, and that the price was jacked up not only to discourage travel during the war but to obtain additional revenue. Now that the war is over, and most of the war taxes have disappeared, they claim the fee ought to be made reasonable once more.

It seems to us that this argument is not broad enough, but merely nibbles at the evil. Before the war not a European country except Russia, Turkey, Greece, and Portugal required even a passport. Any American citizen could travel all over England, France, Germany, Italy, and the Scandinavian countries without a passport, and with no questions asked—just as he can travel all over them today without showing any papers, once he has been granted admission. If there was no reason for a passport then, what excuse is there for requiring one now? Not only has peace been restored, it has been safeguarded; there is no excuse for a police regulation which mulcts the traveler and finds salaries for a lot of people whose only duty is to press a rubber stamp on a piece of paper and make some illegible marks upon it.

If the state department were to take up with other nations the question of abolishing not only the visa but the passport itself, and returning to the comfortable conditions of 1912, several hundred thousand American travelers would give three cheers for the enlightened secretary who could then show congress not only the iniquity of charging a $10 fee but the uselessness of the passport itself.

WHEN EYES AND EARS SLOW UP.

PRESBYOPIA is a well recognized condition of the eyes in people fifty years of age and older. In it there is a slowing up of the eye functions. The eyeball acquires some of the stiffening of age. It loses some of the elasticity of youth. The lens does not change shape readily, nor do the muscles of accommodation and their nerves act with the promptness to which we have been accustomed.

The tennis player cannot see the ball the instant it leaves his opponent's racket and size up where it is headed for. The baseball fielder cannot judge liners and flies seemingly by intuition as he did in his younger days. The golfer needs the services of a young caddy to tell him where his drives land the ball. All of this is generally known. What is not so well known is that there is a similar condition of the ears and hearing which develops at about the same time of life. The man who has it can hear pretty well when he gets set for it. When his hearing is tested he generally comes out very well. If he is a railroad man and therefore subject to periodic testing, he generally gets a card showing "hearing good." The use of modern electric apparatus for measuring hearing does not change the satisfactory report that this type of man is in the habit of getting. And yet, the functions of the ears "slow up" and "stiffen up" in men forty years of age and over.

There is an unnamed condition of the ears which corresponds to presbyopia of the eyes. When a man with this condition sets himself to hear he meets the requirements. With his attention concentrated on sounds he can pick out waves over a range that is about normal. He can locate, detect and differentiate sounds about as well as he once did. But when he is not set for it the story is different. His failure to pick out sounds that catch him unawares causes such a man to think himself deaf. He has a hearing test and comes away reassured. In spite of this his daily experience tells him his hearing is not as good as it once was. The fact is that while he has no organic ear trouble, he does have a condition of the ears similar to presbyopia of the eyes, a stiffening and slowing of the muscles and joints and other parts which participate in the process of hearing.

WHERE TO DODGE RAGWEED.

D. H. M. writes: What parts of the U. S. do people subject to hay fever [ragweed, specifically] not have this disease?

What about the Willamette valley of Oregon?

REPLY.

The reports on ragweed for the section east of the Rocky mountains are better than for those west thereof. To escape ragweed pollen one must go to South Florida or to the arid west.

Write to the health commissioner of Oregon and of Portland for information about ragweed in the Willamette valley.

NOBODY KNOWS THE CAUSE.

Mrs. A. L. C. writes:

1. I have a fatty tumor under the arm. I would like to know what causes this.

2. Can a fatty tumor be cured by X-ray? Is an operation necessary for cure?

3. Do they come back if taken care of?

4. Do they cause any harm if not taken care of?

REPLY.

1. Nobody knows.
2. Operation is the only cure.
3. No.
4. Fatty tumors are almost harmless. They may get in the way or they may be infected, but accidents are liable to happen to any tissue.

MAY HAVE TWO CAUSES.

S. K. writes: My baby is 10½ months old. Her urine smells like ammonia. Is there anything I can do for it? Have tried to give her plenty of water, but that does not seem to help.

REPLY.

There are two unrelated causes of this. If soap is left on the diapers by the laundry this odor may develop. If the baby is on a diet that is too rich this odor may result. Too much cream in the milk or too much milk may cause a tendency to acidosis which shows itself by this ammonia odor.

INSURANCE QUERIES.

Chicago, April 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—(1) I left my insurance to my son who died. Is his son entitled to any share in the insurance? (2). My wife was killed. Are her sons entitled to a full share of the insurance I received?

R. M. S.

1. Depends on the wording of the policy. From what you state, it seems probable that the son would not share. 2. See 1.

PRIVATE EYESORE.

Chicago, April 22.—[Friend of the People.]—The vacant lot on the southeast end of the 7200 block of Morgan street is an eyesore to the neighborhood. Lumber has been piled there for months and boys who play in the lot have started bonfires with throwing pieces all over.

T. M.

Report is made that this is private property used by a contractor for the storage of building material. There is no violation of any city ordinance.

DEMURRING TOO LATE.

Chicago, April 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Last year I worked in the southern part of the state for nine months, during which time my brother, living in Cook county, lent me his car. The tax assessor of the southern county sent me a personal property tax for the car, knowing it belonged to my brother. I have no personal property except clothes and inexpensive jewelry. (1). Do I have to pay that tax? (2). Can he seize the few things I have and sell them?

D. L. J.

1. You could have made effective objection at the proper time, but apparently it is too late now. 2. Yes.

AND, SPEAKING OF WHISKERS—

Far be it from us to tell that master of statecraft, James Hamilton Lewis, sah, how to run his campaign, but may we not mention, Colonel, that it might not be a bad idea to flood the state with a picture of the late Gambrinus, who was king in Brussels away back in the thirteenth century? It would not seem at first glance that a king of Brussels in the thirteenth century would have much to do with the November election in Illinois, in the year of grace 1930. But wait! Likewise, hold everything! Old Gambrinus was not only king of Belgium but likewise of beer; in fact, he invented that delectable beverage, and is usually pictured sitting on a beer keg hospitably holding out a glass of amber colored foaming beer.

And here's the point: Gambrinus had whiskers; James Hamilton Lewis, sah, has whiskers. Jim Ham's whiskers are much lovelier and more inspiring than the lace curtains that adorned the face of Gambrinus, but there is a striking resemblance. And Gambrinus, dead and gone these seven hundred years, is going to cut quite a figure in the election in Illinois next fall.

He invented beer, did Gambrinus, and there are many who through the long hot days of summer will remember fondly that delectable beverage. While the campaign is waging furiously they will think with tears in their eyes of the old days when beer was brought to them in ice cold glasses covered with bewitching frost, and how the thick white foam was piled high on the top of the glass and through the glass itself one caught the golden tint of lovely beer. And they raised their glass and said "Prosit," and lightly blew off the beautiful foam, and then—ah, Jim Ham, were the election only held on a hot day in July or August instead of along in cold, dreary November—tck! tck! tck!

THE NEST BUILDER.

The stunted lilac in the littered yard
Is slender-pointed with one fragrant spire
From the green bough on a slow-dying tree
A bob-o-link drops a shattered song of fire.

In a bare room, where high and grimy walls
Pattern in spreading spots of still decay
She sits remembering springs of yesterday.

The fumbling fingers wander here and there
Through drawer and box, then dart in sudden quest,
And in the squalor of a lodging-house
She builds again a long deserted nest.

NYLEHTA.

"SO YOU HAVE a new automobile," sneers M. X. Q. "Well, it goes without saying that it was paid for by the League Opposed to the 18th Amendment." In the first place, M. X. Q., "the League Opposed to the 18th Amendment" hasn't paid a nickel on our car. And in the 4th place, or maybe the 5th, we haven't got a car. And in the 10th place we've never had a car. And in the 15th place we may never get one. And, finally, dear M. X. Q., go wash your face. However, your idea is not so bad now that we think it over.

AFTER CONSIDERING carefully the list of five hundred books contributed by the kind-hearted booksellers to the bookless White House, we wonder why they left out the thrilling tomes that unmistakably go with the 500 books named "How to Know the Wild Flowers," "Little Rollo in Europe," "Elsie Dinsmore in Camp," "Frank on the Lower Mississippi," "Report of the U. S. Forestry and Fisheries Commission, 1849 to 1880," and "Fifty Favorite Receipts for Cooking Fish."

Gosh! How Time Flies!

(Glimpsed by Bernice in the Chicagram.)

But two years rolled down her cheeks, and for a moment the street was a blur.

IT WAS APRIL yesterday all the forenoon. And then old March, who left his toothbrush, or his bedroom slippers, or something like that when he went almost two weeks ago, came back to get his things. He didn't seem able to find them, for he was nosing around late in the afternoon. Hope he gets his property and clears out and stays out. Doggone guests who are always coming back after something they left.

WHAT A FINE IDEAH! Philadelphia is going to buy Hog Island from the government. We don't know, but we suspect that dear old Philadelphia is going to use it as a fitting place to send all its motor road hogs, street car hogs, end seat hogs, and hit-and-run hogs. And we hope they're sentenced to Hog Island for life.

OH, MR. FORBES, YOU DON'T KNOW THOSE BOYS.

B. C. Forbes says that automobile salesmen should get to work selling cars instead of wasting their time complaining how hard times are. Oh, B. C. Forbes, you don't know automobile salesmen. You let it be known that you're slipping for a new car, and, boy, you'll see some work that is work. Why, we just happened to mention, in the most casual sort of way, the other day that we might, just might, mind you, buy an automobile, and do you know that simply watching twenty or thirty automobile salesmen work has tired us so that any day now we're going to ask for a three months' holiday. We're that worn out we've got to have a rest, a good three months' rest, preferably in the Channel Islands, before we'll be one-half of one per cent ourself again. And all from just watching automobile salesmen trying to sell us an automobile. Believe us, Mr. Forbes, the most hard working people in these United States in this oh-well-the-old-bus-will-do-another-year era are automobile salesmen. Don't let 'em fool you.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 12, 1865.

THE NEWS.—A very heavy storm east of Toledo last night cut off our dispatches in the middle. At some stages of the war such an interruption would have caused painful anxiety, but with the general in chief of all the southern armies, the rebel army of Virginia, three lieutenant generals, nineteen major generals, sixty-one brigadiers, and privates ad libitum at our disposal, our readers will undoubtedly be patient. Two reports of Johnston's movements come to us: One that he is retreating towards Virginia to join Lee, and another that he has surrendered to Sherman.

WASHINGTON.—Physicians who have most carefully examined Secretary Seward's case have come to the conclusion that he cannot recover from his injuries.

NEW YORK.—The Herald's Washington special says prominent rebels—probably Judge Campbell and Mr. Hunter—are soon expected in Washington in connection with the business of restoration.

WASHINGTON.—The state department has grounds to believe the British government will revoke the recognition of belligerent rights to the confederacy on receipt of the President's proclamation closing certain southern ports and declaring the blockade at an end.

NEW YORK.—The Evening Post's Washington special says: "A severe fight took place yesterday in Fairfax county between rebel troops sent out by Lee after the evacuation and a portion of our troops in that vicinity. The rebels were defeated and dispersed."

APRIL 12, 1900.

LONDON.—Suspicion that the Boers who have been encamped in the Biggarsberg range ever since the relief of Ladysmith and have started out to force Gen. Buller into a fight is confirmed by dispatches regarding the engagement on April 10 at the Sunday river camp. There the Boers began by shelling the British with a six pound gun mounted on one of the spurs of Biggarsberg. Gen. Buller replied with his big guns and rifle fire, but so far as is known little damage was done by either side.

WASHINGTON.—The house passed the Foraker Porto Rican bill by a vote of 161 to 153 and the measure now goes to President McKinley, who will sign it without hesitation and thus end the long dispute on the subject. Nine Republicans, including Lorimer and Warner of Illinois, voted against their party on the bill.

APRIL 12, 1920.

CHICAGO.—Terms of settlement of the Chicago switchmen's strike were offered by President John Grunau of the Chicago Yardmen's association. The terms demand recognition of the association as a representative switchmen's union, an eight hour basic day, and a wage scale of 95 cents to $1 an hour. Meanwhile the strike situation in the east took on a more serious aspect when trainmen in several districts joined the walkout of the switchmen.

PARIS.—The Parisien says it learns that four small French gunboats armed with machine guns have left Cherbourg for the Rhine, where they will supervise the river.

WASHINGTON.—George Creel, head of the wartime committee on public information, is charged in a report to congress of the joint committee on printing with reckless extravagance in the administration of propaganda periodicals and press agenting activities. The committee has compelled the administration to abandon publication of 113 of 226 periodicals at a saving of $1,200,000 annually.

DUBLIN.—A huge crowd assembled before the gates of Mount Joy prison and recited the rosary in Irish for the hunger strikers. Father Carolan participated and was admitted to see his brother, Councilor Carolan, Sinn Fein member of the Belfast corporation, who, with Alderman McCabe, is considered to be in the most serious physical condition. Soldiers with an armored tank were keeping order.

DRYS NOMINATED.

Chicago, April 10.—In your editorial of April 6, the second paragraph reads as follows: "It is because we believe this [what you call organized bigotry] to be the paramount issue in the Republican congressional primary that THE TRIBUNE indorses for congressmen at large Stephen A. Day and Edward J. Hargrave." Further on in this same editorial you also indorse Col. Ashbel V. Smith, Ernest L. Kreamer, Harry L. Brin, and James C. Moreland, because of their wet declarations. You state that the reaction against reformism is increasing in "scope and force." You like to give prominence to the Literary Digest straw poll as well as to the straw vote of the various colleges showing just how wet things are. Even in this morning's issue you rave about the 100,000 women that Mrs. Sabin and Mrs. Norton have enrolled in the wet ranks. Any thinking person could give these ladies the names of organizations who could supply them with a million names of women to help their wet cause.

Well, Mr. Tribune, on Tuesday, April 8, we had a real, legitimate, fair and square election, and it makes me smile as I write it, but Mr. Day and Mr. Hargrave and Mr. Smith and Mr. Kreamer and Mr. Brin and Mr. Moreland were not in the money. Every last one of your wet paramount issue champions were "also rans" and most of them poor ones at that. Now try to laugh that off, and keep on kidding yourself and some of your readers that everything is "all wet," or begin to dig up a lot of allbis, as I anticipate that a lot of your wet correspondents will do. I imagine you are going to find it hard to explain just why the people did not want wet champions, since you have gloated so much over the phoney straw votes. The proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof.

C. HAWTHORNE.

ACCURACY OF A STRAW POLL.

Chicago, April 10.—Why can't the disgruntled drys stop hen-pecking the Literary Digest? Do they want to hand pick every recipient of a straw vote ballot as they do candidates for federal judgeships?

Getting two million names is a wholesale job, and the phone books and motor car registrations come closer to being representative of the whole country than any other lists available on a wholesale basis, even though most telephones and automobiles are listed under men's names. City directories would give full representation to women, but would exclude everybody in the small towns and on the farms and this would involve much greater error than the sex inequality.

The history of woman's suffrage shows that women vote about the same as men, and the history of Literary Digest polls shows that the lists used reflect with amazing accuracy the sentiment of the country. Instead of complaining, the drys should be thankful that it is only a straw vote and not an official ballot on Volstead repeal.

W. B. JOHNS.

EAST AND WEST.

Chicago, April 9.—Seldom is such historical charm displayed in any two nations, so far apart, and yet so near together, as is shown in the coincidence happening of the naval parley in London and the passive resistance of Mahatma Gandhi in India.

Consider the plight of the Mahatma, very well regarded by some hundred more millions of people, without an army and navy, but possessed of centuries of philosophy. The persons in India who do not like British rule probably are no more numerous than the population of the British Isles, while the people of Russia who wish Britain ill in India are in excess of the white population of Britain and the dominions overseas. The differences in the sides of the question are made up by the British navy, Tommy Atkins, and Vickers, Ltd., to say nothing of the Armstrongs.

At the time of the American revolution the population in the colonies was around 3,000,000. An official historian of the British war office has said the population of the British Isles was then about 10,000,000. Only about half of the colonists were for the revolution, and not by any means all of the partisans nor all of the Britons were against the American colonists, before France and Spain also attracted England's attention during the American revolution.

In those days, too, the French and English divided up a good bit of India that had grown as the result of the commercial outposts and two aggressive clerks, Robert Clive and Joseph Dupleix. So Britain swallowed up France's portion of India and later the crown replaced the British East India company. On both sides, French and English, native troops engaged outnumbered the French and the British.

Under British rule in India now are some 400 native states. Sometimes it would seem that an army and navy become at a cheaper price than is paid in Nirvana.

MEXICAN LABOR.

Marshalltown, Ia., April 7.—A spectacle seen passing through this city today: Ten car loads of Mexicans, men, women, and children, being transported to beet fields in Minnesota! And everywhere in this and other states native born Americans asking for work!

THE WISDOM OF SOLOMON.

TORREON, Coahuila, Mexico, April 7.—In your issue of April 4 I note that according to the "Ferth Nagast" on file in the family archives of the late queen of Abyssinia that five days and nine months after the queen of Sheba returned home from her visit with King Solomon she gave birth to a son and that the king acknowledged the child.

Seems to me that old King Sol was not so wise after all and that the queen put something over on him.

PURVES FOUND GUILTY; GETS 14 YRS. FOR MURDER

Killer May Not Push Fight for New Trial.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Stanislaus Bieniekiewicz, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge D. J. Normoyle.

Joseph Lydon, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Daniel Chaney, assault to murder, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge John F. McGoorthy.

Neville Purves, former business agent for the Sign Painters and Bulletin Board Hangers' union, who was found guilty of murder by a jury in Judge Daniel P. Trude's Criminal court yesterday, may not press a motion for a new trial. Attorneys Harry Levy and Emmet Byrne, who defended Purves, said they were satisfied, because the jury recommended a sentence of 14 years, the lightest punishment possible for murder, and that their client indicated to them that he, too, was satisfied and might decide not to fight the case any further.

Purves shot and killed Edward J. Tracey, who had succeeded him as business agent in the union. The men were boyhood friends, but bitterness developed between them when they became rivals for the post of business agent in the same union. Purves, according to the testimony for the state, walked into the Club Arlington, at 1111 West North avenue, early in the morning of Nov. 24, 1929, and without any provocation fired four shots into Tracey's body.

Pleads Self-Defense.

Purves, however, had told the jury that he shot in self-defense. He contended that Tracey had displayed a revolver and threatened him, but no witness corroborated his story, which was in direct conflict with the testimony of Policeman Thomas A. McGoffey. The latter was in the club with his wife and witnessed the shooting and arrested Purves as he fled to the street.

The jury reached its verdict shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The jurors had deliberated since 9 o'clock on Thursday night.

Jurors Make Compromise.

Assistant State's Attorneys Walker Keefe and John Hampton had asked for the death penalty, characterizing the killing as a "cold-blooded, unpremeditated murder." The jurors, however, shortly after they began their deliberations, were 7 to 5 for conviction and finally compromised on the minimum punishment. At no time was the death penalty seriously considered, the jurors reported.

Mrs. Margaret Shevlin Tracey, sister of the dead labor agent, and several other woman relatives wept as the verdict was read. They refused, however, to comment on the recommendation of the jurors.

SHOE MANAGER OF SHOE STORE.

L. Benn, 8756 West 15th street, was robbed of $206 yesterday by a bandit who held him up in the Regina Shoe store, 4739 South Ashland avenue, of which he is the manager.

REDS CONVICTED OF INCITING RIOT; TALKIES BARRED

Foster and 4 Aids May Get Six Months.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 11.—[Special.]—William Z. Foster, number one communist, and four of his lieutenants who helped to usher in March with a Red riot in Union square will be among the "stay at homes" at the scheduled May day demonstration. Mr. Foster and his aids were found guilty this afternoon of "inciting a riot, unlawful assembly and of constituting a public nuisance." A further charge of felonious assault remains to be tried.

The trial of the Red leaders who spoke so courageously from the center of a milling mob last March 6 urging their followers to march on city hall and then ducked into a subway entrance when the police began to swing blackjacks was held before three special session justices with Police Commissioner Whalen as the star witness for the prosecution.

To Be Sentenced Next Week.

Mr. Foster, Israel Amter, Robert Minor, Harry Raymond and Joseph Lester, the "lost leaders" will be sentenced next week. They may go to jail for six months.

It became evident early in the one day trial that the communists were on the losing side when Judges Max Solomon, Daniel F. Murphy and James J. McInerney put their heads together and decided the courtroom could not be turned into a movie theater.

Sound pictures of the battle of Union square showing Mr. Whalen's shock troops wading in and recording the squeals of the fleeing Reds were the ace up the communistic sleeve.

A Poor Day for Martyrs.

With the picture testimony ruled out, the communists were caught without any defense to speak of, for at least one hundred thousand persons heard them urge the march on city hall. None of the witnesses on either side was permitted to tell of individual or collective blackjack waving and the victims did not have an opportunity to discuss even their wounds. It was a very poor day for martyrs.

SO YOU'RE GOING TO AUSTRIA AND GERMANY

Thousands of people have good reason to thank Miss Laughlin for the delightful background she has given their European trips with her many authoritative books. Her new book, just published, is the result of extensive travel and investigation in all the fascinating parts of Germany. She covered 5,000 miles by motor, in 1929, gathering up-to-the-minute material. It will be well worth while for you to come in and listen to this entertaining and informing talker. Miss Laughlin will be glad to autograph copies of her book.

British Women Do Well with First Novels

Muriel Harris Winning About $5,000.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special correspondence.]—An American publisher who has been in London during the last two or three weeks was telling me the other day that he had seen some exceptionally promising first novels by English writers; and it really seems as though we were being deluged with first novels. Not all of them are as good as one could wish, but I have been reading a number of them.

First of all, there is the prize winner in the Cape-Harper £1,000 competition. This competition was not specially for first novels, but the winning book happens to be a first novel. The author, Miss Muriel Harris, is a journalist on the staff of the Manchester Guardian. She writes very well, and her book is interesting. Another journalist is Miss Edith Brill, who has written a first novel called "The Mink Coat." This book is about a furrier and his family; it is very simple, very unpretentious, and a little "plano." The author is the wife of H. W. Timberley, a poet and field naturalist, and she, too, is engaged in work in Manchester.

Still a third journalist, and this time a very young one indeed, is Miss Mary Grigs, the author of "Bid Her Awake." I like the look of this book, for Miss Grigs has a very charming, light touch; and although her book is immature, that is a very good fault in a young writer. Miss Grigs is on the staff of the London Evening News. She seems to know something about studio life in Chelsea, and if she can get away from Chelsea, which is the home of the English dilettanti, she will very likely write a good novel as her power develops.

The author of "Archibald," calls himself "Frederick Markham," but that is not his real name. This book is about the advertising world, and contains a great deal of shrewd criticism of those who live in that world. Archibald himself is a go-getting advertiser, who secures a title for himself by means of war work, and who keeps out of the army, safe and sound through all the alarms of war. Mr. Markham is in the advertising profession himself, and he knows what he is talking about. He has also had some connection with the theater, so that "Archibald" is full of varied interest.

Mr. Guy Chapman, another "first novelist," already is well known in the literary world. He has been a publisher, and for some time acted as London representative for Alfred Knopf. He has done a great deal of editorial work, and is now, I believe, engaged with the publishing firm of Eyre & Spottiswoode. His book is about publishing, and about the war. But it is not a strictly autobiographical work, for the publishers described in "A Painted Cloth" are an old fashioned firm, product of several generations, and adapted by one go ahead member to the needs of the present day. There is much humor in the book, much scholarship, and much feeling. Besides being author and publisher and scholar, Mr. Chapman is the husband of Miss Storm Jameson, and is a charming, sensitive man.

Finally, I must mention a remarkable, but very imperfect and fragmentary novel called "Drift," by James Hanley. This is about an Irish family in Liverpool. It is by turn brilliant and terrible, feeble and vivid. The author seems to have been influenced both by James Joyce and by Dostoevsky; but he is not as good as either of his models.

Chicago Book Auction Sales Will Start Among Collectors

An extremely interesting book auction will be held on Monday evening, April 21, in the Fine Arts building. The directing committee consists of Oliver R. Barrett and Paul Steinbrecher, two of the more important collectors in America—whom we are fortunate to have as Chicagoans—and Walter Hill, Wright Howes, and Franklin J. Meine, collectors and dealers in rare books. The committee has gathered together 242 items of Americana, autographs, modern first editions, fine press books, manuscripts, bindings, broadsides, and valuable historical documents and association copies. They will all be offered at unrestricted auction and whatever profits accrue from the sales will be shared by the owners of the items offered. Chicago is to take its place with New York as a book auction center if this first attempt proves successful. There is priceless material in Chicago and collectors always are, as every one knows, exchanging, buying, selling, even changing the character of their collections. Some of the items in this auction are almost unique—one of two known copies of the Scammon reports, for instance, and a letter signed by Washington. It is hoped to make a regular affair of the Chicago book auctions. Middle western collectors certainly will welcome them.

"Lyrics of Family Life" is a collection of poems from the pen of Josephine Smart Madden, widof of Representative Martin B. Madden. The poems were written over a period of thirty years, beginning with one about a trip to Europe in 1897 and ending with "The Vacant Chair" written for Christmas day, 1928. Now Boccaccio's Stories Are Told in 1930 Yankee

A new edition of Boccaccio's "Decameron" will be issued to the members of the Limited Editions club for April. It is a new translation by Frances Winwar, author of "The Golden Round," etc.

The first translation of the Decameron into English was made by John Payne in 1620 and this always has been treated as the standard translation. J. E. Rigg did a new translation for the Navarre society thirty years ago.

The Limited Editions club felt that the Payne translation was in an English so archaic that it is difficult to read, and the Rigg version was stilted and pedantic.

So they had a new translation made into conversational American, which, they felt, more nearly approached the original work in feeling, as that was done in the Tuscan vernacular and not in pure Italian.

"Tiger" Strikes from Grave at Foch, Policies of Yankees

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Grandeur and Misery of Victory," by Georges Clemenceau [Harcourt Brace].

For months the entire English-speaking world has been waiting for the book which is published today, Clemenceau's "Grandeur and Misery of Victory." Some of the first keen edge of its possible thrill was removed when it was published in French a few months ago, but to the average American reader, at least, the English translation brings unmined gold of news.

To that reader the book will be a disappointment. We have all expected a volume of the utmost importance, a statement of international secrets, a book which perhaps would clear up mysteries, a reminiscential record by one of the few eyewitnesses of the greatest diplomatic moments of modern history.

We expected—I speak, I am sure for every one who awaited the book with any eagerness whatever—something of the grandeur and the misery which its title implied. The disappointment of finding it, in essence, a weapon of self-justification rather than a flaming sword of the noble patriotism of its author who was preëminently during his long life devoted passionately to his country, makes the reader feel that the tiger has taken on the form of a creature neither master of the forest nor of himself.

The book is a virulent attack on Foch, a documented, passionate denial of a volume in which Foch himself proved his littleness rather than his greatness, his "Memorial de Foch" by Recouly, published in English as "Foch: My Conversations with the Marshal." It was published after the death of the great soldier. It attacked Clemenceau with violence and malice. The Tiger replies from the grave in a tone no less malicious.

Removed as we are from the causes of the enmity, the blasts of words of those two great men seem puerile indeed. Their personal enmity, was a matter which concerned themselves, and at most their fellow soldiers and fellow statesmen. That two of the most unquestionably great men of the harassing world war period, who unquestionably served the cause of their country and of the allies with complete devotion, should so muddy their memories by recriminations is a pitiful comment on human nature.

That Foch should go to his grave at 78 with consuming hatred of Clemenceau, and that Clemenceau just tottering on the brink of ninety should have been able to generate such a venom against Foch as to drive both of those old men into print when life should have been filled with the calm of battles past is one of the tragedies of man.

Clemenceau's hatred for Foch colors his whole survey of the war and the peace in this volume. There scarcely is a view of any phase of either the war or the peace that he does not associate with Foch in one way or another. It is an obsession.

The book, beside a documentary statement that he saved Foch's military life and that Foch repaid him with attacks, has much in it buried under crimination and recrimination. Clemenceau tells of the losing battle in which he engaged with Gen. Pershing when he insisted on using the American troops as replacements for allied divisions and Pershing politely insisted upon using the A. E. F. as an American army.

Clemenceau accuses the allies of "self-inflicted defeat as the sequel to supreme victory" in the peace. He goes into detail about the "mutilations of the treaty." He claims that America made a separate peace and that Great Britain and America are both helping Germany against the interests of France.

If the tone of the book had not been throughout so peevish there would be a tremendous force in his statistical argument that Germany is arming while France is disarming.

Germany consistently has been arming, he says, and gives figures which are startling. According to the treaty Germany's armament was not to exceed 102,000 rifles and carbines, but she has manufactured 300,000 since 1925. Allowed 1,926 machine guns, she has 20,000. As against 252 trench mortars permitted by the peace treaty, she has 19,000. And she has manufactured 2,000 field guns as against 288 permitted in the treaty. In ammunition she has manufactured during the last five years 2,500,000 shells, whereas the treaty limited her to a stock of 450,000 shells. She has had additional shells from Russia.

As far as aviation is concerned, Germany "has developed her commercial aviation on an enormous scale and all of her airplanes are required to be equipped so as to be able at a day's notice to carry a huge number of bombs. As a matter of fact, she prides herself on being able to put into line, immediately upon mobilization, more than a thousand perfectly equipped airplanes and to be in a position to manufacture more than three thousand airplanes a month thereafter. The training of her military pilots continues to be effected in Russia."

There is nothing, continues Clemenceau, to keep Germany from manufacturing as many of the larger guns as she likes and concealing them in secret depots, or to keep her from making pacts with neighboring states to procure various kinds of artillery.

The Germans, his book declares, have constructed immense railroad junctions and marshaling yards which, in the event of war, would make it possible for a hundred and twenty military trains to be formed and dispatched in one day.

The motor postal service has been developed to "an unexplainable, not to say disquieting, degree. Night and day huge cars capable of holding forty people, but generally empty, go to and fro everywhere."

Thus is the rule obeyed of the treaty which explicitly states: "In the demilitarized zone the upkeep of all permanent works for mobilization is forbidden."

As far as man power is concerned, Clemenceau says that innumerable "sports clubs" really are military training clubs and have been steadily encouraged by the German ministries. Germany is training soldiers and officers to command them. Germany has had her indebtedness lowered to such a degree that she is in a stronger financial position than France. France, on the other hand, depleted numerically, with her land and her resources spent, her finances low, her relations with Germany a series of concessions since the war, has not even been able to fortify her frontier. She actually is disarming, rather than arming, Clemenceau says. And he says those things with all of the force and power of a tremendous warning.

The book should have been divided into two parts. The first, the answer to Foch's accusations, if Clemenceau felt that justice demanded such a reply. Silence would have been more dignified. But if his soul was so upwrought that it demanded expression, the reply should have been made privately. The second should have contained Clemenceau's really trenchant observations about the way that the peace has worked out thus far and the dangers of its future application. Mixed up as both parts are, the words of the statesmen and the patriot are filtered through the hatred of the accused.

There is amazing clarity of expression as well as observation in the book—amazing from the pen of a man of 88. The book saddens us in that it might have been one of tremendous power if it really had been about its subject rather than about the accusations of the author's enemies.

Another Clemenceau, the Dr. Johnson of his Boswell, is recorded in "Clemenceau" [Longman's Green] by Jean Martet, who was for years the secretary and the close friend of that great man, and who set down a series of conversations begun in 1927 as they took place. To Martet Clemenceau gave the full documentary records of his life while that record was being made. That is as nearly as possible the official Clemenceau biography and that "Clemenceau" explains, in a sense, the "Grandeur and Misery of Victory." The two books should be read together.

Yank and Briton

In his last book Clemenceau wrote: "Grown rich in the war, America is, if we can believe the experts, setting out to ruin us by intercepting, for the extravagances of her budding nouveaux riches, the sums that we are to receive as reparations for the damage caused by Germany.

"At the same time she is a thorn in the side of England, who can no longer aspire to the dominion of the seas under the pretext of 'freedom.' All the new central Europe is in a state of turmoil as a result of the recrudescence of violent activity on the part of a Germany who, with the unwitting help of the English and Americans, is preparing to start on another criminal venture before she has expiated the last."

Old and Newer China Appears in These Books

To Which History Professor Gives Praise.

BY HARLEY F. MacNAIR.

[Professor of Far Eastern History and Institutions at the University of Chicago.]

"Tu Fu: The Autobiography of a Chinese Poet," arranged from his poems and translated by Florence Ayscough, volume I, A. D. 712-759 [Houghton Mifflin].

"Portrait of a Chinese Lady and Certain of Her Contemporaries," by Lady Hosie [Morrow].

Here are two volumes which no student of things Chinese should overlook. The one is a reconstruction of eighth century China under the T'ang dynasty; the other is a presentation of social China of the present day.

Mrs. Ayscough, the biographer and translator of Tu Fu, has spent many years of residence in China in the study of that country's ancient culture and is indisputably the foremost English woman-sinologue of this generation. Lady Hosie was born in China, the daughter of an English missionary, Mr. W. E. Soothill. He now is professor of Chinese in Oxford university. She is the widow of Sir Alexander Hosie, one of H. B. M's best known consuls-general whose map of China is the best produced.

The autobiography of Tu Fu is based on the Tu Shih Ching Ch'uan—"The Mirror Which Reflects the Knowledge and Estimates the Quality of Tu's Poems"—in twenty volumes published in 1873. Of Tu Fu (A. D. 712-770) the Chinese say, "The History of the State can be read in his poems." This is true, provided that the non-Chinese reader has as competent an interpreter and translator as Mrs. Ayscough. She, and her Chinese teacher, Mr. Nung Chu (Cultivator of Bamboo) are soaked in the history and literature of the T'ang period.

Tu Fu was a prolific versifier, having composed on an average a poem a day during a considerable part of his life. To explain the method used in translating the poems would take far more space than is allotted; suffice it to say that there is no attempt to present the verses in rhyme, but a very successful attempt is made, by thorough analysis of the Chinese ideograph, to give not only the meaning of the original but the spirit, flavor and atmosphere of the verse.

In 1926 Lady Hosie accompanied her father to China. The latter was a member of the statutory committee rent by the British government to study conditions in China and to report on the best methods of expenditure of the British share of the Boxer indemnity (from Dec. 1, 1922) "to the mutual interests of his majesty and the republic of China." The commission met in Shanghai and then visited Nanking, Hankow, Hangchow, Canton, Tientsin, Peking, and other cities. The other English members who went to China were Viscount Willingdon and Dame Adelaide Anderson. Three distinguished Chinese served also as members, Dr. Hu Shih, the "father of the literary revolution in China," Dr. V. K. Ting, China's outstanding geologist, and Dr. C. C. Wang, leading authority on Chinese railways. All these and many others are characters in Lady Hosie's survey of contemporary China.

The cause of writing and the keynote of the work are to be found in the author's foreword addressed to her friend, Li Cheng (Encourager of Sincerity), a son of one of China's leading families. Said Li Cheng to Lady Hosie: "Why do you not write another book about Chinese people?

"Surely we are interesting! It is obvious whom you must paint next; you must write about our new Chinese ladies. Are they not very charming and very much alive?"

Wise Mother Avoids Use of Force; Reasons with Child, Instead

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON REVANS.

When you read the next sentence, you'll probably say one of two things—either, "How silly!" or "Of course it can be done."

This is the statement: It is possible to bring a baby through his babyhood and little childhood without ever taking from him forcibly the things he shouldn't have. This is not theory. I have personal proof of it.

Now, perhaps you think this isn't a matter of any importance. But it is. Just the way in which you get a baby to part with the thing he's grasping, and wants with all his might, but must not have, is an important thing. It's important in its effect on him. And it is a symbol of your attitude toward him.

It's important, for one thing, because it draws the contrast between force and intelligence. Just watch a baby when he's being forcibly deprived of something. See his face get red with anger or resistance and watch his frantic, leech-like clutch.

Or listen to his howl when something is suddenly snatched from him.

Of if he's used to that treatment and he's quick to sense your intention, see him "beat it" in the opposite direction as fast as he can with the forbidden object—sometimes to come to grief against a table or be hurt by the thing itself.

On the other hand, your baby or tiny child senses what might be called your physical respect for him if you don't use those tactics. And he instinctively responds to that.

"Give it to me, baby," said in a friendly voice with outstretched hand will almost always do the trick if you start that way with him. An explanation can be understood extremely early—if not by words, sometimes by voice or pantomime.

Except in extremity, depend on a calm, "Give it to me, baby," without touching the thing he holds.

In an emergency, where a thing is fragile or dangerous [your fault for leaving it around], restrain yourself from snatching it away. Try not to pry those tenacious little fingers loose. Instead, get down on the floor, or take the baby on your lap. Being on a level with them is most important at crucial moments.

Then take hold gently of the object in the baby's or little child's hands without pulling. As you hold it gently, too, so no damage can be done, explain in a quiet voice. And the more interesting and storylike you make your explanation, the better.

Groult Is Featuring the Reversible Coat

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Fashions of the hours have to fit their hour with such nicety that the style makers are driven to all sorts of shifts to make an ensemble appropriate for numerous occasions. Camouflage garments are all over the style marts of Paris, and one of the best of these is the reversible coat that can, by the simple feat of turning inside out, become another garment of more or less formality. Nicole Groult is featuring such coats, preferring them to the more banal trick costumes that are seen about Paris.

Her reversible ensemble coats aren't mere two color garments, but have their different colors divided into amusing sections so that they are most individual. Such a coat is shown in the accompanying sketch. It is black faille on one side, as illustrated by the large figure, but worn t'other side out it has a shaped band of rosy beige amidships, as shown in the small sketch.

The scarf at the back of the petaled collar is rose-beige and black, and there is a petaled yoke at the back of the shoulders. The use of two colors on one side of this coat makes it more dressy, and when it is worn black side out it is simple enough for very practical occasions. This coat is closed by three buttons at the waistline which barely meet.

The dress is made of rosy beige faille just to the circular flare on the lower skirt, which is black faille. The cuffs of the long beige sleeves are also black. At the narrow tailored belt that marks a slightly subnormal waistline Groult places a cluster of black and beige flowers. The fashionable large black hat has a supple outer brim and half crown of rosy beige lace straw.

City Club Opens Recreation Rooms on Roof of Building

Several hundred members of the City club, belonging to the Pond Recreation association, recently organized among the club's members, yesterday inspected the newly completed exercising quarters of the association on the roof of the club building at 315 Plymouth court. Previous to the inspection, officers of the association were installed at a luncheon.

The new quarters are equipped for squash, hand ball, volley ball, and code ball. Special features are machines for ultra-violet ray treatments.

Plans for the recreation rooms were formed a year ago, one of the leaders being Irving K. Pond, an architect, and a brother of the late Allen B. Pond, in whose memory the project was named. Roland F. Barker, formerly chairman of the club's football luncheons committee, was elected the first president of the association. Avery Brundage was made vice president.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Pot Roasted Chicken.

When a hen beyond the age for good frying is pot roasted to perfection the product will be much like that of fried chicken, so much like it that when cold it will make a good picnic meat. In a sense this is top of the stove baking or braising. The French would call it chicken "bonne femme," which really means chicken in a rather humble fashion, or "after the manner of the good wife."

Use a heavy iron Dutch oven preferably for the work. Clean and disjoint the chicken, never chop through the joints, but dissect the chicken with care, season the pieces thus secured by rolling them in flour in which salt and pepper are mixed. Prepare the kettle by frying out in it a little fat salt pork, or chicken fat may be used, or even drippings. The salt pork flavor perhaps is best, and next to that the chicken fat. It requires but a little fat, although some people like to add as much as half a cup to a five pound hen, especially if seasoning vegetables are to be used.

First, have the fat hot in the kettle. Put the floured pieces of chicken in and sear the surface of each well. Then add a cup of boiling water, bring it to a boil, cover the kettle and reduce the flame to a simmering point, and cook until tender. We can hear the cooking going on when the heat under the kettle is quite low, but we should be able to hear it, otherwise the flame is too low. There is not much danger, however, of there being too little fire, and there is a good deal of danger in having too much, under the kettle.

The time allotted will depend on the age of the chicken. An old hen might require as much as an hour and a half. Occasional basting is eminently worthwhile. It is better never to have to add any water after the start of the cooking. If any is required it is because too much heat has been used and then the chicken will not be as tender and nice as it would be otherwise.

With careful cooking there will be enough liquid at the end of the cooking for a gravy or sauce. Sometimes a bed of vegetables is used in cooking the chicken thus, and sometimes no more than a tablespoon of chopped onion. Instead of boiling water, boiling chicken stock can be used, and as much as two cups. The cook who finds it difficult to do this work without burning the meat will be helped by using a trivet in the kettle.

Here's Proof That Where There's a Will There's a Wedding

BY DORIS BLAKE.

It can be done and it is being done, and as witness to the truth of this I was a guest at the wedding recently. It was as charming a wedding scene as I ever attended—ushers in correct morning wedding attire, rolled white carpet for the bride's eventful walk to the altar, lovely bridesmaid in pastel coloring of frock and hat carrying flowers, the bride with an adorable pearl trimmed cap and train veil, long sleeved and long skirted gown of white, and long stemmed lilies in her arms. Dignified church music. Everything to make the day live as a perfect memory to all of us in attendance, even to a rare June day in the middle of winter.

And not a debt hanging over the two young persons! After a brief honeymoon they enter an apartment almost furnished. The necessities are all there and because of the clever buying and management of the young couple what looks like pretty luxurious little nest greets your eyes on entrance.

It is because young people say that they cannot afford to get married; that they cannot afford to have a nice wedding; that they cannot afford to set up housekeeping that I draw upon this young pair as an example of what can be done with good management.

On either side their families are just plain folk, even as you and I. No rich mammas or daddies or uncles had a hand in putting over the charming romance and wedding. Two nice young people met, fell in love and agreed to get married as soon as they could. She was working. The eldest of a family of five, she has been working since she was a slip of a thing of 11. In the eight intervening years she has been of financial help to her widowed mother in the upbringing of the rest of the brood, close knit in years.

Her salary never has been large. But no matter what she was earning, the girl saved something, increasing it with each raise in salary. The boy, also of a large family, accepted his share of responsibility at home—and saved money beside. They have had a good time the last two years of their romance.

The striking thing about them, as a today's young couple, is that each had a couple of thousand in the bank.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

THE TRUTH ABOUT ORANGE-PEKOE TEA!

INDIA TEA

MILLIONS know that 'Orange-Pekoe' is not a kind or flavor of tea...that it is only a trade name for a size of leaf. They know, too, that no two 'Orange-Pekoes' are alike. Now, tea drinkers who formerly asked for just 'Orange-Pekoe' are demanding INDIA Orange-Pekoe. Because India grows the finest tea in the world. When you buy tea ... look for the Map of India on the package of tea you buy.

SYNOPSIS.

Catherine West of Boston on her way to Paris meets Geoffrey Macadam in the Havre-Paris train. Macadam is an Englishman who lives in Paris. Catherine tells Macadam she is going to visit her cousin's widow, Mme. Belmont Bender. She is a little apprehensive about the coming visit because she had received, just before sailing, a letter from Miss Clubing, who tells her that Mme. Bender is far from well. Macadam is a lawyer and tells Catherine that his firm handles Mme. Bender's affairs, but he doesn't know the lady very well. He had heard that she was ill. Arrived in Paris, Catherine is a little disconcerted when her cousin's chauffeur is not at the station to meet her. Geoffrey sees her into a taxi, giving her his address and telephone number. He tells her that he will call to inquire how things are at the Bender apartment, and she promises to call him. Arrived at Mme. Bender's apartment, the concierge tells her that madame is very ill. Catherine waits at the door for some time before her ring is answered. Finally Eduardo, the butler, responds to the ring. She is treated coldly by the servants, and Mme. Meg, Bender's maid, suggests that she go to a hotel. Catherine insists on remaining in the apartment as she is suspicious of the servants. In the morning she goes to her cousin's room.

INSTALLMENT XII.

A MISTAKE.

Evidently, although Germaine appeared quite normal, Catherine was not satisfied. Probably experience had taught her not to rely upon these fortuitous phases too implicitly.

The Frenchwoman still detained Catherine's hands, stroking them with soothing, quick movements. Her eyes devoured the vivid young face.

"Sit there, my child, in the big chair, quite close to me. Now, tell me everything about yourself. Did you have a good crossing, and was Eduardo on time at the station so that you did not have to do things alone? You were well looked after?"

"Everything was perfect; Germaine dear! Quite, quite perfect."

On no account must Mme. Bender know what had actually happened. Clearly she had not the least suspicion that her orders were neglected.

"And your room? Do you like it? I told James to give you my own old room, at the corner. I have lain here thinking how charming you would look against the green and gold. Are you happy there?"

"It is a beautiful room, Germaine. It is like you to think of it."

"No, no! I have nothing pleasanter to think of, here alone. I have always marveled how, out of that dull, cold New England, where no one has any eyebrows, you could have got that coloring of a Tintoretto. It warms one, like the sun."

She ran on flutteringly in her pure and lovely French, and as the sentences followed one another with rapid irrelevance, the girl scanned her features for some sign of aberration, curiously enough discovering none. After a few minutes she began to feel less uneasy. Germaine was much as she had always been—aged, of course, and tremulous from weakness, but otherwise little changed. In the haggard features it was still possible to trace remnants of the regular beauty which had first captivated Harry Bender. The luxuriant hair was streaked with gray, but it retained its natural wave, and was worn as she had always worn it, drawn back from a central parting to show her delicate ears. On the right temple it revealed the end of the ugly scar which marked the injury of last year.

Above all else it was the eyes which held Catherine's attention. Wide, fixed and wistful, the eyes of a neurasthenic, they now riveted their gaze eagerly on the girl's face, now darted this way and that with frequent watchful glances towards the open door. They expressed timidity, lack of assurance, and some other less easily defined emotion baffling to the onlooker; yet in them Catherine could detect nothing to indicate loss of reason.

Nor in the rather childish prattle, skipping like a dragon fly from topic to topic, was there anything unusual. At no time had Mme. Bender possessed a keen or logical brain, though fineness of taste and an evasive charm had in a great measure made up for the lack of understanding. Always she had given the impression of being withdrawn in an inner fantastic world, and when it came to practical affairs she had accepted the dictates of her husband without question. Now it struck Catherine that these characteristics had assumed exaggerated form. She had definitely reverted to a childlike state, trusting and fearing without reason, shrinking from reality and claiming protection. Just how far this retirement might extend it was impossible to say.

All was now silent in the next room, though the girl did not remark the fact until upon her companion's face she caught an expression of acute listening. Then she knew that Germaine wished to tell her something, and had been waiting for the maid to go away.

"Catherine, my dear!"

She whispered the words, meantime clutching Catherine's arm in a nervous grip.

"What is it, Germaine?"

"Yesterday—or was it the day before?—I had a dreadful experience. Something so stupid happened. Have they told you?"

"A little, Germaine. You drank something by mistake. Wasn't that it?" returned the girl, embarrassed to find a suitable reply.

The gray eyes took on an eager glitter.

"A mistake—yes, yes! Just that. So foolish of me—I cannot yet think how it came about." She paused, again listening, then continued earnestly: "I want you to believe me when I say it was an accident. I had here on the table a sleeping draught in a little glass, and in another glass a solution of carbolic in which at night I put a little dental plate. You understand?" she demanded urgently, her eyes searching Catherine's face.

"Of course. What happened then?"

"You see, one of the glasses is green. That is the one that contains the sleeping draught. Well, while Jeanne was out of the room getting me a hot water bottle, I took up the green glass and drank a little. Only a very little, for at once I knew I had taken the wrong thing. Ah!" with a convulsive shudder, her eyes closing, "it was strong, so strong! It burned my throat. My throat is still raw, though Jeanne declares that is my imagination. You know sometimes my imagination is very vivid. Yet I cannot see how—" Her voice trailed off and she pressed her fingers to her throat with a distracted gesture. "Anyhow, I screamed, 'Jeanne, Jeanne, come at once!' I called, 'I have taken poison!' But she was at the back of the apartment; she could not hear me. Meantime the drop I had swallowed burned like fire all the way down. I was in agony. It was a long time before I could make her hear—poor Jeanne! She was terribly upset."

Spent by the recollection she lay back upon her pillows, while perspiration broke out and lay in heavy drops on the waxen skin. Catherine eyed her in keen distress.

"There, dear, it is all over now. Try to forget about it."

Suddenly the prone figure stiffened, sat bolt upright, staring with a look of terror. At the quick change Catherine realized the fact that she was alone with a patient who a short time ago had suffered an alarming attack. Ought she to summon Jeanne? Yet a second before she had been impressed by the lucidity, the poignant underlying conviction, of the invalid's recital. She watched, uncertain what to do.

"Forget it! Ah, that is what I must not do!" breathed the hoarse voice, tearfully. "I must remember it, so that I cannot commit so frightful an error again. The great trouble is my memory. I forget things so easily—so easily! I must have forgotten which glass was which, otherwise how could I have done what I did? You see? It shakes one's confidence. It——"

She checked herself with a gasp, eyes dilating. Following the direction of their gaze Catherine saw that Jeanne had come back, was standing just inside the door. So engrossed had she been by her cousin's excitement she had not heard the light footfall.

The maid approached, anxious and disapproving.

"Madame, madame!" she declared with authority, "this will not do! Before you not to speak of that affair. Mademoiselle, you see? She is getting into a panic again. Did I not warn you?" she ended accusingly.

Catharine thought it better not to reply.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

One of the big surprises of your picture going experience awaits you in the movie, "Such Men Are Dangerous." Warner Baxter as Ludwig Kranz is the surprise.

Why tell us, if he's supposed to be a surprise, you ask? Because the cast gives away the secret of identity. If it didn't and I didn't and nobody did, you'd never dream, by looking at the picture, that Mr. Baxter and the Ludwig Kranz of the first reels are one. This actor achieves a triumph in makeup that never has been exceeded, even by Lon Chaney.

The story, by Elinor Glyn, is, to my way of thinking, the best that lady has turned out so far. It is decidedly far-fetched, but decidedly interesting as well. Remember the newspaper reports of the millionaire who disappeared mysteriously from a plane, and was supposed to have been lost in the ocean? Well, Mrs. Glyn has utilized this occurrence as a nucleus for her plot. HER millionaire, Mr. Kranz, deserted on his wedding night, by his blonde bride who has been egged into the marriage by a mercenary sister, takes an airplane journey and vanishes, to reappear—how? Where? Ask us not for we're not telling.

Mr. Baxter makes his none too believable rôle most convincing. The man is an artist and no mistake about that. Albert Conti, as Kranz's trusted secretary gives a flawless and most sympathetic performance. Very good also is Bela Lugosi as a great German specialist. As a matter of fact the men in the cast all give a better account of themselves than the women. Catherine Dale Owen as the deserted bride is beautiful, but a bit stagey, while Hedda Hopper quite overdoes her part both as to pantomime and dialect.

The late Kenneth Hawks, killed recently in an airship accident, directed excellently. Photography is fine and sets and costumes are lavish and pleasing to the eye. There's a gorgeous wedding scene!

Chi Omega Party.

The north shore Chi Omega association will hold its annual spring card party this afternoon at the Edgwater Beach hotel.

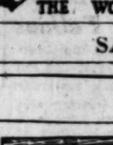
The Question.

If you were choosing between buying a car and taking a trip to Europe, which would it be?

The Answers.

John Thomas, 2744 North Parkside avenue, student. — I would choose a car, because if I had one I could see the United States first. I haven't seen enough of this country to satisfy me. I could wait a while for the trip to Europe.



Miss Gladys Lohrenz, 2631 Prairie avenue, nurse.—A trip to Europe. I would take a trip through Germany, France, and Switzerland. If I could have that trip I would trust to my future husband, when he shows up, to buy the car.

R. A. Leunis, 17 East Ohio street, salesman. — I would turn down the trip to Europe, because I was overseas in the war. When you came back from a trip to Europe you are broke, but if you pay for a car you have the car.

Miss Irene Shapiro, 808 South 12th avenue, Maywood, typist.—I would rather have the trip to Europe. With a car you can get into an accident in a minute, and all's gone. Not everybody gets a chance for a trip across the ocean.

James Lattimer, Palmer house, auditor.—I would pounce upon the car. After you went to Europe you wouldn't have anything left, except the recollection of what you saw there. A car would last longer than the memory of a trip to Europe.

War Collection on Show at the Historical Society

A collection of articles pertaining to the various wars of the United States, most of which began during the month of April, has been placed on exhibition at the Chicago Historical society museum. Among the exhibits are one of George Washington's swords, a drum used in 1776, confederate and Union uniforms, the bugle which sounded on Admiral Dewey's flagship at the battle of Manila bay, and a lamp from the cathedral at Verdun. For that city and its road to Paris a great battle of the world war was fought.

Brahms Played by Horowitz Delights Critic

Who Suspects 'Brahmins' Share His Feelings.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Yesterday's Chicago Symphony orchestra program was all of Brahms, and the soloist thereof was Vladimir Horowitz. This was a good thing all around, as good for the Horowitz fans to hear Brahms' music as for "Brahmins" to listen to this brilliant young soloist.

A Brahms program along toward the end of the season is a good deal like a musical spring tonic after a winter spent in making the acquaintance of interesting but sometimes indigestible novelties. For Brahms, whatever else he may be, is sane. Whether the health reviving process classifies as one of the lively or deadly entertainments depends entirely on the manner of presentation, and one may hasten to add that yesterday it was not deadly.

The second concerto, otherwise the one written in the key of B flat minor, was the one chosen by Mr. Horowitz. It is a work that he has been anxious to play ever since he started coming here, but this was the first time he was able to get it on one of his programs.

Under his ministrations it became more of a solo piece and less of a work for orchestra with piano obbligato than has been the case when a number of his predecessors appeared in it. He would seem to have reasoned that since it is a concerto, why not play it as though it were a concerto? At first sight the argument appears sound, though it will not be at all surprising if I receive certain assurances that I am taking a perverse view of art and particularly Brahmin art.

At any rate, thanks to matchless powers of execution, to interesting reactions to music and to a dominating personality, Mr. Horowitz was able to weave a number of illusive spells, among them a feeling that Brahms' pronounced lack of terminal facilities could under the proper circumstances be made to seem comparatively unimportant. Mr. Stock's dealings with the fourth symphony produced the same feeling. In fact, symphony and concerto both received performances that presented Brahms in as persuasive and genial a light as ever shone on any symphony or any concerto.

The first number was the final book of the Hungarian dances. To be scientifically accurate, it would seem as though these could be called Brahms' music only by courtesy. For Brahms collected melodies already existing, set them to a piano accompaniment, and then Dvorak made orchestrations for them. Yet there are those, undoubtedly frivolous and light minded in their feelings toward music, who find the Hungarian dances the most attractive of all the music bearing the Brahms signature.

Dorothy Ellen Ford, pianist, appeared last night in the series of musicals for young American artists and showed that she is well on the way to qualify in the third as well as the first two words of the descriptive title. She played with breadth and a good deal of manner, which would probably have been more effective could concert fates have allotted her a well tuned piano upon which to demonstrate. In works by Bach, Beethoven, and Chopin she demonstrated much intelligence, some imagination, and a good, but not too good, technical foundation.

HOOVER APPROVES THE CELEBRATION OF RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

New York, April 11.—(AP)—The Thomas Jefferson Memorial foundation today announced receipt of a telegram from President Hoover indorsing its plan to observe Jefferson's birthday this year as Religious Freedom day.

"The noteworthy and most unusual coincidence," the message said, "that the religious holy days known as Palm Sunday and Passover both occur this year upon the birthday of Thomas Jefferson makes it indeed appropriate that the anniversary on April 13 is to be observed educationally and patriotically with special emphasis upon the founding of religious freedom.

"Jefferson's contribution, together with that of the other fathers of the republic, to the famous statute for religious freedom and his lifelong championship of that principle decisively helped to fix it permanently in the national policy with results beneficent beyond calculation.

"It is useful to recall these benefits and to renew their sanctions in the general conscience of mankind."

Helping 85,217 individuals at the cost of only 75 cents each, was the task accomplished during 1929 by the Chicago Travelers' Aid society.

The society's work was revealed in a report read yesterday at the annual meeting in the City club. Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy, chairman of the service committee, showed the society steered 12,718 immigrants to their destinations, looked after runaway boys, the mentally and physically disabled, unmarried mothers, the aged, children traveling alone, and young people who needed a guiding hand.

"The year's work mainly was serving 85,217 boys and girls, men and women, grouped in 68,772 families or cases," Mrs. Cudahy reported. "Children traveling alone numbered 3,328. Of the 329 runaway boys and girls we returned the most of them to their parents, and we gave protection and counsel to 2,365 young people from 16 to 21 years of age.

"We had 121 problems of mental disability, and 1,658 physically disabled cases, many of which arose during travel and required care and attention beyond the facilities of the moment."

Mrs. Cudahy described the old age cases, totaling 1,248, as pathetic as they were needy. While some required only that a message for help be sent a relative or friend, many were "runaways," because they thought they were becoming burdens on their children, or were escaping from interference by their families.

While three out of four persons served were Americans and white, the remaining fourth, Mrs. Cudahy said, comprised nearly all the other races of the world.

Other reports were given by M. E. Greenebaum, treasurer, and Miss Alice R. McMaster, executive secretary. The following officers were elected: Judge John P. McGoorty, president, succeeding Homer J. Buckley; Cyrus H. Adams, Mrs. Cudahy and Willis Scott, vice presidents; Mrs. Ignace Reis, secretary, and Mr. Greenebaum, treasurer.

New members of the board are Dr. Otto Schmidt, William McJunkin, Mrs. Charles Larkin, Mrs. Emma Wall, Mrs. Edwin Romberg, Mrs. Britton I. Budd, Mrs. William Farrell.

Women's Clubs Help Goodman Theater's Expansion Campaign

More than a hundred spokesmen for church groups and women's clubs attended a preliminary organization meeting yesterday in the Chicago Art institute. On April 23 an expansion program for the Goodman theater will start in the hope of enrolling 10,000 subscribers to make possible the conversion of the theater "into one of the most important civic theaters in the country."

Among other speakers introduced by Mrs. James H. Jackson of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, who is co-chairman of the membership drive with Mrs. Charles King Corsant, were Mrs. William F. Tuttle of the Drama league; Mrs. Roy W. Martindale, representing the conference of club presidents; Mrs. Samuel Alschuler, Chicago Council of Jewish Women; Mrs. H. J. Meyerson, conference of Jewish Women's clubs; Mrs. Lydia Glover Deseo, woman's auxiliary of the Chicago Church federation; Mrs. George M. McIntyre, National Council of Catholic Women; Mrs. Walter S. Carr, Chicago Woman's club; Mrs. James W. Switzer, Woman's City club.

The delegates will hold a mass meeting on Tuesday, April 22, in the auditorium of the Goodman theater.

Pershing Is Made Doctor, but of Military Science

New York, April 11.—(AP)—The honorary degree of Doctor of Military Science was conferred today on Gen. John J. Pershing by New York university. Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown, in making the presentation, praised Gen. Pershing's part in the world war and said: "We Americans look upon the true American soldier as a man of peace."

Patriot Groups Plant Trees to Honor War Dead

Soldiers' Link of Forest Way Dedicated.

BY PAUL POTTER.

War mothers, disabled veterans, American Legion members, and other patriotic citizens of Cook county joined with officials of the forest preserves yesterday in an Arbor day dedication of the soldiers' memorial section of the Forest way, near Maywood.

Gathered about the sapling elms as they were set into their permanent places in freshly plowed ground between Roosevelt road and 22d street on 1st avenue, opposite the United States Veterans' hospital, the bareheaded men and the women commemorated the supreme sacrifice of more than 3,000 Cook county soldiers.

"We have an opportunity here," said Rufus C. Dawes of the citizens' advisory committee on the forest preserve, "to express our gratitude to those who gave their lives in wartime. I consider a tree a worthy symbol to coming generations, as it shall be here, of the comfort and peace obtained for this country by the services which cost veterans their lives."

"Eight rows of elms, maples, and oaks are to form the "cherished monuments to those who have given their all in the cause of democracy for the world," declared Anton J. Cermak, president of the board of forest preserve commissioners. He emphasized that future generations in Cook county would benefit from the proposed reforestation of the people's lands.

Mr. Cermak charged patriotic organizations with the responsibility of advising the commissioners on how best to make the memorial highway leading to the new zoo near Riverside an "immortalized meeting place, where all may pay homage" to Cook county's soldier dead. He recommended that a commission of representatives of patriotic groups be appointed to insure that the trees are well cared for during their growing years, and that a tree is planted in memory of each one of Cook county's war dead.

Brief talks were made by Col. Hugh Scott, chief of staff of Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital; George M. Kellogg Jr., past commander of the Cook county American Legion; Joseph Novotny, Cook county commander; Mrs. G. M. Kellogg Jr., state president of the American Legion auxiliary; Mrs. A. E. Crain, president of the American War Mothers, Evanston chapter; Daniel Burnham, member of the forest preserve advisory committee; David Shillinglaw, past state commander of the American Legion; John A. Cervenka, president of the National Bohemian alliance; Elmer Taylor, chef de gare, Forty and Eight; Roy Cunningham, county commander of the Disabled American Veterans, and William Schlupp, commander of 5th district, American Legion, in charge of the program.

To the tune "To the Colors," played by the Medill-Tribune Legion post bugle and drum corps, the gathering of patriotic leaders came to attention while colors were presented by world war veterans. The program closed at the sound of "taps" by Cassmer Imbur.

Groups then formed about each young tree as dirt was spaded about the roots by war mothers, Legionnaires and leaders of other patriotic organizations. The proposed 40 foot paved driveway was indicated by markers, as were the bridle paths and footpaths. These, it was declared, would some day become overhung with tall, sheltering trees in even rows, each with its dedicatory plaque bearing the name of honored hero and the sponsors.

Children Observe Arbor Day with Varied Ceremonies

Arbor day was observed by school children of Chicago and Cook county and by park officials yesterday. Thousands of trees and shrubs were planted in school yards, parks, and in the lawns of homes. Exercises were held in most of the 200 county and 350 city schools at the request of William J. Bogan, superintendent of Chicago schools, and County Superintendent Edward J. Tobin.

At the Franklin school, 228 West Goethe street, a Lombardy elm, the gift of the graduating class, was planted during exercises attended by 400 pupils and teachers. The tree was presented by Reavis Captan, president of the class, and was accepted on behalf of the school by Miss Nina Q. Gee, principal. It was dedicated to Supt. Bogan.

Easter Fashions Rest on Corset, So Women Say

When Chicago women trip along in spring finery on the approaching Easter morn, it will be a parade reminiscent of departed glories, showing the return of the princess lines, the puff sleeves, the peplum, and the godet.

Just what will underlie the slender waists and dictate the figures was shown yesterday in a fashion display in the Illinois Women's Athletic club. You are right, dear reader—corsets!

Corsets—a word once to be whispered, later spoken of as a quaint commodity which had its being when men did the courting and women did the waiting, when romance was not dead and love was not analyzed—proved a word of new importance.

Some of the corsets had stays, all of them were long and decidedly confining. Some, however, were of a heavy net.

After the display of corsets the members modeled sports dresses, suits, coats and spring and summer day, afternoon and evening dresses. The evening dresses were floor length; the daytime, four inches below the knee. The mode of the cape was emphasized in the gray covert cloth suit worn by Mrs. Lucille Patterson. Mrs. Robert Pogue wore a navy blue silk crêpe suit with a blue fox collar.

A black and white figured crêpe de chine dress with a short black silk coat lined with the dress material and a white bakou straw hat was modeled by Mrs. Alma Jennings.

A printed chiffon dress of Patou pink, a soft shade of pink, which is "the rage," and a hat of the same shade with a brim was worn by Mrs. William F. Schaefer. Mrs. M. L. Strawn modeled a bolero jacket of blue with a white skirt emphasizing godets and a yellow costume which received loud applause. It consisted of a yellow panama hat of mushroom shape, a yellow coat with a baby fox collar, and a dress of yellow printed net with ruffles and princess lines.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A beautiful line of body and one most awfully worth struggling for, though you do it at first with aches and groans, is that slender line from hip bone down the flank and tapering toward the knee.

Tall girls have the advantage of their miniature sisters in this regard. In fact, the two women who have this exquisite hip and flank molding, as I look back over a period of looking beauties over, were each 5 feet 9. By which I do not mean that you must be extraordinarily tall to have the line, but being tall and slender you stand in a fair way of falling natural heir to it.

But girls 5 feet 5 and 5 feet 6 have it if they keep fat lumps off the hip bone and down the thighs. Smaller girls aren't excluded by any means. In the short skirt theirs did not show off to advantage, but now with long dresses they can be as lithe-hipped as the next one.

There is one excellent exercise I can recommend to you who would like to be slender-hipped, but it is not a bit of use unless it is done for five minutes every morning and night. Done ten, you get the lovely line just that much sooner. You can do it to music or you can do it without, but a little melody does make exercise seem like what it ain't, doesn't it?

Lie flat on your back. Keep your head and shoulders as close to the floor as you can while you perform the hip stretching feat that follows. Roll over on your waist, keeping shoulders down, remember, and swing your foot over and with a slight upturn on the floor, give it a stretch you can feel to your toe tips. Come back and do it with the other leg. It's what you can tell your girl friends is one swell exercise.

Then you can arise and for good measure give twenty good swings of the right, then the left leg, back and forth, as far as they will go without hitting your pet Ming-Fu crockery.

Just do those two exercises every day for a month, morning and night, and until you are good and tired. Unless there is something really ailing you, you don't need to listen to those alarmists who say it is not well to get tired at exercising. It is well, if you go at it promptly again next day, and the next, and the next.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

L. T.: YOU SHOULD DRINK water while reducing. It dissolves and carries out of the body a large amount of broken down material resulting from diet and exercise. It helps regulate proper functioning of the kidneys and digestive appuratus.

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

What to do about a flower garden for this spring and summer if one is moving or has just moved, is not such a "to-do" for the amateur as might be imagined, according to those who know the value of selecting a simple plan and suitable plants.

Quick flowering annuals should be used, rather than waiting for the various perennials to mature and bloom. But first there should be a plan, especially if the space for the flower garden is small. The most simple one consists of a wide grass walk between two flower borders, leading possibly from the back or the side of the home to the end of the garden where a seat or bench will permit one to sit at ease and admire the handiwork of but a few months.

Deep digging and some fertilizing, depending on the nature and physical condition of the soil, are advised. A conference with the dealer from whom the gardener is purchasing fertilizers and seeds and plants usually results in some extra advice of practically professional nature which is of value to the amateur.

A line of hedge for background, possibly pirea Van Houttei, is useful for hemming in three sides of the garden and in back of the seat or bench. A lilac such as the sweet pink Belle de Nancy will help to form a recess for the garden seat. A few shrubs will fit in if the length of the side plots are sufficient to permit.

As for the flowers—lilac sweet allyssum, Newport Pink sweet William, deep violet pansies of colonies not less than 25 plants in each make for contrast in the strips adjacent to the grass in the center. Back of these smaller plants, suggestions would include deep purple larkspur grown from seed, with here and there some hardy chrysanthemums and groups of five each of a good hardy aster like the King of Belgium. Autumn color border is easily grown by using seeded plants of the tall and dwarf marigold.

Three Theaters Now Agree to Aid Deaf to Enjoy the Talkies

Two suburban theaters, the Deerpath theater of River Forest and the Alcyon of Highland Park yesterday joined forces with the hearing aids committee of the Chicago League of Hard of Hearing in their effort to bring about the installation of hearing devices in theaters and churches for the benefit of 300,000 deafened people in the Chicago area. That announcement was made by Mrs. Louis Pelton, chairman of the committee.

The theaters promised to install the devices after being approached by Mrs. George Anderson of Lake Forest, and Mrs. William P. Johnson of Highland Park, Mrs. Pelton said. The only other theater previously promising the service to the deaf is the State-Lake theater. The latest religious group to provide the devices was Temple Sholom, Sheridan road and Cornelia avenue, which initiated the service last week at the three day dedication of the new temple.

A campaign was inaugurated last November among the deafened entreating public places to install electrical hearing aids so the hard of hearing might hear.

Not Much Help.

I had several small banks at home and from time to time dropped my loose change in them. At tax time I thought that it would be a most appropriate time to consult my change banks.

I took one into the cashier and told her I was paying my taxes that day, so decided to help along with what I had in the bank. We talked freely until the bank was opened and four red cents dropped out. Was I embarrassed? I haven't been able to face that cashier to this day.

Society Plans for Vacations; Renting Homes

BY THALIA

If you keep a social register up to date with checked addresses and phone numbers, you'd better start adding the summer locations of society folk.

Although the renting season is a bit slow this year, many of the Lake Forest houses that can be let for the summer months already have been spoken for. There will be, as usual, a small colony of summer dwellers in the professors' houses on the Lake Forest college campus. These will include the James Herbert Mitchells, the Jay C. Whipples, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Blossom and the Milton Morses.

Mrs. William L. Hodgkins, her son and daughter-in-law, the Press Hodgkinses and their new baby, will have Mrs. Ambrose Cramer's house, Rathmore, near the lake, and the Russell Fergans are to occupy the Fred Preston place. The F. Edson Whites are going to be in the Misses Underwoods' house, and Mrs. Keene Addington has leased Miss Edith Hoyt's residence so she can be near her son-in-law and daughter, the Otis Hubbards, in their new house. The Wolcott Blairs plan to have Mrs. French's house, and the Culbreth Sudlers will take the Laurence O. Wilson place, while the Wilsons go to Connecticut.

The J. Dorr Bradley place, west of town, has been taken by the George B. Harringtons, and the John Paul Wellings will again have the Paul Morgan Tree Tops. The John Bordens have made arrangements to have the John C. Mechem house. The Adlai Stevensons have taken the Frank Harkness house, and Mrs. Stevenson's sister and brother-in-law, the Bob Fiskes, are to be in the William Mitchell Blair house after Mrs. Blair and the boys go abroad and Mr. Blair goes to the Deerpath Inn to live.

Among those who have made reservations for the buffet supper at the Arts club tomorrow night to open the annual exhibition of professional members are Miss Peggy Hambleton, Mrs. Frank Mulford, Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris, Miss Caroline Kirkland, Dr. and Mrs. Otho Fisher Ball, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. Parmelee McFadden, Miss Agnes Foreman, Miss Emily Larned, Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, and Miss Clara Lake. Miss Mina Hager will give a program of songs after the supper.

Mrs. Charles W. Kepler of Mount Vernon, Ia., announces the engagement of her granddaughter, Luella Kepler Wilson, to Edwin Merrill Valle, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Valle of Oak Park. Miss Wilson is a graduate of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music and of the American conservatory. Mr. Valle was graduated from Oberlin college. The wedding will take place on April 28 at the First Congregational church of Oak Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Hubbell of Des Moines, Ia., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to Niblack Thorne, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ward Thorne of 1200 Lake Shore drive. Miss Hubbell attended the Emma Willard school at Troy, N. Y., and Miss Weaver's school at Tarrytown-on-the-Hudson. The wedding will take place on May 17 at the Hubbell residence.

The committee for the Lower North Community council's annual benefit party has evidently gone conventional. This year's invitations, to be mailed today, are perfectly plain formal announcements instead of trick ones, such as they have sent in previous seasons. Last year's party was a gold rush forty-niners affair, and one year it was a red ball or something of the sort. The dinner dance is to take place on Friday evening, May 2, at the Bal Tabarin.

The committee officiating includes Mrs. James Waller Rogers, chairman, with Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. and Walter S. Frazier as co-chairmen, and Mrs. Aldis J. Browne, Princess Cantacuzene, Peggy Hambleton, Mrs. Randolph Payson, Adlai E. Stevenson, and Carroll H. Sudler Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Douglas of Lake Forest stopped in New York City a few days this week on their way back from the Mountain Lake club, Florida, where they have been for several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Frothingham of Boston are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter, Molly, on March 17. Mrs. Frothingham is the former Miss Helen Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Smith of New York, and niece and namesake of Mrs. Frederic W. Upham of 942 Lake Shore drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Norcott of Evanston are giving a house party this week-end at their summer residence at the Lawsonia Country club for Mrs. Otto Osthoff of Pasadena, formerly of Chicago. Their daughter, Miss Betty Jane Norcott, will return in about two weeks from California, where she has been visiting Mrs. Howard Richardson, the former Nadine Nellis of Chicago.

Mrs. Paul A. Florence of 10200 South Hoyne avenue announces the approaching marriage of her daughter, Frances, to William B. Sullivan, son of Mrs. Dennis E. Sullivan of 1645 West 100th street, to take place on April 23 at St. Barnabas church.

Suave Dignity, but Ponderous, Too, Lent by Wood Engravings

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Lakeside Press galleries again have a most interesting exhibit. It is of wood engravings by distinguished English and American artists. It is remarkable how these prints—calm and serious and a little ponderous, with the gravity of a well nourished aristocrat—suit the quiet, classical background the galleries afford.

In the first large hall are arranged in leisurely sequence the wood blocks of Asa Cheffetz, the American. In the three smaller rooms are hung the British prints. These prints are here after a successful showing in New York and are loaned through the courtesy of the New York Art Center. The art of wood cutting is an old one and it is just recently that it has taken upon itself new life. In old books the illustrations were practically all wood cuts; photography and new processes of reproduction damped that outlet of use. Interest in it has only revived since the artists themselves began to recognize it as a new medium of expression.

The current exhibit shows it at its best, picturesque, forceful, and dignified. It lends itself easily to modernism and to classicism. Paul Nash is clever in "The Promenade" and Herbert Gibbings in his modern touch, "Melleha." Then there is Eric Daglish with his series of animal and bird prints, beautifully executed. And Eric Gill arouses interest with his effective "Martyrdom of St. Satururius." Muriel Jackson shows two sweetly simple scenes, her "Reaper" is stunning and the "Blessing the Children" is charming.

Clare Leighton is one of the most famous craftsman in this new-old craft. She has won fame in Europe and America. She has illustrated the English edition of Wilder's "The Bridge of San Luis Rey" and her illustrations for Thomas Hardy's "Return of the Native" place her high in this field.

The exhibit will run to May 30.

CUBS BEAT KANSAS CITY, 6-1; SOX WIN, 12-9

BUSH, MALONE PUT BLUES ON FOUR HIT DIET

Champs Find Five Blows Enough.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kansas City, Mo., April 11.—Hard-hitting base hits was considerable of a problem for the slugging Cubs today, but that didn't stop them. The Chicagoans amassed only five safe blows off a trio of home hurlers, but they had the help of numerous passes, not to mention fielding blunders, and so were able to whip the American association Blues for the second straight time. The score was 6 to 1. The scarcity of runs for the enemy can be attributed to some very choice pitching turned out by Guy Bush and Pat Malone. Bush's speed ball and curves were served to the Blues for the first five innings, and only three hits were produced. Bush could have continued, but Boss McCarthy wanted to give one of the other veterans some needed exercise, so Malone was summoned and in four rounds he yielded only one hit, which was mixed with some errors to furnish his foes with their only run of the show.

Sheehan Stops Cubs.

The National league champs found their chief source of trouble in Tom Sheehan, who roamed around the big leagues for a number of years. For six chapters he enjoyed himself immensely by holding the visitors to one safe clout. He should have quit then, but remained for one more round and lost control, thus forcing a run on the Cubs. After that Joe Maley hurled one inning, two runs blossoming, and in the ninth the Chicago boys were permitted to look at famous Pea Ridge Day who, when hurling, emits war whoops or hog calls with the idea of scaring his enemies to death. The Cubs showed their fear of him by shattering his delivery for three tallies.

It didn't take the Cubs long to discover that Sheehan was going to make it unpleasant for them, if possible. Only three men faced him in the first. The second round was the same, also the third. In the fourth the big fellow gave the major leaguers a little opening, but they didn't use it. English walked to open the round and was safe at second on a fielder's choice. Cuyler tried to bunt the two runners along, but forced English at third. Then Wilson hit a long fly and Stevie grounded out to end the inning.

Tolson Gets Double.

Tolson endeavored to bring on a scoring exhibition in the fifth, but his aim also failed. Slow Motion, who is looking for Capt. Grimm, pried open the round with the first Cub hit, a two bagger to right. He stood on second while Hartnett and Bell filed out and Bush bounced to the shortstop.

The Cubs broke the monotony in the seventh by scoring their cut rate run off Sheehan. The session began with Jack Smith losing a tall fly which put Stephenson on second. Tolson walked. Hartnett's bunt shoved each up a notch. A pass to Bell loaded the bases. Malone couldn't do anything more than to look at a third strike, but English coaxed Sheehan into free passage and Stevie was forced to score.

Two runs off Maley in the eighth started when Cuyler walked. Wilson planted a double on the embankment to right and Cuyler raced home on it. Stephenson fanned and Tolson grounded out, but Hartnett lined a single to center to score Wilson. Then the Blues came up with a run in their half because Hartnett let a third strike roll to the grandstand and Blair fumbled a grounder.

Pea Ridge Whoops.

When the comical Pea Ridge Day appeared in the ninth he nailed Malone for a starter. Then as he threw the first ball to English he turned on his famous war whoop. The crowd amused English, so he stood around and listened long enough to get a pass. Blair was rewarded in the same way. Cuyler singled to center, scoring English and sending Blair to third. Kiki stole second on Wilson's third strike. Then Stephenson got a fluke single to right, Blair and Cuyler coming home with the final scores of the performance.

The special for the Reading farm departed tonight, taking with it Pitchers Hank Grampp, George Bell, and Ed Lautenbacher. The last two releases were made under option.

Hornsby and his famous heel will rejoin the team tomorrow and he probably will take part in the two remaining games with the Kaws. If the Rajah gets into the lineup, Blair will be available and McCarthy may put him there in place of Bell, whose throwing arm still is lingering between life and death.

Will Sport Be Less Colorful if Robins Learn to Play Ball?

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 11.—Uncle Wilbert Robinson's ball club is reported to be more improved than any other team in the National league this year. Of course the Dodgers had this advantage, that there was more room for improvement in their team than in any other with the single exception of the Boston Braves.

With only the kindliest feelings for Uncle Wilbert, who is rough and tough and old school, but not inclined to bully or snarl, I hope the Dodgers aren't too much improved, because in that case they couldn't be funny, and the only hilarious relief from the grim earnestness of baseball would be removed from the all summer grind.

Uses Scrape-Up Team.

Uncle Wilbert is at his best when he is trying to win a few games of ball with a pitcher on first, a fat catcher at shortstop, and some one who came to him with a letter of introduction from an old friend named Ed standing out on the mound, throwing the baseball past the hitters with an Epworth league outcurve and striking them out.

Give Uncle Wilbert a ball club made up of old soaks, nobodies, and mildewed vagrants from the leagues where the boys still wear green and red uniforms and he is very likely to win a pennant, but it has been so long since he had a much improved ball club in the spring that I anticipate the worst.

First impressions are lasting, and I always remember the Dodgers fondly as I first encountered them in their hotel in Clearwater, Fla., in the spring of the year several seasons ago, when Uncle Wilbert was running a sort of Salvation Army station where the waifs and rheumatics of the baseball industry could always get one more chance.

Meets Coarse Characters.

We passed one rather pleasant hotel on the way to the Dodgers' headquarters when I suggested "Is this it?" The cab driver laughed a harsh laugh and said "No, you'll know when we're a block away by the noise. They are great boys to sing and throw things out the windows at night."

And presently he pulled up before a store front building, stopping at a place that had the familiar appearance of the small town cigar store, speakeasy and pool parlor, with a sarcastic "Here's the training camp!"

"Where?"

"Upstairs, over this row of stores," said he. "Listen to them yell. They had to call up the law about them last night. One of those boys got to firing a pistol out the window and some one was throwing bottles into the street. Go right in and make yourself acquainted."

"No," the taximan explained. "No; they got houses around town. The married players don't live there, either. Only those who haven't got any wife along. This is no place to take a woman."

So I walked up the stairs and asked for a room with bath, and six ball players standing around laughed and asked me if I wouldn't like the valet to lay out my clothes.

"Don't pay any attention to these coarse characters," said a small party with woolly black hair and thick lenses on his eyes, stepping out of a small room whose half opened door revealed a smoky interior, with a typewriter on the washing table and a pitcher and bowl on the floor beside it. Four or five other parties were seated around a larger table with tall glasses at hand and poker chips before them.

Yeager Helps Out.

"I am Abe Yeager, the baseball writer," he said. "We're a bit crowded, but I'll see what I can do for you. We rough it with this club, so I don't think you can get a room with bath. I think there is a bath somewhere in the place, but most of the boys are taking theirs in the showers out at the clubhouse in the afternoon. "Harry," to the clerk, "what can you do in the way of a room for a friend from the papers?"

The best Harry could do was a cot in a linen closet where at five the next morning a drowsy Negro boy came in and said would I pardon him, please, but he would have to move the cot away from the broom locker as he had to get his mop and bucket. But in the meanwhile I had taken

HUSKY OARSMEN SCORE TRIPLE WIN OVER CALIFORNIA

Take Varsity, Junior and Freshman Events.

Seattle, Wash., April 11.—(AP)—The University of Washington defeated the University of California in all three crew races of the annual regatta today on the wind-lashed waters of Lake Washington.

The Washington fleet duplicated its feat of 1926 by victory in the three mile varsity race, the junior varsity, and freshman event. It was the Huskies' first varsity crew victory in four years.

After leading from one-half to three-quarters of a length all the way down the three mile course a fighting band of Bears gave way to a last minute masterful drive by the Husky eight which sent the Washington shell across the finish line five feet in the lead.

Rowers Fight Wind.

The Husky junior varsity combination smothered the California Jay-Vee aggregation in a nine and one-quarter length victory, and the northern freshmen won by seven and one-half lengths in an upset.

Times were slow on account of the strong northwest wind which blew directly down the course. The Washington varsity covered the distance in 17 minutes 46 seconds, while California was only one-fifth of a second slower. Washington's Jay-Vee was clocked in 18:37 and California in 19:14. The Husky freshmen rowed the two mile distance in 12:15.

OXFORD VS. CAMBRIDGE

PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, England, April 11.—(AP)—With their score tied at 40 victories each and one tie after more than a century of racing on the Thames, the Oxford and Cambridge varsity crews retired early tonight, each determined to make a supreme effort to win the "rubber" in their 82d annual regatta tomorrow.

Starting odds slightly favored Cambridge, whose boat is steered by the only American in the race, R. E. Swartwout of New York. Cambridge has been victorious for the last six years.

The weather appeared likely to have a big effect on the race, as most river critics agreed that a head wind would favor Cambridge, while a tail wind would boost the chances of Oxford's somewhat lighter crew.

Somerville, Homans Play in Golf Final

Pinehurst, N. C., April 11.—(AP)—C. Ross Somerville of London, Ont., Canadian champion, and Eugene Homans of Englewood, N. J., played spectacular golf today to stroke their way to the final round of the north and south amateur tournament.

Somerville produced every trick in his bag to beat George Voigt, the defending champion, with a birdie on the nineteenth hole. Homans had less difficulty in winning from James T. Hunter of North Adams, Mass., 3 and 2. Both matches were played brilliantly, an assortment of birdies and eagles brightening the drab par figures.

Voigt Squares Match.

Somerville was off to a good start, taking the first hole when Voigt overdrove the green and needed a five. A birdie three by Voigt on the third squared the match and they reached the turn all square after Somerville had won the seventh and Voigt the ninth.

The second nine found Voigt hopping into an early lead by winning the tenth and eleventh with birdies, but Somerville calmly retorted by taking the 12th and 13th, the 12th with a birdie three. Voigt produced par figures on the 14th to take the lead again when Somerville hit into a trap.

Somerville Wins Extra Hole.

Both of them were fighting every inch of the way and on the next, a short par three hole, each had a birdie. Voigt required fives on the sixteenth and seventeenth, while Somerville was shooting in par figures.

Voigt staged a remarkable comeback on the 18th, holing a 36-foot putt to win with a birdie three, but Somerville on the first extra hole of play retaliated with a spectacular birdie three to take the match.

Pitcher Loses Game Without Throwing Ball

Oakland, Cal., April 11.—(AP)—Emil Yde, Hollywood pitcher, formerly of the Pittsburgh Pirates, lost to Oakland, 9 to 8, today, although he never pitched a ball.

Yde, called to take Page's place in the box in the eleventh inning, with the bases filled, prepared to throw and then hesitated when the combined Oakland team let out a vociferous shout. The umpire called a balk on Yde and Martin walked in from third base to give Oakland its freak victory.

Pitchers Lead Lane, St. Rita to Prep Baseball Wins

Pitchers took over the starring roles in yesterday's prep practice games. Carl Valcek of Lane struck out 17 batters in the Techs' 5 to 1 victory over Morton at Cicero and held the suburban team to four hits. He and Trimm led the Lane batters. Pitcher Hill of St. Rita won a pitching duel with Joe Ponsevic of Englewood, allowing one hit to Joe's two and fanning 14 batters. The teams hold their respective league titles. Mendiguwald pitched Waller to a 10 to 3 triumph over Crane at Lincoln park, allowing four hits. Senn and Bowen were victors over New Trier and Thornton of Harvey, respectively.

I. W. A. C. MEDLEY RELAY TEAM SETS NEW TANK MARK

Toledo, O., April 11.—(AP)—Two world's swimming records were broken in a sanctioned A. A. U. swimming meet here tonight.

The Illinois Women's Athletic club 150 yard medley relay team of Violet Martin, Jane Faunts, and Mary Lou Quinn established a new mark of 1:41 1-5. The old record was 1:43 1-5. The star of the trio was Miss Quinn, whose free style swimming was responsible for the new time.

John Schmeiter of the University of Michigan clipped 2 2-5 seconds from the accepted standard for the 200 yard breast stroke when he made the distance in 2:33 1-5 swimming with two pacemakers.

GETTING READY FOR SOX

Sox fans will have their first opportunity of the season to view J. Smead Jolley (left) and Carl Reynolds this afternoon when Donie Bush's team opens a two day series against the Giants at Comiskey park. They have been leading the daily attack on Mr. McGraw's boys during the last week of road games, Carl displaying a weakness for homers, while J. Smead has shown no preference, hitting singles, doubles, and triples with equal abandon.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 11.—Bruce Flowers, veteran New Rochelle, N. Y., Negro lightweight, won on a foul from King Tut of Milwaukee in the fifth round of a scheduled ten round bout at the Auditorium tonight in what was this city's first mixed prize fight since 1890. Nearly 8,000, the largest throng in ten years, paid $17,000 to attend. Hundreds were turned away.

The end came after both were down. Tut shot a hard one in the region of the groin and Flowers groaned in protest. Referee Walter Houleihen interfered, assisting Flowers to his corner, where an examination by the commission physician revealed that the Negro had been fouled.

TAYLOR KNOCKS OUT WANGLEY IN 5TH ROUND

Minneapolis, Minn., April 11.—(AP)—Bud Taylor, Terre Haute, Ind., knocked out Paul Wangley, Minneapolis, 125 pounder, here tonight in the fifth round of a bout scheduled for 10 rounds. Taylor weighed 127 pounds.

Except for the first two rounds, when Wangley flashed a lightning left hook which has won him three local fights by first round knockouts here, the grinning Hoosier was clearly the master. Twice in the third round Wangley went down for counts of nine and during the fourth round he was severely punished. In the fifth Taylor kept up a two handed offensive and Wangley dropped for the final count midway in the round, direct victim of a short right and indirectly of the punishing pace.

MEET GIANTS AGAIN TODAY AT COMISKEY PARK

Caraway Holds N. Y. After Thomas Fails.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Toledo, O., April 11.—Our White Sox were full of benevolence this afternoon, but with all their generosity they couldn't help slaughtering the New York Giants for the fifth in a row. This time the score was Chicago, 12; New York, 9.

The teams left for Chicago after the game and will play tomorrow and Sunday at Comiskey park. The spring series now is: Chicago, 10; New York 5.

The greatest act of charity was bestowed by the Sox in the third inning, when the heartsore McGraw employés were permitted to make six runs. Four of these were driven in by an ineligible player, Coach Irish Meusel, who nicked Tommy Thomas for a homer with the bases full. Irish also drove in the Giant run in the sixth, making him responsible for five runs of the New York total of nine.

It's Hard on Jawn.

There is no complaint on the Meusel behavior, however, for the coach played under the willing consent of Manager Bush, whose sympathy has been moved by the great mental anguish Mr. McGraw is suffering these days. Mr. McGraw is a man past 57, you know, and it goes hard on a fellow of so much experience to see his selections tromped in the dirt day after day.

First of all we'd like to say a few words about Carl Reynolds. For his first five trips to the plate he made a net showing of four hits and five runs, including the day's installment of his "homer a day" routine.

Next let us speak of the Great Shires: With the Sox two runs behind in the fifth, and Reynolds and Jolley on base, C. Arthur made a terrific line drive to the far distant wall in right center. The score was tied, but Arthur was out because he overslid third. In the next inning he scored Reynolds from second and put Jolley on third with a single to center. Both he and Jolley scored later, though in going into third he swallowed his chew for the first time in history.

Caraway Helps, Too.

Also, last but by no means least, Cecil Pat Caraway, the eccentric but talented left handed person. Cecil Pat relieved Thomas in the third when six runs were in, men were on first and second and there was no one out. Furthermore he made two hits, the latter of which drove in two runs. He allowed only five hits in six innings.

Of course, J. Smead Jolley should be in the hero list, for he made two singles and a double and drew a pass his first four trips to the plate. But we're geting sort of used to seeking J. Smead hit like that.

And if you don't mind, a word about Jim Moore. Jim made his first appearance in the starting lineup and his first in the field for more than a month. He contributed two singles and his hand, which was broken, seems fully recovered.

The Giants' third was most unbelievable. When it started the Sox were leading 4 to 1. Thomas was pitching and it was the kind of hot day Tommy likes.

Leach doubled to center and stopped at third on Lindstrom's single. Terry singled to center, scoring Leach and Lindstrom went to third. Ott walked, filling the bases. Coach Meusel took an amazing smack at the ball and it lit miles away in the center field bleacher. Lindstrom, Terry and Ott trotted in ahead of Irish. Marshall singled and went to third on Hogan's single to center. Hubbell singled off Smith's bosom, scoring Marshall, and Tommy had enough. Cecil Pat went in. Jackson was out, Kamm to Shires, Kerr threw out Leach and Lindstrom fanned.

O'Farrell Hits Homer.

But Caraway didn't allow a hit till the sixth and in the meantime his supporting cast had furnished him with a lead. They made one run off him in the sixth and a homer by Pinch Hitter O'Farrell in the seventh accounted for the other New York marker.

After the Comiskey sluggers had put the game on ice in the sixth inning, they eased up on the distressed Gotham lads, contenting themselves with the Reynolds homer, which came with one out in the seventh. Despite their tapering off in the late innings, however, they acquired 19 hits, two more than the total with which they thrashed the National leaguers yesterday, 14 to 8.

MOLASSES JANE BEATS PANDY BY THREE LENGTHS

BOWIE.

7—Laurie, Chattahoochee, Tall Grass.

Baltimore, Md., April 11.—Molasses Jane, owned by the Branncastle stable of Chicago, had but little trouble whipping a stylish band this afternoon in the Waddell handicap at Bowie. After showing fine speed all the way she beat Admiral Cary G. Grayson's Pandy by three lengths, while Rueful, the Harry Payne Whitney color bearer, was a badly beaten third.

Following a smashing victory early in the week, Rueful, a daughter of St. Germans, was installed as the favorite. She ran a bad race. It was so bad the favorite players groaned. But in her best form she might not have beaten Molasses Jane today, for the Chicago filly had the situation well in hand all the way and won just about as her rider pleased.

The race was at seven furlongs and Molasses Jane stepped around the course in 1:26, extremely fast time. In the betting she paid $7.10 for each $2 ticket.

chips in the little game in Mr. Yeager's room and by two in the morning had received an extraordinary impression of a major league ball club, lolling in the lap of luxury, the guests of an indulgent employer, in the south.

One of the recollections of my visit to the Dodgers' training camp that spring is of a remarkably large and agile type of beetle which seemed to have the run of the place, including the sleeping chambers.

"Sometimes you can train them to race," one of my colleagues at the poker table said. "Maranville has a wonderful yearling in training now. Fellow told me the Rabbit's beetle broke the track record around the breakfast table in a secret workout yesterday."

"That's a lie, then," Mr Yeager broke in. "The Rabbit hasn't had any breakfast for a week. But I've got a two year old I'm breaking to saddle now. We ought to get up a Derby. Cards, if any?"

And so the evening passed pleasantly. A torn window shade sagged across the pane and the night bugs blew in and brained themselves against the misty yellow light bulb dangling by a cord over the card game. Once we ran out of mineral water and I said I would call the bel. boy.

There was some kind of rough larking going on in the hallway, but I heard no bottles crashing in the street that night and there was no more pistol fire out the windows. It seemed that Uncle Wilbert believed in self government for his athletes and left them to their own devices at night, probably on the theory that those who had any pride would be bound to get drunk now and again to drown their shame, while the others could be counted on to do so anyway.

I don't recall precisely how the Dodgers played for Uncle Wilbert that season, but it was one of their years up in first division, all of which convinced me that the strict régime, the abstinence and the decorum of the major league ball clubs in the south are merely a fad of the magnates after all. Give Uncle Wilbert a lot of anonymous characters in the spring and he is likely to cause trouble in the league. But I don't see how he can express himself with a much improved ball club.

Before we bought our new Spring shirt stocks, we went through the shirt market with a fine tooth comb.

Shopped it for price! Shopped it for value! When we got all through we called in one of the country's leading shirtmakers. "Here's what you've got to beat," we said. "Go to it!"

He did, and we are now offering what we know you'll agree to be the greatest shirt values available.

Plain whites, colors, or fancies—all the same; they're all better shirts for less money than their custom-made standards would indicate.

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: A time stained letter of 80 years ago, written by Chicago's first mayor, W. B. Ogden, dated July 16, 1849, addressed to James Mix, Rockville (now Kankakee), a business associate of Dr. Hiram Todd, one of the earliest settlers on the Kankakee, has just come to light.

The letter shows that Mr. Ogden was holder of large real estate interests in territory now known as Kankakee and Iroquois counties. The postscript reads:

"The cottonwood seed you wished is gathered for you. How will you have it sent, to you or to Momence? Any one coming to town from there might call for it. I sincerely hope Dr. Todd's illness may not prove as serious as he and his friends apprehend and that he may yet recover from it. Very truly yours, W. B. Ogden."

Dr. Todd was dead and buried in his own dooryard at Rockville at the time this letter was penned, his death having occurred a few days before. The only communication between Rockville and Chicago was the weekly stage coach. Dr. Todd was the first purchaser of an Indian reservation on the Kankakee, first postmaster, first practicing physician, first to survey a townsite (Momence), and was known to the Pottawatomies as "The White Medicine Man." One day, seeing a Chicago paper they carried with a first page story of a gangster's death, the driver remarked, "Chicago is a wick-eed city." To their reply it was not as bad as sometimes painted, the driver retorted with a smile, "But is not your principal street called Machee-Gun boulevard?" That ended the argument.

Billy Champ, Derby Hope, Astonishes Railbirds

Louisville, Ky., April 11. — Billy Champ, a son of Hourless, and a candidate for the Kentucky Derby, shocked the clockers and railbirds at Churchill Downs here his morning when he stepped a mile in 1:44. The son of Hourless, which met with only fail success as a 2 year old last season, has been showing remarkable improvement lately. Veteran horsemen here believe he will develop into a great route runner. In all his Derby trials he has been running faster in the last quarter than he did in the first. Until his impressive gallops of the last few days.

Mostil Sold by Giants to Toledo Club

Toledo, O., April 11.—Johnny Mostil's stay with the New York Giants was brief, for when the New York club pulled out tonight for Chicago Johnny was handed his papers and instructed to report to the Toledo club of the American association tomorrow afternoon.

JOHNNY MOSTIL.

Mostil was sold by the White Sox to Toledo last winter. Later, when Ed Roush became a dangerous holdout, the Giants took over his contract, the New York club owning the local A. A. franchise. Mostil has been with the Giants on the training trip, but apparently did not impress Manager McGraw, despite the fact that Roush continues to be a holdout.

Horton Smtih Visits Home Before Sailing for Europe

New York, April 11.—(AP)—Horton Smith left tonight for Detroit, following which he will visit his home in Springfield, Mo., before departing, probably on April 26, on his second quest of European golfing honors. Leo Diegel, who plans to join Smith in a bid for the British open title, besides competing in professional events, expects to leave in company with Bobby Jones' Walker cup team of amateurs April 30.

KROGH, MAROON WRESTLER, ENTERS MIDWEST MEET

Red Krogh is seeking the 175 pound title in the open division of the Diamond Midwest wrestling tournament, which starts Tuesday night at the Coliseum. Krogh is the University of Chicago wrestler who was disqualified in the National A. A. U. meet last week in New York. The disqualification created so much unfavorable comment that Avery Brundage, president of the A. A. U., ordered the New York officials to report the circumstances to him.

The Maroon star will have for his more important opponents, M. Maurer, present Central A. A. U. champion; Osterhaoudt of the University of Wisconsin, and Al Steinke of the University of Michigan.

There are 300 entries for the tournament. Matches in four weights—the 112, 118, 126, and 135 pound classes,—will be held Tuesday.

Dawson Refuses to Be Pro; Asks U. S. G. A. to Rule

Pinehurst, N. C., April 11.—(Special.)—John W. Dawson of Chicago, who was banned from further play in amateur tournaments by the United States Golf association after he had tied for medal in the North and South amateur championship here Tuesday, left tonight for New York to confer with his employers, the Spalding sporting goods house.

Before leaving, however, Dawson made it clear to the press that he neither regards himself a professional nor will he let the sub rosa ban on his amateur standing go by default. He intimated that the U. S. G. A. would have to take definite action in regard to his status or leave him alone.

How Boston Lost a Star and Pittsburgh Found Pie Traynor

BY IRWIN M. HOWE.

One morning late in May, 1920, Harold Traynor, star shortstop of the Somerville [Mass.] high school team, walked into Fenway park, Boston, and asked Ed Barrows, manager of the Red Sox, if he might work out awhile. Barrows told him he might and being impressed with what he saw recommended the young man to the Portsmouth club of the Virginia league. Portsmouth hired the boy and that fall sold him to Pittsburgh. The Red Sox, with first claim on Portsmouth talent, considered the possibility of the youth being big league timber too remote to perfect a claim to his services.

Traynor had first intended to give the Braves first call on his ability and with that in mind sauntered into the Braves' field a week or so before he met Barrows. However, he neglected to advise Manager Stallings of his decision to join the National leaguers and while engaged in demonstrating to Rabbit Maranville some of the finer points of work around the second bag, he was rudely jolted by Stallings' hoarse command to "get the hell outa there and stay out."

Traynor Proves Himself Leader of His Team.

I am aware that in ranking Traynor above Burns and Latham, top notchers in the late '80s, Nash and McGraw in the '90s, Jimmy Collins and Bradley there may be dissenters, but I go on the record which is subjoined herewith.

To get a place in this company a player must have qualities of leadership. Whether or not they bore the title of manager, Eddie Collins, Cobb and Speaker were the leaders of their respective teams on the field and the same is true of Wagner and Ruth though for different reasons.

Hal has been on the Dreyfuss pay roll eight years. The last six, as field captain, yet he has never been the leader of the same team two years in succession. I hold that no player since 1900 has so thoroughly demonstrated what efficient leadership means as Traynor has in eight years. He has played alongside of six shortstops, the same number of first sackers and nine second basemen with a constantly changing outfield and during that period the Pirates have won the pennant twice, the world series once, and have never been lower than third.

Pie Rated Second Only to McGraw as Hitter.

With the exception of McGraw, Traynor is the best hitting third baseman of all time and a great base runner. During his eight years he has driven in eight hundred runs, and runs win pennants.

A glance at the table shows an unusually large number of two base and three base hits proving that when he connects with the ball Hal hits it hard, yet he has struck out but forty-three times in the last four years. That is an impressive record when compared with the club swinging performances of some of the other leading hitters of the day.

In my opinion John McGraw is Traynor's closest rival. If the present leader of the Giants could have traveled five years longer at the pace he maintained from 1894 to 1899 he would rank first in spite of the fact that he handled ground balls poorly. No one who saw Mac in the years of the old Orioles' glory will ever forget him. At bat and on the bases he was nothing less than a little, black haired devil, his batting average for nine seasons ranging from .326 to .390 with 409 stolen bases in 596 games.

Injuries kept Mac out of about one-third of the games in his best years, which, of course, detracts greatly in rating values while as a fielder he had a pronounced weakness, handling ground balls poorly. As a field leader McGraw was the best of all time. He blazed with energy, the rules were his by heart and every trick of the trade that would help him win a game. He burned out too soon.

It's worth something to baseball for a player to be popular for personal as well as for professional reasons. That's Traynor. Probably no one ever traveled under Pirate colors more highly esteemed than "Pie." He is almost an institution in Pittsburgh and western Pennsylvania. He must talk at dinners, umpire ball games for the kids and is shown in a favorable light at all times and under various conditions.

Sidney Strotz Made Stadium President

Sidney Strotz was elected president and treasurer of the Chicago Stadium corporation at a meeting of the board of directors yesterday afternoon. He succeeds Sheldon Clark, whose resignation became effective yesterday.

Clark had served as president without pay since last fall, when he replaced Paddy Harmon, who conceived the west side sports building and was ousted from control because of financial troubles within the organization.

Strotz has served as secretary and treasurer. His elevation to the double office of president and treasurer leaves the position of secretary open. The directors will meet again at an early date to fill this vacancy.

The directors announced there would be no changes in personnel or policy.

Knockout Punchers Fight on White City Card Monday

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Now it's Ted Goodrich who promises to show Chicago fight fans the technique necessary to knock out an opponent. The welterweight from Atlanta, Ga., comes to Chicago with a string of eleven consecutive knockouts, and Monday night he will face Duke Tramel of Oklahoma City, seeking No. 12.

Jim Mullen is the promoter of the White City card. He doesn't belittle Goodrich's punching ability, but, being disinterested, except concerning the number who will visit his arena, points out that Duke Tramel also has a right hand capable of putting the Atlantan on the floor.

"Goodrich's knockout of the former welterweight champion, Joe Dundee, on March 18, was the fight which put him up in class A," Mullen said yesterday. "However, the southern boy should remember that his opponent Monday night knocked out Patsy Pollock of Chicago recently and is prepared to accord the same reception to Goodrich."

Jack Dempsey has offered Primo Carnera's managers $50,000 and a percentage if they will bring the huge Italian to Chicago this summer to meet George Godfrey. With the National Boxing association investigating Carnera's long string of quick knockouts during his barnstorming trip, Dempsey offers an opponent of first water to test the Italian.

While Dempsey believes the fight would draw $400,000 if staged in Soldiers' field or one of the ball parks, there is no occasion to think Carnera's managers will interrupt their present plans, which apparently call for Carnera to fight in New York.

Fidel la Barba will resume training today at the Arcade for his meeting a week from Monday with Bud Taylor. He will box with Benny Deuce and Marty Zamiga. Taylor will be back from Minneapolis, where he fought last night, in time to resume work at Barry's gym Sunday.

Tuffy Griffith's comeback fight with Jack Gagnon, April 30, needed nothing out of the ordinary to draw support from Chicago fans. However, with Joey Medill signed to meet Stanislaus Loayza, a bout worthy of top position on most cards, the Stadium believes the box office record may be eclipsed.

Amateur Boxing

Sid Kaplan's bout with Nick Sceabla, west side fighter, tops the amateur boxing card tonight at the Arcade gymnasium. Kaplan was a member of the Golden Gloves team this year and intends to enter the professional ranks soon. Seven other bouts complete the card.

A's Have It in American League Pennant Battle

New York, April 11.—(AP)—For the fourth consecutive year the boys who peer intently at the proceedings through the wire screens have set forth the pre-seasonal baseball verdict.

There is just one answer so far as the American league is concerned—that the Philadelphia Athletics will win again and probably do it hands down.

Sixty of the 65 major league baseball writers and sports editors, who responded to the request of the Associated Press for their opinions, have picked the Athletics to make it two in a row.

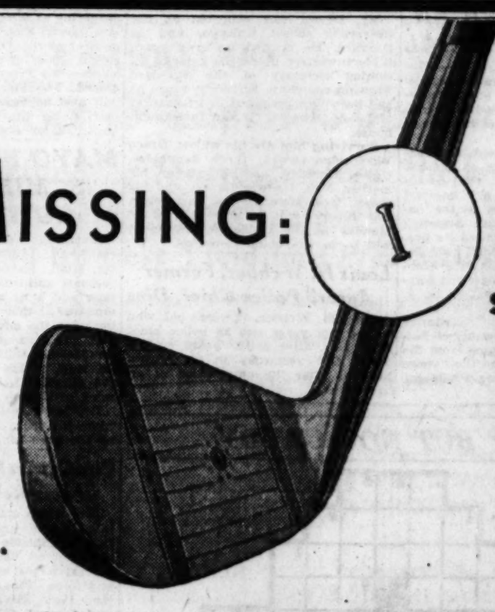
MISSING: 1 One small rivet



The rivet is gone—the rivet that always joined the shaft to the head in golf irons!

And its banishment gave to the golfing world the Spalding Cushion-neck Irons—the only irons to combine all the advantages of the steel shaft with all the sweet feel of the finest hickory!

Steel-shaft Advantages

Is that news? Ask the great majority of golfers who now play steel-shafted woods! They know the lighter steel shaft puts greater swinging weight into the head—where it aids controllability.

They know that the thinner steel shaft cuts through wind resistance to give sweeter whip. And they know that the steel shaft can't warp.

Yes, in woods the steel shaft always has been great! But in irons—ah, that was a different story.

For in all pre-Cushion-neck steel-shafted irons, the metal-to-metal contact of steel shaft against steel head formed a perfect conductor that carried the shock and vibration of every shot up the shaft and into the hands—causing a harsh, sour feel.

In Cushion-necks, the steel shafts never touch the steel heads. For before each shaft is fitted into the hosel of the head, it is enclosed in a cushioning sleeve of lively rubber. Vibrations can no more pass through this rubber sleeve than can electric current pass through the rubber insulation on a wire.

But even though there's enough rubber in there to make a balloon tire, a rivet touching both head and shaft forms the metal-to-metal contact that could knock the cushioning idea for a row of caddy-houses.

So the Spalding experts worked out an ingenious way of crimping the end of the hosel around the rubber so that no rivet was necessary.

That has another advantage—it insures permanent liveliness for the rubber sleeve by sealing out the air forever.

Other clubs may offer some so-called shock absorber gadget. But only Spalding can offer steel-shafted irons with absolutely no metal-to-metal contact. For the whole Cushion-neck principle is guarded by patents that not even the Marines could break through.

The next time you're out at your Club, tell your Professional you want to try Cushion-necks. Or see them at the Spalding Store at 211 South State Street.

DUCHESS CLAIMS SUICIDE ATTEMPT WAS ONLY SHAM

Shouts "Liar" in Court; Fails to Win Bail.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 11.—The duchess of Leinster, the former May Etheridge, one time musical comedy star, was found apparently unconscious in the gas filled kitchen of her small London apartment early on the morning of April 1, today learned that attempting suicide is a serious business in England.

Following a stormy court session at which she was charged with trying to take her own life, she was refused bail and remanded to custody pending further investigation of the affair.

Once Tried to Drown.

The estranged wife of the dashing young Irish peer gave every evidence of being at the point of death when a police official found her lying in a nightgown beside the open gas range. She is now trying to prove that it was only make believe, and that she had no real intention of killing herself. The prosecution, however, possesses evidence that she once tried to drown herself as well as several postcards in her handwriting, one of which says: "Good-by all! I will be no more trouble to you."

The duchess, smiling and well dressed when she appeared in court today, created a lively scene by shouting "Liar!" when Stanley Williams, the chef who claimed to share the apartment with her, testified that she "started raving about on her bed, trying to strangle herself" after he had smashed the radio following their dispute as to whether they would listen to a Paris or London program.

Williams declared that he had gone downstairs for five minutes, and when he returned he found the duchess in the kitchen on the floor with her head near the stove with the gas going. He turned off the gas and threatened to call the police.

He said that she then started "raving like a lunatic," upon which he did go for the police. When he returned with the officers the duchess had again turned on the gas and was lying on the kitchen floor, from where she was taken to the hospital.

Seemed Able to Talk.

Although the duchess was supposedly unconscious when aid arrived, it was suggested that she had only turned on the gas when the officer opened the door, and had been conscious all the time that the zealous officers were applying first aid methods. The policeman admitted that while being carried out of the house she had been able to call Williams a "brute," give instructions as to the care of her dog, and ask for a cigaret.

Pianist Wins Critic's Praise for Radio Solo

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

One of the very prettiest and yet one of the simplest piano solos heard in a long time over the radio was played last night by Axel Christensen in his announcer-entertainer rôle in W-G-N's 8 to 8:30 o'clock popular dance program. It is a dainty piece of some length and of a peaceful and pictorial character. I believe the pianist is himself the composer of the selection. His announcing was unusually entertaining.

For the W-G-N 9 to 9:30 period Pat Barnes had one of the station's studios transformed into a court in which a verdict was to be given as to whether Frimi or Romberg is the greater composer. The station's symphony orchestra played the Frimi evidence, but when it came to the Romberg selections the station went dead, due to mechanical trouble.

For this reason the first portion of the W-G-N Symphony orchestra's 9:30 to 10 program of the works of the Chicago composer, Carl Hillman, was not heard. His "Reverie" was heard in its entirety, and this proved to be a substantial and restful work in very great beauty. Two compositions for wind instruments, one of these being familiar, and an orchestral work of which I did not catch the title, were played. It would be pleasing to the radio listeners if this program could be repeated in its entirety at a later date.

SENATE DEBATES LATIN AMERICAN QUOTA PROPOSAL

Washington, D. C., April 11.—(AP)—Proposals to place immigration restrictions on the Central and South American countries and on the Philippines held the attention today of the senate and a house committee.

After a day of argument, the senate failed to reach a vote on the bill by Senator Harris [Dem., Ga.] to apply the quota limitations now imposed upon European countries to the nations of Central and South America.

The war department voiced its protest against the Welch bill restricting Philippine immigration at a hearing before the house immigration committee through Brig. Gen. F. Le J. Parker.

Meanwhile, the senate territories committee awaited the return of Secretaries Stimson and Adams from the London naval parley to get their views on pending legislation for Philippine independence.

INSURANCE PLOT TOLD BY DENTIST, ACCUSED SLAYER

Bentonville, Ark., April 11.—(AP)—Sheriff Edgar Fields announced today that Dr. A. J. Bass, 55, wealthy retired dentist of Columbia, Mo., had made a confession in which he admitted having been the "master mind" in one successful insurance murder plot and was involved in another which was followed by the slaying of William Robert Pearman.

Bass is in jail charged with first degree murder in the death of Pearman, 47, former Columbia mechanic, who was found slain two weeks ago. Bass held an assignment of $200,000 life insurance which Pearman took out under the assumed name of William Folta, a man who had been missing 17 years from his Martinsburg, Mo., home. The insurance was assigned to Bass supposedly as collateral on a land deal in southwest Arkansas.

Bass' statment revealed how he hired gunmen to kill M. J. Dorsey of Hammond, Ind., head of the Northern States Life Insurance company, in a $100,000 insurance swindle plot. This plot collapsed because one of the gunmen double crossed him, Bass said.

INDIA'S SALT WAR SPREADS; 22 HURT IN BOMBAY RIOT

Cops Swing Batons on 10,000 Students.

BOMBAY, India, April 11.—(AP)—Violations of the Indian government's salt monopoly by the civil disobedience volunteers of Mahatma Gandhi were reported today from widely scattered points in India, and were attended with an increasing number of arrests, injuries, and severe sentences.

Despite prudent efforts by the government, the "nonviolent resistance" movement appears to be making headway, particularly in Bengal, where the Mahatma himself has not as yet personally campaigned.

Students Back Gandhi's Cause.

The college students of Calcutta have enthusiastically come out for the Nationalist cause. Ten thousand of the students demonstrated this evening in the college square. A large number of arrests were made, including some officers of the militia. At one time the crowd became so unruly that the police charged, swinging their batons. Several persons were injured.

Twenty-two persons were injured here when a riot broke out near the courthouse as a number of volunteers, sentenced to various terms of imprisonment after offering passive resistance to a police raid on the National Congress party headquarters, were removed by the police.

Forget Passive Resistance.

Friends and sympathizers tried to adorn the prisoners with garlands. When the police fought them off they temporarily forgot passive resistance and fought back with a shower of sandals and stone. Ten policemen, including three Europeans, were injured, as well as 12 volunteers.

All the way across the Indian peninsula, in the neighborhood of Madras, important east coast city, various minor affrays occurred. At Kalikapur, a struggle between police and volunteers ended in the waters of a canal, into which the volunteers threw themselves in an unsuccessful attempt to evade arrest.

Mr. Gandhi, against whose liberty no attempt has been made, arrived in the Olpad district of Bombay presidency to speed up in person the civil disobedience campaign.

RADIO STATION KTNT GUARDED AFTER SHOT IS FIRED AT OPERATOR

Muscatine, Ia., April 11.—(AP)—Asserting that he believed his life endangered by gunmen, Norman Baker, operator of radio station KTNT, tonight placed guards around his buildings.

Baker, who operates a hospital which was denounced in an editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association, told police early today that three men had shot at him last night, but that he and a companion had returned the fire and probably wounded one.

Baker said he did not blame the association for the attack of which he told today.

LANDIS AWARD EMPLOYERS WILL KEEP 5½ DAY WK.

Members of the Landis Award Employers' association will retain the five and a half day week basis for their construction operations regardless of action taken elsewhere for a five day week. Vice President F. W. Armstrong announced yesterday that the decision was reached after the association had canvassed many large employers, architects, and other professional men.

"The Landis Award Employers' association has been informed a vote is being taken in regard to the five day week in the building industry in Chicago," the announcement read. "We have sent out several hundred letters on the subject asking the sentiment of the business interests and of the first 166 replies received 131 favored retention of the five and one-half day week, 12 refused to commit themselves, 13 were in favor of the five day week with reservations, and only 10 were unqualifiedly in favor of the shorter working period."

FIGHT ON PARKER AS JUSTICE STIRS G. O. P. IN SENATE

Washington, D. C., April 11.—(AP)—Alarm in the senate Republican ranks over the opposition of labor and Negro organizations to confirmation of Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina, as an associate justice of the Supreme court resulted in messages to President Hoover today but the word came back that he was standing by his nominee.

The senate judiciary subcommittee considering the nomination will report to the whole committee on Monday. Senator Overman [N. C.], the chairman, favors Parker and a favorable report is expected.

BRITISH WHISKY MAGNATE, FAMED FOR HIS WIT, DIES

EAST GRINSTED, Sussex, England, April 11.—(AP)—Lord Dewar, head of the famous whisky distilling firm of John Dewar & Sons, Ltd., died unexpectedly today at the Homestall, his residence here. Lord Dewar, who was 66 years old, had been confined to the house for some days with a chill but his condition was not regarded as serious.

Although head of the world's great whisky producing companies, Lord Dewar himself was a nondrinker. He was famed for his wit and was in especial demand as an after dinner speaker. His epigrams were widely quoted.

One time, it is related, Lord Dewar sat beside a young woman at an athletic event. She was very proud of her hyphenated name.

"My name is Smythe-Smythe, with a hyphen," she said.

CLOTHING COST MARKED UP AT TARIFF PARLEY

Washington, D. C., April 11.—(AP)—After agreeing upon the senate duty of 7 cents a pound on long staple cotton, now on the free list, the congressional conferees on the tariff bill today reached an accord on the entire wool schedule, providing increased protection for growers and manufacturers.

The 3 cent a pound increase in the existing 31 cents a pound tariff on raw clothing wool of the finer variety was not in dispute in conference, both houses having provided for this raise.

One of the victories won by the house was a rate of 40 cents a pound and 75 per cent on wool felt hat bodies and a 25 cents an article addition to these rates on blocked or trimmed bodies and finished felt hats. The senate fixed made the rate on all 33 cents a pound and 50 per cent.

The principal senate increases accepted were on wool waste of all kinds and wool rags. The latter commodity, chiefly the type imported from abroad, is used to a large extent in the manufacture of cheap grade woolen articles, including clothing. It was given a rate of 18 cents a pound as against 8 in the house bill.

PIONEERS OF PROGRESS

RAILROADS CUT RUNNING TIME TO WEST COAST

Counters Threat of Air Travel.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The big western railroads made their answer yesterday to the demands of business for greater speed between Chicago and California. And at the same time they countered the threats of the air carriers to absorb a larger proportion of the mail and passenger business. Incidentally, they afforded additional justification for their extra fare trains, which has been called into question by federal agencies.

At a conference of officials of the three transcontinental systems competing for the Chicago-Southern California traffic, it was agreed to slash 1½ hours from the present running time of west bound extra fare trains and 50 minutes from the east bound schedule. One hour also will be cut from the schedule of west bound all-Pullman limited trains. The changes will affect trains on the Santa Fe, Northwestern-Union Pacific and Rock Island-Southern Pacific routes, effective June 1.

Third Cut in 4 Years.

This is the third reduction in running time between Chicago and the Pacific coast to be made in the last four years and the aggregate saving in time figures about 12 hours. Reduced schedules recently were put into effect by other railroads operating between Chicago and the North Pacific coast.

Continued but still gradual improvement in trade and industry is reported by the weekly mercantile reviews, which also maintain their recent mildly optimistic tone.

"It continues to be in factors making for ultimate revival rather than in actual present gains that the general business situation reflects the main improvement," Dun's Review says. "Sentiment is stronger and the advancing season has not failed to give some impetus to activities, but expansion still comes only slowly and not in all quarters simultaneously.

"It is significant of the more encouraging outlook now that there has been a check to the extreme unsettlement in commodity prices. Retrenchment in production is gradually bringing about a closer balance between supply and demand. Such rise in output as has occurred has been based strictly on tangible needs. The trend of buying plainly shows that caution is the rule, but the nearer approach of Easter has quickened the retail movement."

Bank Clearings Lower.

Bank clearings for the country this week are placed at $10,879,275,000, a decline of 6 per cent from a year ago. This is a moderate reduction. An improving trend is shown by commercial failures, which this week number 494, compared with 503 last week and 533 two weeks ago. The current total is only 19 above the 475 failures recorded in the week a year ago.

Building operations of the larger class continue to make an excellent record, not only showing seasonal expansion, but exceeding last year. The total value of heavy construction and engineering contracts placed in the last week was $85,789,000, according to the Engineering News-Record. This marked an increase of about $10,000,000 over the preceding week and also a gain of about $5,800,000 over the same week last year.

Something of a record in fast growth for Chicago banks appears to have been set by the Terminal National bank, which opened for business on Nov. 1, last year, in the Daily News building. In a letter to depositors and stockholders President Frank L. Webb calls attention to the fact that within five months there have been accumulated deposits exceeding $5,200,000.

The bank now has 6,588 savings accounts and 1,419 commercial accounts, while there are 1,907 members in its Christmas savings club. Its capital is $750,000, and surplus is $250,000.

PLAN OFFER OF SHARES IN WORLD BANK TO PUBLIC

(Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.)

PARIS, April 11. — The Bank of France and other member institutions of the Bank of International Settlements are planning to open public subscripuon in various countries for the entire amount of capital shares assigned to them by the world bank, it is learned in financial circles here today.

These shares are expected to be offered immediately after the first meeting of the bank board of directors at Basle scheduled for April 22. Shares issued on the American market will be through J. P. Morgan & Co. in collaboration with the First National bank of New York and the First National bank of Chicago.

They will bear 6 per cent interest with the capacity for increasing by a further cumulative dividend additional to the 6 per cent. They will be issued in $500 shares, or 2,500 Swiss francs, of which 25 per cent will be called. There is a probability, it is said, that the other three-fourths of the capital will never be called.

The bank will be authorized to begin operation only after 112,000 shares as a minimum subscription have been placed with the central banks, which by the bank statutes are authorized to keep or dispose of them through public subscription. For this reason it is planned to offer capital shares at the earliest possible moment after the bank board's first meeting.

DENIES STANDARD OF N. Y.-VACUUM MERGER WOULD BE VIOLATION

St. Louis, Mo., April 11.—(AP)—Denial that the proposed merger of the Standard Oil company of New York with the Vacuum Oil company to form a new billion dollar concern would violate a federal court decree of 1909, dissolving the Standard Oil combination, was contained in an answer filed today to the government's suit to prevent the merger.

The answer, filed by Lon O. Hocker, local counsel for solicitors of the two oil companies, declares that no issue was raised in the suit as to the legality under the anti-trust act of a union of any two of the former subsidiaries of the Standard Oil of New Jersey after they had been freed by operation of the decree, and that under the laws of the United States no such law could legally have been made.

The answer states that the business of the Standard Oil of New York is in the United States, while the bulk of the business of Vacuum Oil is carried on in foreign countries. Vacuum's business, the answer continues, is primarily a business of specialized lubricating oils of high grade, while the business of the Standard Oil of New York is production and refining of crude oil and marketing gasoline and a general line of petroleum products.

BURLEY'S TAKES OVER SPIEGEL'S FURNITURE CHAIN

Burley & Co., 212 North Michigan avenue, Chicago's second oldest mercantile establishment, has acquired by purchase the furniture store chain of Spiegel's, a subsidiary of Spiegel, May Stern & Co.

A. G. BURLEY.

With the announcement yesterday of the merger, Burley's officials declared a change of policy in the operation of the nine Spiegel's stores. Details of the transaction, however, were not released. The Spiegel chain will be conducted under the name of Burley & Co.

Rumors of the impending consolidation started recently with the incorporation of Burley & Co. at Springfield with a capitalization of $3,000,000.

The new concern will deal in the best and medium grades of furniture, it was stated by Harry Fish, president of Burley & Co. In addition, they will carry stocks of china, crystal, and gift supplies in stock by Burley.

The merger marks the union of two of the oldest organizations in Chicago. Burley & Co. is the second oldest mercantile establishment in the city, having been founded ninety-two years ago by A. G. Burley. Spiegel's is sixty-five years old.

ANTWERP EXHIBITION 1930

Seek Delay in Northern Rail Merger

Washington, D. C., April 11.—(AP)—Further opposition to the proposed consolidation of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads developed today in the form of a decision by representatives of six northwestern states tapped by the two lines to request a delay in final action by the interstate commerce commission until congress has expressed its opinion.

Eighteen representatives, headed by Knutson [Rep., Minn.], discussed the situation and approved appointment of a committee to present their views to the interstate commerce commission.

Members of Committee.

The committee, composed of Representative Burtness [N. D.], chairman; Clague [Minn.], Williamson [S. D.], Leavitt [Mont.], French [Idaho], Summers [Wash.], and Butler [Ore.], all Republicans, will ask that the commission defer action on the merger application until some disposition has been made by congress of resolutions to halt the negotiations.

The resolutions, introduced by Knutson and Senator Couzens [Rep., Mich.], would suspend the commission's authority to approve railroad mergers until congress had acted to protect the public interest.

Imposes Conditions.

The application of the northern lines for permission to unite was approved by the federal commission last February on four conditions, chief of which was that their holdings in the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy be disposed of.

The Wabash railway is prepared to follow the procedure outlined by the interstate commerce commission in furtherance of its fifth trunk line consolidation plan, it was announced today by William H. Williams, chairman. Definite action by the Wabash would mean that three of the four railroads with plans for eastern consolidations had accepted the ruling of the commission on the procedure they must follow.

MARCH BUSINESS IN ILLINOIS PICKS UP, REVIEW SAYS

Increased building construction activities, improved conditions in local industries, the beginning of the road construction program, and the opening of several new plants is carrying Illinois into the second quarter of the year with the employment situation improved, according to the monthly business review of the Illinois chamber of commerce.

New contracts let for building and engineering work in Chicago and northern Illinois aggregated $67,557,500 in March, more than twice as large as the figure for the previous month, according to the F. W. Dodge corporation. Forty per cent of this was for industrial construction. Reports from the entire state indicate that the improvement in building was statewide and that the employment situation had improved accordingly.

New passenger car sales in Illinois for March totaled 20,939 and were only 7,790 under the March figures of 1929, and an increase of 7,261 over the February totals.

RATIFY BILLION DOLLAR STEEL CONSOLIDATION

Eaton Will Continue Fight on Merger.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Youngstown, O., April 11.—Approval of a billion dollar combination of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company and the Bethlehem Steel corporation was formally given at an adjourned stockholders' meeting here at 6:02 p. m. today, when it was announced that 857,321 shares of Sheet and Tube common stock had been voted in favor of the merger.

All of the votes in favor of the merger represented stock held as of record 1 p. m. March 22, 1930. The three election inspectors, E. J. Marshall of Toledo, Elmore Andrews of Cleveland, and Osborn Mitchell of Youngstown, ruled that only stock of record of that date could be voted at the stockholders' meeting.

Has 58,080 Margin.

The margin of the vote above the two-thirds figure required by law to approve the merger was 58,080. Approximately 90,000 shares presumably voted in favor of the merger are protested by the Cyrus S. Eaton forces, opposing the merger. These 90,000 shares represent stock, ownership of which has been transferred since March 22.

The stockholders' vote was taken after Judge C. S. Turnbaugh had dissolved all restraining orders against the meeting.

Around this protest the Eaton forces are prepared to attack today's vote in the courts in a variety of suits now being prepared. One of the greatest corporation legal battles in the history of the nation is expected to result, for Eaton has announced that he will fight the merger to the last ditch.

Whereas the Eaton forces have announced their intention to attack the whole validity of the merger, James A. Campbell, chairman of the Sheet & Tube board, and Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel, tonight issued statements clearly indicating that they regarded today's action as the final determination of the stockholders in the merger question, and that while legal delays might result, "the merger certainly will be consummated."

Sees "Wedding" Benefits.

Campbell said, in effect, that the stockholders of the corporation had voted by a decided margin in favor of the merger and that it would undoubtedly be consummated. He welcomed the Bethlehem corporation into partnership with Sheet & Tube, and said he was confident Youngstown would benefit by the "wedding" of Sheet & Tube with Bethlehem.

Grace said that he welcomed the opportunity to make Sheet and Tube a part of Bethlehem and that Bethlehem would work for the constructive good of Youngstown and the surrounding community.

Though the election inspectors did not announce the number of proxies cast in opposition to the merger, it is known the number was in the neighborhood of 341,791. The company had outstanding on March 22, 1,199,612 shares of common stock. Of this number, 857,821 shares were cast for the merger, leaving 341,791 in opposition or not voted at all.

Questions Efficacy of Old Age Pension Laws

BY SCRUTATOR.

Every time a state or some other public body passes a law guaranteeing income without work for any class of its population there comes a discussion of how far social insurance schemes are likely to be carried in the United States.

New York now has legislation, signed by Gov. Roosevelt on Thursday, for the payment of pensions to all persons over 70 years old who need help. The present guess is that 51,000 will apply and that the state alone will pay out twelve and a half millions a year, with counties paying as much more.

Ten other states, according to the department of labor, have similar laws. Eight of them put the whole burden of old age relief on the counties. These are Colorado, Kentucky, Maryland, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, Utah and Wyoming. Wisconsin and California share with their counties the whole expense.

Such Laws Questionable.

Old age without means of livelihood is tragedy. Emotionally the legislators who pass measures to lighten the lot of the aged poor have done fine things. Logically they may have made grave errors. It has not been demonstrated that the laws are successful in improving materially the condition of the class they favor. There are people who will argue that such laws have been uniformly unsatisfactory.

From the standpoint of the whole people of these states, an admission is made that the state or the county owes something to its aged for which the old people give nothing in return, at least directly. The element of charity is present, but the applicant is entitled to ask for income from public taxes as a right.

The old age pension is only one form of social insurance. There are numerout other kinds that have been suggested and even demanded. They include security against unemployment, industrial diseases and accidents, other accidents, ill health, disability, maternity and death hazards. Aside from the old age pensions, the American public has hitherto resisted such requests for public help. Industrial accidents and diseases are made the responsibility of employers.

Fifteen Defeated.

Since 1915, six legislatures have been asked to pass a total of fifteen bills dealing with unemployment insurance, some in which the state shared the anticipated expenses. All were defeated. There can be little doubt but that they should have been defeated. England and Germany have unemployment insurance in which the workers, the employers and the governments join in forming the funds from which the doles are dispensed, and their experience has not been happy.

The greatest danger of unemployment insurance with government as a contributor is that it threatens to increase the very evil it aims to defeat. Doles must be paid by taxation, and heavy taxation is a deterrent in the starting of new industries. Moreover, they do in some degree cut down on the worker's effort to find work—eliminate some of the fear of personal unemployment.

Work rather than charity is the cure for unemployment. So far American lawgivers have refused to go as far as foreign ones in hampering free employment conditions. The old age pensions are charitable gifts, but dangerous in that they point the way to more tampering.

Tri-Utilities Corp. Earns $3.51 a Share on Common

The Tri-Utilities corporation, the subsidiaries of which serve 4,700,000 customers in 700 communities in 26 states, has issued its annual report. Total revenue for 1929 was $36,661,345 and net income was $1,420,726, which was equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $3.51 a share on 283,176 common shares outstanding. On April 1, the company paid an initial quarterly dividend of 30 cents in cash and 1 per cent in stock on the common stock, thus placing it on an annual basis of $1.20 in cash and 4 per cent in stock.

INDICATE POSSIBLE BREAK OF WARNER'S WITH WESTERN ELEC.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 11.—Negotiations have been concluded by Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., for acquisition of a substantial interest in the patents and licenses of the Tobis-Klang film group in Germany for taking pictures, it was reported here today.

This transaction, in conjunction with the deal for Brunswick-Balke-Collender's "Vitavox" sound-on-film device, was believed to have greatly strengthened Warner's position in the sound field and was believed in the trade to indicate a desire to break away from Western Electric. It was suggested in this connection that the Brunswick acquisition might herald a wave of price-cutting in the use of sound devices in this country.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 11.—Things weren't so cheerful on the stock exchange today. Traders had a cablegram announcing the suspension of business on the Tokio exchange to worry over, a firmer call loan rate at 4 per cent, and, anyway, a lot of them thought the market was tired and needed a rest. So, selling developed on a fairly large scale and kept up more or less irregularly throughout most of the session.

A series of disjointed rallies in the last hour was instrumental in restoring early losses in many quarters, but the movement did not become vigorous enough or wide enough to close the market up to yesterday's levels, losses of 1@2 points predominated in the final figures.

Ticker Gets Behind.

Trading again set a swift pace, sales totaling 5,624,630 shares. The tape lagged from fifteen to thirty minutes behind floor operations for a good part of the session.

While the news from Tokio undoubtedly caused some uneasiness, the situation appeared to be one in which technical conditions rather than outside news developments was the commanding factor. The market since the beginning of the week has shown evidence of having gone stale on the bull side—for the time being at least—with indications of considerable distribution in progress in many directions.

Leaders lately in such high favor have not been able to negotiate much headway, and the better part of the list has been churning about in comparatively narrow limits. There have been conspicuous exceptions, of course.

Gains of 10@15c were scored in the hog market yesterday, in spite of the slow movement of fresh pork at all leading distributing centers at weak to unevenly lower prices, due to the record April heat wave which has covered most of the middle west during the last two days.

The extreme top and general average prices moved up 10c at $10.60 and $10.25, respectively. Small packers and shippers were the principal buyers. Some local houses held back in face of the small supply in sight for today. Five western markets expect only 15,500 hogs today, against 30,300 the previous Saturday.

Hog Futures Stronger.

More activity was noted in the market for hog futures yesterday and some sales were stronger. May light sold at $10.65 and September light at $10.50. The latter price was also paid for September mediums.

Heavy grades for next September delivery brought $10.40. On the "to arrive" market, light hogs for next Tuesday's delivery were sold at $10.60. During the week 58 contracts for hogs were sold, to be delivered as follows: 10 carloads this month; 26 carloads during May; 5 during June, and 17 during September. During the previous week 27 contracts were sold.

Yesterday's meager supply of cattle changed hands at generally steady prices. The supply consisted largely of cattle selling at $10.50@12.50, which showed the week's 25@50c decline. Prime weighty beeves eligible to $14.50@15.25 were quoted steady with a week ago.

The best available yesterday averaged 1,350 lbs., and sold at $13.75. Cows and heifers were slow to sell at the week's 25@40c decline. Calves were steady, but showed the week's $1.00 decline. Stockers and feeders were unchanged.

Spring Lambs at $18.00.

The first native spring lambs of the season arrived at Chicago today and sold at $18.00, the lowest price for the initial shipment in three years. The first in 1929 were here on March 25 and sold at $22.00 and in 1928 the first sold at $25.00 on April 2.

Three years ago they arrived on Feb. 17 and sold at $14.00, being too early to attract competition for Easter trade. The market for aged lambs ruled stronger yesterday and some sold 15@25c higher. Prime Colorado fed lambs soared to a top of $10.50, highest since March 27. Most shorn lambs brought $8.75@9.00, with the top at $9.35 in this branch.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 300 cattle, 6,000 hogs, and 6,000 sheep, against 135 cattle, 7,565 hogs, and 3,069 sheep, the previous Saturday, and 586 cattle, 3,483 hogs, and 3,650 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 35,000 to 52,000. E. E. Hubbard marked 35,000, F. Knutzen 38,000, W. C. White 39,000, R. B. Ellis, R. W. Thorne, G. W. Chandler, and J. T. Brown 40,000, J. M. Waters 41,000, H. C. Carlson, C. Southwick, and H. Pattison 42,000, F. M. Sherwood, W. G. Olson, A. G. Welhener, and S. Lund 45,000, H. L. Johannesen 48,000, O. Dwight 50,000, and C. Daley 52,000.

STOCK MARKET TIRES; BULL TRADERS REST

Some Disappointment.

Undoubtedly there was some disappointment over the failure of the New York Federal Reserve bank to lower its discount rate yesterday, but whatever effect this might have had was largely offset by the relatively small gain in brokers' loans—some $26,000,000—reported after the close of business yesterday.

The loan figures, indeed, were credited with a brisk little advance, which got under way shortly after the opening, but the movement quickly petered out, giving way to the selling movement, which spread steadily and aggressively until it included almost the whole list.

Copper shares bore the brunt of the early bear attack, but various pivotals had their troubles, too, and a considerable number of them wound up on the wrong side of the fence. United States Steel lost an early bulge and sold off nearly 2 points under yesterday's levels, while Electric Power and Light, American Can, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Westinghouse, and other fast movers on the upside yielded 2@4 points at the height of the selling.

A number of utility shares pushed forward stubbornly in face of the general reactionary tendencies and a few specialties were able to make fairly steady progress.

Allied Chemical Spurts.

A noteworthy example of individual strength was Allied Chemical and Dye, which shot up 14¼ points on a rather light turnover. American Waterworks advanced 3¼, and both the common and preferred issues of National Bellas Hess were in lively demand, the last named scoring a net gain of 10 points. Scattered gains of 1 to 2 points were to be found in many departments.

Heavy buying developed in Public Service of New Jersey and United Gas Improvement coincident with overnight reports that a merger of these two corporations was being discussed. Both stocks rose to new high levels before denials of any such negotiations emanated from the heads of the respective companies. Such denials naturally brought a good deal of profit taking and speculative selling into the shares, under the influence of which they yielded from their earlier top prices.

The closing sale of United Gas registered a net decline of nearly a point on the day. United Gas Improvement already holds an extensive interest in Public Service and is expected sooner or later to acquire from the united corporated the latter company's holdings in the Jersey utility, which would give it a working control.

CHICAGO STOCKS SLIP BACKWARD; LOSSES SMALL

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Reactionary tendencies predominated in the trading on the Chicago exchanged yesterday. A few issues with special backing and favorable news developments managed to advance for modest gains, but the list as a whole was weak with small losses the order of the day.

Reports on an agreement by the bankers, city representatives and federal court counsel on a new traction ordinance stimulated interest in Chicago City and Connecting preferred and City Railways 5s B. The former on sales of about 1,500 shares improved an even 2 points and the City Railways issues ran up 2¼ points. City Railways 5s A eased a fraction to 60.

Dredging issues which have been enjoying some attention during the last few days were soft with the rest of the list. Great Lakes fell 7⅜ on an odd lot sale. Pressure on the Standard Dredging issues eased somewhat with a formal announcement by President R. A. Perry on 1929 earnings. Both the preferred and common dropped a fraction.

Estimates Earnings.

President Perry stated that the company's report for the year ended Dec. 31 will show earnings available for dividends of $1,093,000. This would be equivalent after preferred dividends to $1.98 a share on the common stock. Previous estimates had placed the earnings at $5 a share. It was stated that the unfavorable credit conditions which existed in the latter part of the year resulted in the suspension and delay of a number of contracts to the end that the anticipated earnings failed to materialize. Fitz Simons failed to respond to announcement that contracts of $500,000 had been received in the last two weeks.

Early strength in the investment group failed to last out the session. Burnham dropped nearly 2. About 22,000 shares of Chicago corporation changed hands and though reports were abroad of strong buying in the issue the price improved less than a point.

In the utility group, Cities Service and Inland Utilities edged up fractions. Inland yesterday announced the acquisition through a subsidiary of 6,091 acres of natural gas property in Kentucky. The gas acreage of the firm and subsidiaries show amounts to 21,389, officials reported.

In Good Demand.

Unit corporation preference stock was in good demand yesterday and at the close was up 2½ points. W. H. Schmidt, president, said that the first quarter of 1930 was the best in the company's history. Second quarter business should run ahead of last year, he said.

Motor shares moved with the rest of the list. Auburn dropped 7 on light sales. Bendix was soft while Borg Warner was up a fraction. Foote Gear was unchanged in the face of a statement by President W. C. Davis that new business last quarter was the largest in history.

Chicago Stock Seats Sell at High Level for Year

Two memberships on the Chicago stock exchange were sold yesterday. One seat sold for $44,000 and the other for $45,000, a new high for the year. The highest price a seat has brought since the membership dividend was $50,000. The exchange announced completion of plans for the extension of the ticker service to Akron, O.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

Good gains in gas stocks featured a firm Chicago curb session yesterday with United Gas leading the advance in a gain of a point to finish at 25⅞. Southern Natural Gas reached a new peak above 21. Chicago Rapid Transit securities were up on news of agreement on the car franchise, the common stock gaining fractionally and the debentures spurting nearly two on a turnover of $10,000.

CASH GRAIN NEWS

Large Argentine shipments and fears of rain in the American southwest caused foreign buyers of wheat to go slow, and while there was a little business in hard winters at the gulf at 1½c over Chicago May, the quantity was not given, and the general demand was slow. Local handlers sold 20,000 bu wheat, 65,000 bu corn, 36,000 bu oats, and 425,000 bu rye to the domestic trade. Charters were made for the rye to go to Buffalo, shipment at opening of lake navigation.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP)—Cotton goods are being bought very moderately and chiefly for nearby shipment. Raw silk is unsettled and in far eastern markets and quiet here. Silk goods are quiet. Sales of wool goods for men's and women's wear are of a filling in character. Burlaps were little changed for the day.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat traders were good buyers of "bids" at the close on late reports of scattered rains over the southwest. Should official reports today confirm private advices and indicate an actual breaking of the drought it was said that prices might recede moderately. There was an undercurrent of bullishness, however, based on the belief that there has been considerable damage already in Kansas and Oklahoma which will materially reduce crop estimates. It will be no surprise to see Liverpool come lower, which might cause selling and an early decline. The disposition on the whole is to buy on all good breaks.

A Board of Trade membership sold yesterday at $17,000 net to the buyer. John W. McGraw was the seller.

"Action of the wheat market suggests that the recent advance has discounted any deterioration which may have occurred to date and that prices are marking time, awaiting development of the next ten days with respect to weather," says S. C. Harris.

TELLS OF GROWTH

CITES PROGRESS IN RESCUE FROM FINANCE PLIGHT

Work on the assessment revisions of tax warrants incident to the relief of Chicago's financial plight is progressing more rapidly than originally promised, said Philip R. Clarke, president of the Central Trust company, in addressing last night the Chicago alumni of the Harvard business school at the H-Y-P club. By midsummer a steady income to the city should be assured, he declared.

Mr. Clarke traced the growth of Chicago's credit facilities during recent years until now, he pointed out, Chicago banks finance issues of any size and market securities quickly and cheaply.

Spot butter was in good demand and prices slightly higher in the early trading. Fresh eggs sold at former prices. Live hens and old roosters were 1c lower with receipts limited. Potatoes advanced 5@10c. Receipts, 74 cars, with 329 cars on team track.

COTTON PRICES LOWER

Numerous influences were at work yesterday in the cotton market and prices covered a liberal range. Reports from various interests suggest that there will be comparatively little reduction in acreage this season. Weather was generally clear, warm, and favorable for field work over practically all the belt and sales of fertilizer during March are reported to be 11.2 per cent under last year. Co-ops are said to be in control of the near months, May and July, which were stronger than most of the deferred deliveries. Liverpool was 5 to 8 points net lower with spot sales 6,000 bales.

At the close futures in Chicago were 2 to 15 points lower, the eastern markets near deliveries were 7 to 10 points lower and distant months 14 to 18 points lower. Spots in New York lost 10 points to 16.55c, New Orleans dropped 5 points to 15.95c, Houston was 16.10c and Galveston 16.20c. Prices follow:
